REPUBLICANS AGREE ON GRADUATED PLAN FOR INCOME TAX

Gov. Smith Sends Emergency Message, Allowing Adjournment Next Saturday.

INDUSTRIAL BILLS DOOMED

Health Insurance, Minimum Wage, Hydroelectric, and Municipal Ownership Fail.

CONVENTION BILL IS DEAD

Revised Income Tax Provides 1% Rate on Amounts Below $10,000, 3% Over $15,000.

Special to The New York Times.

ALBANY, April 17.—Governor Smith has decided to accept defeat of the various measures of his legislative program, including the social welfare bills affecting women and minors in the industries, at the hands of the Assembly, and final adjournment on Saturday now seems assured.

When the Senate and Assembly reconvened this morning the Governor had it absolutely in his power to let the Legislature end its labors this week or to prolong the session for another week at least, even though there was in prospect a break in the ranks of Republican insurgents which would have restored the party status quo in the upper house, so far as actual control was concerned. The tax measures which are essential to carrying on the activities of the State through the next fiscal year had been amended, and, under the Constitution, could not be taken up until Tuesday of next week, except with an emergency message from Governor Smith certifying to the immediate necessity of their passage.

Such a message the Governor has now agreed to give the legislative leaders on condition that the State Income Tax bill be passed by an equally balanced bipartison vote so as to eliminate this none too popular measure as a political issue in the next Gubernatorial campaign, as well as in the Assembly campaigns this fall. Both the Republican and the Democratic leaders saw the advantage of this in a situation where the Governor is a Democrat and the Legislature Republican. So it is understood tonight that the Income Tax bill, which will be brought up tomorrow or early on Saturday, will pass by a unanimous vote in both the Senate and Assembly.

Before giving assent to the program proposed by the legislative leaders, Governor Smith had learned that Speaker Sweet could not be budged from his opposition to the social welfare bills, some of which had already met defeat in the Assembly, and that the House would stand pat to the bitter end in the attitude it had taken. After defeating the Minimum Wage and Eight-Hour Day bill yesterday, the Assembly voted today not to let the State Health Insurance bill and the Graves Hydroelectric bill out of the Rules Committee. The House will go to the bat tomorrow on the Fowler municipal ownership measure with the purpose of administering similar treatment to it. The motion to take the Health Insurance bill away from the Rules Committee was defeated by a vote of 84 to 58, while the vote on a similar motion in relation to the Hydroelectric bill was 80 to 55, indicating that insurging Republican Assemblymen had been whipped back into line.

The tax program in its final form was decided upon at a conference of the Republican Senators, which lasted until 3 o'clock this morning, and this afternoon received the sanction of Speaker Sweet, which in these days is sufficient guarantee that the bills will pass the House. The State Income Tax bill has been materially revised. Instead of a tax of 2 per cent., as provided in the original measure, the revised form provides for a graduated tax of 1 per cent. on incomes below $10.000, 2 per cent. on incomes ranging from $10,000 to $15,000, and 3 per cent. on incomes in excess of that amount. The tax will be levied against the amounts returned in the reports to the Federal Tax Collector, but the State authorities will require a separate subsequent statement on all incomes from stocks and bonds against which, under the Federal law, the tax is levied at the source. The exemptions will be the same as under the Federal law—$1,000 in the case of unmarried persons and $2,000 in the case of married persons, with additional exemptions of $200 for each minor child or other dependent.

The legislative leaders expect to be able to raise $45,000,000 under the graduated income tax plan. The proceeds will be divided equally between the States and the localities where the tax is collected. In the case of the cities they will receive the money direct; the towns will receive credits. With incomes from stocks and bonds taxed under this bill, the present investment tax will cease to operate.

The tax on corporations—the mercantile and manufacturing corporation act of last year, broadened so as to include all business corporations—with the rate of the tax on the net income of such concerns increased from 3 to 4½ per cent., the legislative leaders believe, will yield approximately $18,000,000. In addition there is a bill providing for one-half of 1 per cent tax on tangible prop-

Mr. Taft Cables Approval of Monroe Doctrine Clause

By CHARLES H. GRASTY.

Copyright, 1919, by The New York Times Company
Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

PARIS, April 17.—On April 11 Oscar S. Straus cabled the text of the Monroe Doctrine amendment to the peace covenant to ex-President Taft. On April 13 he received a cablegram from Mr. Taft and A. Lawrence Lowell, indicating the necessity of the Monroe Doctrine provision. This caused disquietude, owing to uncertainty whether their comment referred to the amendment.

Mr. Straus then cabled Mr. Taft that he regarded the amendment as entirely satisfactory. Today the following answer was received: "Monroe clause eminently satisfactory."

Mr. Straus communicated this message to President Wilson, who was much gratified.

GERMAN AGENT SETS TRANSPORT AFIRE

Representative of Owners on German Ship Patricia Puts 3,000 Soldiers in Peril.

CAPTURED, PUT IN IRONS

Chief Hamburg-American Representative Insists Man Is Demented—Crew Saves Ship.

BOSTON, April 17.—Julius Fischer, an agent of the Hamburg-American Steamship Line, set fire to a stateroom of the transport Patricia on Tuesday night, while the vessel was steaming to this port with nearly 3,000 American soldiers. The fire was extinguished by members of the crew and Fischer was placed in irons.

The Patricia hails from Hamburg and is one of the first of the German merchant fleet to be turned over for use by the United States according to an agreement with Germany. Fischer is one of several Germans who were allowed to remain on board the liners to represent the vessel's owners.

The German was taken to the naval hospital tonight for observation. Other German agents and a number of American officers on the Patricia said that Fischer began to act strangely when the steamer was four days out of Brest, and that he was confined in a stateroom, under guard. Ernest Weimmer, chief of the German agents, insisted that Fischer was mentally unbalanced when he set the fire.

Major Frank W. Cavanaugh, former Dartmouth football coach, said that the doughboys had an exciting few minutes when it was learned that a German had set fire to the ship and that members of the crew were fighting the blaze.

"We had no idea at the time," he said, "how serious the fire was. The German kept out of sight for the remainder of the voyage."

Fischer, according to Major Cavanaugh, set the fire by manipulating electrical wires when the man who was guarding his stateroom went to another part of the ship. When the guard returned he found that Fischer had locked himself in the room and that smoke was coming from the openings along the door.

The guard yelled at Fischer and received no response. He called members of the crew, who smashed down the stateroom door and flooded the room with water and chemicals. The bed clothing and the woodwork in a corner of the cabin were burned. Fischer was standing in the stateroom, apparently unconcerned. Officers were unable to obtain an explanation from him.

Captain Charles S. Winsor of the Patricia said that the first time it was noticed that Fischer was not acting normally was when he threw overboard a silver cigarette case, loaned him by an American Captain. The officer had offered the German a cigarette. Fischer ran to his stateroom after this act and returned with dollar bill which he attempted to give to the American.

Later, Captain Windsor said, Fischer violently abused anything American. The Germans had free run of the vessel, and except for Fischer, caused no trouble.

The Patricia was met in the harbor by naval vessels and craft carrying official welcoming committees and relatives of soldiers. A delegation from Rhode Island on board the ferry boat John H. Sullivan met with misfortune. This craft so sooner had reached the Patricia's side than the transport lifted anchor from Quarantine and steamed to its berth.

At Commonwealth Pier the ferry boat was unable to hold its place in the parade up the harbor and fell far astern. A band on board kept playing "The Gang's All Here."

The harbor reception was carried out in a drizzle, and the atmosphere was so heavy that it was necessary to steam close to the Patricia to obtain a good view of the hundreds of troops who leaned over the rails and shouted that they were glad to be home.

Major Gen. Clarence R. Edwards went down to the harbor on a scout patrol boat to greet what he termed the "suicide squads" of the 26th Division. The ship brought home the 102d and 103d Machine Gun Battalions.

BURLESON MOVES FOR PHONE PARLEY; CALL TO OUST HIM

Presents Striking Operators' Grievances Himself to Manager at Boston.

APPEAL SENT TO WILSON

SUBSTITUTES ARE ATTACKED

Big Majorities Being Recorded in Electrical Workers' Vote for a National Strike.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, April 17.—Acting "for these telephone girls myself," as he put it, Postmaster General Burleson today placed before General Manager William R. Driver, Jr., of the New England Telephone Company the wage demands of the striking employes in Boston and elsewhere in the company's zone of operations. This presentation of the grievances through the prescribed routine had been demanded, ever since the strike began, by the Wire Board of the Post Office Department, but up to this time the employes had not responded to the request.

At the same time that Mr. Burleson sent the application made by the strikers for a new wage adjustment he notified Mr. Driver that, following bargaining with the employes, the Wire Board would pass upon Mr. Driver's subsequent recommendations on or before May 10.

The statement which the Postmaster General issued, and along the lines of which he directed Mr. Driver to proceed, follows:

"It is preposterous that the telephone service in New England should be tied up as it is and unthinkable that the great business interests of that section should continue to be strangled by a continuance of this condition. The telephone operatives for reasons which are inexplicable to me have refused to take steps to put the machinery in motion through which this situation may be relieved.

"The General Manager of the New England companies, Mr. Driver, cannot act without something in the way of an application for a readjustment of the wage scale before him. Thus matters are brought to a deadlock.

"I have concluded to act for these telephone girls myself and have placed before Mr. Driver their application for wage adjustment with instructions that he is to notify the employes at once that every opportunity for a full hearing and discussion of the same on its merits will be accorded either to the individual employe or to them collectively, so that they may be given the full benefit of all methods of bargaining with assurance that action will be taken by the Wire Control Board on Mr. Driver's recommendation on or before May 10 next.

"I have instructed Mr. Driver to act at once upon receiving assurance that the striking employes will immediately return to work in order that the distress to the public and injury to business interests may be promptly brought to an end."

John C. Koons, Assistant Postmaster General and Chairman of the Wire Control Board, who had contemplated a trip to Boston to intervene in the strike, remains in Washington awaiting further developments.

Secretary Tumulty sent another appeal today to Miss Julia O'Connor, leader of the striking operators, assuring her that under Mr. Burleson's plan their grievances would be heard and decided promptly.

Ask Wilson to Oust Burleson.

BOSTON, April 17.—Another appeal in regard to the telephone strike was made to President Wilson this afternoon. Francis J. Finneran, President of the Democratic Club of Massachusetts, and eleven members of the Legislature cabled to Paris a request that the Postmaster General be removed from office. The message read:

"Burleson wrecking the party. Remove him and settle this strike."

The decision of Postmaster General Burleson to place before General Manager Driver the wage demands of the striking operators was made known to the strikers in a letter from Mr. Driver tonight. He asked the strikers' representatives to meeet him "at an early hour" for a preliminary discussion, which "should terminate the present deplorable situation."

The letter was sent to Miss Mary E. June, Miss May Mahoney and Miss Bridie Powers of the Boston Operators' Committee, and Miss Helen Moran of Lowell, representing the organized operators outside the Boston district.

Student Substitutes Attacked.

The first violence in connection with the strike occurred tonight, when a number of students at the Massachusetts Institute of Technology who had worked during the day at the main exchange of the Telephone Company were roughly handled by strike sympathizers.

One student had several teeth knocked out and escaped from a crowd of operators and men sympathizers by running into a restaurant on Washington street. Police prevented members of the crowd from following him into the restaurant. Three students were pushed

Threat to Stop Food Supplies Sobers People of Vienna

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

VIENNA, April 17.—Colonel Cunningham's recent announcement that the Entente would suspend food supplies in case of political disorders is exercising a calming effect upon the Vienna population, especially as large American shipments continue to arrive. The election to the Workmen's Council has been postponed until after Easter.

Further demands are being made by the Italians for numerous rare manuscripts from the Archbishopric of Salzburg and the Tyrolean Convent Hall, as well as for a collection of 200 manuscripts from the Imperial Library in Vienna formerly belonging to Foscarini, the Venetian Doge. Demonstrations of protests against the Italian demands are of daily occurrence.

MAKE TRUCE OFFER IN HARBOR STRIKE

HYLAN PLEADS FOR PEACE

Former Negro Soldiers of Hayward's Regiment Replace Strikers at Terminal.

Leaders of the harbor strike, which now involves about 5,000 men, proposed at a conference called by Federal Conciliator James L. Hughes yesterday that the boatmen should go back to work at once and that all issues between them and the private boat owners should be settled by a joint conference of four men from each side and a ninth man to be agreed upon by the eight.

The representatives of the private boat owners agreed at the meeting, which was held in the offices of Colonel H. S. Kerrick of the Army Transportation Service at 45 Broadway, to call a meeting of the boat owners today to decide whether they would accept the plan. In any case it is not likely to be rejected flatly, and the chances are strongly that the general harbor strike, now scheduled to take place at 6 o'clock tomorrow morning, will not occur then. The proposed general strike would involve workers on all railroad craft, and the leaders declare would tie up the harbor.

The meeting, which was presided over by Mayor Hylan, was called at the instance of Secretary of Labor Wilson to avert the renewal of the general harbor strike which was ordered because of the action of Regional Director A. H. Smith of the Railroad Administration in laying off harbor workers who refused to obey his orders to haul grain and coal boats because of an inter-union quarrel. Director Smith had let it be known previously that he would not quietly permit his orders to be canceled or modified by any other Government agency, and the conference made no effort yesterday to deal directly with the issue between the Railroad Administration and its employes which had resulted in the new strike order. If the strike is settled, however, this issue automatically disappears.

That more direct methods of dealing with labor difficulties in the Eastern region might be expected was indicated yesterday when discharged negro soldiers were hired at the Barclay Terminal to take the place of striking harbor workers. The men who struck belonged to the Port and Terminal Workers' organization, led by Paul Vaccarelli, and took action against the New York Central because an attempt had been made to move produce and perishable articles at night from the Barclay Terminal. About 100 negro soldiers, most of them men who had fought under Colonel William Hayward in the 369th Regiment, many of them wearing the Croix de Guerre and other decorations, were put to work yesterday. No attack was made on them. It was asserted at the New York Central offices that the men had been employed permanently and that the New York Central agent had refused several requests from strikers to put them back to work. It was said that this was the first instance, since railroads have been under Government operation, when strikebreakers have been used in the settlement of labor troubles.

Proposal of the Workers.

The proposal for settling the harbor strike was described as follows in an official statement on behalf of the conference:

The labor men represented by Messrs. Delahunty, Maher, Vaccarelli and Sarrell offered the private boat owners and agreed for the men to go back to work immediately at the old rate of pay and working conditions, the Mayor to designate the hours constituting the day's work that the men are to work until the question is finally decided by the committee.

A committee of nine is to be appointed, four selected by each side, and this committee to select the ninth man to determine the permanent daily hours of labor and on the increase in wages. If the eight members of this committee fail to agree upon or to select the ninth man, they consent and agree to leave the selection of the ninth man to the Mayor, and the decision of the committee will be final and binding upon both sides.

This decision is to be determined within thirty days and be official and binding upon both sides. All men on strike are to be returned to their former positions without prejudice. The old scale of wages means the scale

CALL SECRET PLENARY CONFERENCE TO TAKE UP LEAGUE NEXT WEEK; BIG FOUR WILL MEET THE GERMANS

VERSAILLES PLANS MADE

President and Premiers Will Deliver Treaty to the German Delegates.

TWO DAYS FOR QUESTIONS

But No Discussion of Terms—Delegates Will Then Return to Weimar for a Week's Debate.

LEAGUE HEADS THE TREATY

Order in Which the Subjects Will Be Taken Up Fully Arranged.

PARIS, April 17, (Associated Press.)—The procedure on the arrival of the German plenipotentiaries at Versailles has virtually been concluded.

It will be President Wilson and the Premiers who will hold the first meeting and deliver the treaty, as it is not deemed feasible to have all the allied powers attend this first session.

The actual arrival of the Germans at Versailles, it is stated, will be on Friday night, April 25, but the meeting with the President and Premiers will not be held until Saturday, and may even go over until Monday.

After the treaty is actually delivered, it is intended to allow adequate time for the Germans to make inquiries concerning the various details before returning to Weimar. This is expected to take about two days, the first day being devoted by the Germans to familiarizing themselves with the terms, and the second day to the answering of such queries as they may make.

There is no purpose to have this assume the character of a discussion, but merely the elucidation of any points which may assist in securing prompt and favorable action when the plenipotentiaries return to Weimar.

It is believed that the stay of the plenipotentiaries at Weimar will cover a week, thus bringing them back to Versailles about May 8 to 10. This, however, is conjectural, for it is dependent upon the rapidity of the decisions reached at Weimar.

Final Form of Treaty.

The drafting of the final form of the peace treaty is proceeding rapidly in order to have it ready for presentation to the German delegates when they arrive at Versailles a week hence.

The document, as framed, begins with an introduction in the form of a protocol, setting forth the complete list of belligerent powers taking part in the war and now making peace, with the designation of plenipotentiaries of each country and with their power to sign.

Then comes a declaration, of impressive brevity, not exceeding thirty words, stating that on the conclusion of the treaty and the exchange of ratifications the war shall come to an end.

Following upon the declaration of peace the present intention of the peace delegates is to have the covenant of the League of Nations occupy the place of honor in the treaty and to be the first subject treated in detail. It will thus take the priority it had in the program of the Peace Conference.

Order of Other Subjects.

Then, in succession, will follow the military, naval, and aerial terms, reparations, responsibilities, the Rhine frontier, the Sarre region, Alsace-Lorraine, Poland, the status of Danzig as an international port, Germany's Schleswig-Holstein frontier, and a large number of special subjects, including the labor convention adopted at the last plenary session of the conference, international ports and waterways, and extended economic and financial provisions not directly connected with reparations.

The textual form of all these subdivisions has been completed, so that the work at present going on is chiefly fitting together the parts into a homogeneous whole. This is being done by international experts representing the five great powers. Their work is largely formal, as the Council of Four and the commissions have adopted the language of the various parts now being fitted together.

It is estimated that the treaty as a whole will exceed 70,000 words, or the contents of a large, closely printed volume. The text is being prepared in French and English, and, as a means of expediting action, a German text may be prepared, though it is foreseen that the German plenipo-

Wilson Receives a String of Peace Callers, Four an Hour, from All Quarters of the World

PARIS, April 17.—With no meeting of the Council of Four today, President Wilson devoted the entire day to a series of appointments, beginning at 10 o'clock with the Chinese delegation to the Peace Conference and ending after 5 o'clock with Frank P. Walsh, a member of the delegation sent by Irish societies in America to plead the cause of Ireland.

The program for the day had been planned carefully, the President receiving some one every fifteen minutes. Among those received were a French delegation which wanted to see the President about the left bank of the Rhine; the Foreign Minister of Switzerland, a delegate from Chaldea, two American women labor leaders, the Patriarch of Constantinople, Premier Bratiano of Rumania, Premier Pachitch of Serbia, the Portuguese Minister of Foreign Affairs, and many others who desired to discuss the problems of their countries.

Secretary Baker was the guest of President Wilson at luncheon in the Paris "White House" today. The President also received Herbert C. Hoover, the Food Administrator, the two having a brief conference.

During the day President Wilson was made an honorary citizen of San Marino. The Chargé d'Affaires of San Marino called at the Presidential residence and handed the President a certificate of honorary citizenship conferred upon him by the little republic.

WILL FEED RUSSIA, BUT REQUIRE PEACE

Allies Refuse to Adopt Nansen's Plan Unless Hostilities Entirely Cease.

INSIST ON BELGIAN BASIS

Food Must Reach Hungry—Lenine Willing to Stop Fighting if Food Is Sent.

PARIS, April 17, (Associated Press.)—The allied and associated powers are prepared to aid in the relief of Russia with foodstuffs, medical supplies, and other necessaries, provided there is a cessation of hostilities "within definite lines in the territory of Russia." This fact became known today in correspondence which has passed between Dr. Fridtjof Nansen, head of the commission appointed to feed Russia, and President Wilson and Premiers Clemenceau, Lloyd George, and Orlando.

Dr. Nansen in his appeal to the Council of Four for aid in bringing relief to Russia, where he said thousands of persons were dying monthly from sheer starvation and disease, suggested a neutral and "purely humanitarian committee" for the purpose. The Council of Four in reply recognized with sympathy the situation in Russia and gave assurance of its readiness to succor the stricken people of Russia along the lines that Belgium was fed and ministered to, but with the fundamental proposition that a cessation of hostilities would be brought about.

Premier Clemenceau withheld his approval of the proposition temporarily, but added his signature today to those of Premiers Orlando and Lloyd George and President Wilson, thus practically assuring the immediate economic relief of Soviet Russia, as Lenine is known to be willing to accept food on the conditions outlined by Dr. Fridtjof Nansen and discussed with the Bolsheviki by various neutral representatives at Moscow.

While the plan is divorced from politics, it is generally believed by the Entente Powers that it will eventually restore order and enable Russia to banish chaos.

Dr. Nansen's letter said:

"The present food situation in Russia, where hundreds of thousands of people are dying monthly from sheer starvation and disease, is one of the problems now uppermost in all men's minds. As it appears that no solution of this food question has so far been reached in any delegation, I would like to make a suggestion from a neutral point of view for the benefit of this gigantic misery, on purely humanitarian grounds.

"It would appear to me possible to organize a purely humanitarian committee for the provisioning of Russia, the foodstuffs and medical supplies to be paid for, perhaps, to some considerable extent, by Russia itself, the justice of distribution to be guaranteed by a committee. The general makeup of the commission would be comprised of Norwegians, Swedish, and possibly Dutch, Danish, and Swiss nationalities.

"It does not appear that the existing authorities in Russia would refuse the intervention of such a committee of a wholly nonpolitical order, devoted solely to the humanitarian service of saving life. If thus organized upon the lines of the Belgian Relief Committee, it would raise no question of political recognition or negotiations between the Allies with the existing authorities in Russia.

"I recognize keenly the large political issues involved, and I would be glad to know under what conditions such an enterprise would be approved, and whether such a committee could look for real support in finance and shipping

ANARCHIST RULES AS MUNICH CHIEF

Sontheimer Is Set Up as President and Garrison Accepts His Authority.

ARMY ON WAY TO ATTACK

Force Assembled by the Hoffmann Government Will Assault Reds' Stronghold.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

COPENHAGEN, April 16.—Whatever may have happened during the recent revolutions in Munich, the upshot seems to be that the final, if somewhat precarious, mastery has been obtained by the most extreme Bolshevist elements.

As President there has been chosen an anarchist named Sontheimer, who is advised by Dr. Lewien, who seems to have turned up again, and by another Russian "expert," Axelrod, both of whom had previously figured in revolutions. The whole garrison has recognized this new Government and placed itself under its orders, and the city is quiet for the moment, as all uprisings have been temporarily suppressed.

The main railway station has been completely wrecked, after heavy fighting, in which some 150 persons were killed. As soon as the street fighting ceased the mob turned its attention to plundering. Food depots and wine cellars were ransacked and the contents distributed according to rough-and-ready communal principles.

Meanwhile a revolutionary tribunal is working at full pressure, and all who by speech, writing, or act oppose the new régime are tried by summary procedure. Many journalists, in the grim phrase of the Berlin correspondent of the National Tidende, have been put out of action.

The Hoffmann Government at Bamberg is now putting all its hopes on its War Minister, Schweppenhorst, who has collected a considerable army, well supplied with artillery and bomb throwers, which is said to be on its way to Munich. It is doubtful whether the upper hand can be obtained without calling in aid from Prussia, and this might not have a good effect in Bavaria.

Reds Seek Food from Italy.

BERLIN, April 16, (Associated Press.)—The Communist Government in Munich is reported to have opened negotiations with Italy by which valuable woodlands belonging to Munich would be pledged for a loan of 1,000,000,000 marks with which to buy food.

Railroad communication between Berlin and Munich has ceased. Bamberg, which is still the seat of the Hoffmann Government, is also cut off from Munich. The troops apparently have been successful in confining the insurrection to Munich.

FOUR DEAD IN CLASHES WITH MILAN SOCIALISTS

Offices of a Socialist Newspaper Are Wrecked—Strikes in Big Italian Cities.

MILAN, April 17.—Four persons were killed and several wounded during disorders here yesterday incident to clashes between Socialist and anti-Socialist groups.

The police and the military were powerless for a time to prevent collisions between the groups.

The anti-Socialists went to the offices of the Socialist newspaper Avanti and a revolver shot fired from a window of the building killed a soldier. The opposition crowd rushed into the building and smashed the furniture and machinery. Military reinforcements restored order.

The workmen of Milan, Bologna, Turin, and Genoa, the principal manufacturing cities of Northern Italy, began a twenty-four hour strike today.

SHANTUNG AGREEMENT NEAR

Japan Called In on Question by Big Four—Allies Will Finance Feeding of Russia.

TO TAX GERMAN PROSPERITY

Commission Will Take a Share Annually for the Payment of Indemnity.

By RICHARD V. OULAHAN.

Copyright, 1919, by The New York Times Company.
By Wireless and Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

PARIS, April 17.—Plenary sessions of the Peace Conference will be held next week, probably Wednesday and Thursday, to consider the revised covenant of the League of Nations and reports from the Commissions on Responsibility for the War, embracing recommendations for the trial of the former Kaiser; reparations, including the plan to assess Germany annually for a long term of years, and ports, waterways, and railways, dealing with the neutralization of the entrances to the Baltic and the control of Heligoland Harbor.

Contrary to the practice in the three previous plenary sessions, those of next week will be secret. The reason given for secrecy is that drafts of the peace treaty articles which are still confidential will be considered.

Next week, also, Messrs. Wilson, Clemenceau, Lloyd George, Orlando, and Chinda will consider the disposition of the Chinese Peninsula of Shantung, which Japan wrested from Germany. This is a delicate question, as it involves the Chinese claim to restoration of this territory. A feeling that a solution satisfactory to everybody concerned is not unlikely exists here.

Announcement was made tonight that Messrs. Wilson, Clemenceau, Lloyd George, and Orlando, in behalf of their Governments, had accepted Dr. Nansen's plan to feed starving Russia through a committee of the northern neutral nations.

The four great powers agree to furnish financial support, but will not participate, on account of political reasons, in the administration of the enterprise, except to the extent of assuring supplies to the Nansen committee.

The Big Four suggest that the Russians themselves should handle the distribution. This is regarded as having the deepest significance.

Work on Peace Treaty Rapid.

April 16.—The draft of the peace treaty with Germany is rapidly being perfected. Many of the several sections into which the treaty is to be divided are already completed. The greatest progress has been made in the last week or so. This is attributed to two causes: First, President Wilson's significant action in ordering the George Washington to return to France immediately; second, the action of the Council of Four in fixing April 25 as the date for the appearance of the German plenipotentiaries at Versailles, which means that the treaty must be in shape by that time down to the crossing of the last "t" and the dotting of the last "i."

The general decisions of the Council of Four on each particular phase of the treaty provisions have become known coincidentally, and these decisions have been chronicled in the Paris dispatches to THE NEW YORK TIMES. The details of several important sections have been disclosed in paraphrase.

It is evidently the desire of the enemies of Clemenceau and Lloyd George to have it appear through publication of the exact language of the agreement reached that they failed to carry out the promises to compel Germany to pay the entire cost of the war. This effort is quite in line with the obvious intent to drive a wedge into the good understanding that has been reached between America and Great Britain through their close association in the Peace Conference. Whatever may be the surface sentiment, it is clear that deep down in their hearts the statesmen of the world know that America and Great Britain have come through the war in a better position to secure future peace than any other combination of nations and that their support of the peace terms is absolutely essential to bringing the world back to normal and keeping it so.

Only President Wilson can say whether he likes Lloyd George. Only the British Prime Minister can say whether he likes President Wilson. But, whether they like each other or not, the fact remains that during the most trying times experienced here in Paris the last several months Wilson and Lloyd George have stood together generally for the ratification of the big principles that are expected to make the world a better place in which to live.

The end of the war leaves America and Great Britain as the only creditor nations among the belligerent Governments. Put in another way: They are the only Great Powers which have emerged from the world conflict with money in their purses, or the means to get it. An exception might perhaps be made among the belligerents in the case of Japan; but it's too early yet to define Japan's future position as a creditor nation.

In this connection, it is proper to say that Japan's attitude in the Peace Conference is bringing favorable comment from the American officials. Japan's practice of sitting back as a silent spectator during the deliberations of those representing the great belligerent powers excited some suspicion at first. It suggested Oriental inscrutability—an unwillingness to be frank—a hold-offishness incomprehensible to the Occidental mind. But now there seems to be a clearer understanding of the Japanese position.

If the Japanese plenipotentiaries have gauged President Wilson's general attitude toward their country by the opposition to Japanese coolie labor in the United States, they will have sadly misjudged the President. His disposition toward them and their sensibilities is most kindly. If these plenipotentiaries could hear the complimentary remarks made in American high quarters concerning their bearing in the peace negotiations, they would be able better to inform their people of the intense desire of the Government of the United States to maintain the friendliest relations with Japan and her people.

Efforts to Hamper Agreement.

But returning to the Anglo-American relationship as developed in the peace negotiations. It is obvious that all the other nationalities that fear a future truculent Germany look to America and Great Britain to see to it that the new Germany does not dare to enter again upon a career of world conquest. America and Great Britain have money to support large armies and fleets, and to finance the nations which have suffered most by the war. Yet, in spite of this knowledge and the additional conviction that both America and Great Britain are anxious to do everything within reason to make the future of the world secure, persistent attempts have been in progress to hamper their effort to bring peace as quickly as possible.

It is no secret that President Wilson believes—and in this he is supported by those business men and others who have been called to Paris to help him in restoring the world to normal—that a prostrate Germany—an enslaved Germany—a Germany torn apart territorially without regard to the principle of self-determination—will furnish a hotbed for hatred, bound to bring on future wars. He soon learned, after arriving here, that with a Germany disciplined as it was intended to discipline her—economically, territorially, and in a military sense—she would be in no position to meet the demand that she pay the entire war expenses of her enemies. But he has apparently always subscribed to the principle that Germany—or what is left of Germany—should be made to pay all she could stand without subjecting her people to a species of serfdom.

What Germany Will Pay.

A compromise on the conflicting proposals for financial settlements has been reached along this line. Germany is to be made to pay "every cent the traffic will bear." The damages she inflicted are to be set forth in the Peace Treaty under six categories. Within two years after the treaty is concluded she must pay about $5,000,000,000 cash. By May 1, 1921, an allied commission is to report how much she owes the Allies under the six categories. Allied commissions will meet annually and assess Germany on her national annual earnings. The amount of actual total reparational damages is not stated, but estimates as to how much Germany will ultimately have to pay vary from $25,000,000,000 to $60,000,000,000.

The lesser sum is evidently being exploited in the effort to show that Clemenceau and Lloyd George have wholly failed to keep their pledges to make Germany pay the Allies their entire war expenses, which range from the British estimate of $120,000,000,000 to the French estimate of about $200,000,000,000. The more Germany earns in any one year, the more she will have to pay that year. Thus the Allies are in the position of compelling their arch-enemy to share her prosperity with them. Under the other methods proposed, Germany would be placed practically in the position of inability to make profits, while at the same time being required to pledge herself to pay the Allies sums she did not possess and could not earn.

The fight against this mode of settlement still keeps up but with less spirit. It is very generally realized that it is based partly on partisan political considerations, with which America has no concern. On the whole, the American peace contingent is very well satisfied with the compromise arrangement as to reparation, and believes the European allies will in time come to realize that it makes for the good of the world and for future peace.

Length of Peace Treaty.

Estimates as to the length of the German peace treaty are still indefinite, ranging from 75,000 to 150,000 words. A careful effort to get some idea of the number of words in each section to be embraced in the Peace Convention shows that the sections already drafted, or nearly so, will comprise about 61,300 words, not inclusive of some long tables to be embodied in this, the most important document ever produced in the world's history.

Estimates obtained from various informed sources indicate that the length of each section so far completed will be approximately as follows:

League of Nations covenant, 6,000 words; section dealing with the responsibility of the ex-Kaiser and other matters affecting responsibilities for the war, 700 words; agreement for amelioration of international labor conditions and that section dealing with the ports and waterways, 6,000 words; section defining the economic arrangements between the Allies and for the government of enemy countries in their trade relations with the rest of the world, 21,000 words; section dealing with enemy military restrictions, 7,000 words, plus tabulated forms covering considerable documentary space; section dealing with naval and air provisions, 5,000 words; reparations section, 3,600 words; sections dealing with boundaries of enemy countries, 10,400 words; eight miscellaneous clauses, 1,000 words.

Some of these miscellaneous clauses will deal with the opium trade—revision of the treaty of 1839, which guaranteed Belgian neutrality, and the binding of Germany to accept the decisions of naval prize courts. One clause will abrogate the German claims to territory in the Antarctic region. Two clauses will bind Germany to accept the treaty agreements made by the Allies with Russia and the powers associated with Germany in the war.

Signatures by June.

How much time will be consumed in deliberations after the German plenipotentiaries receive the draft of the treaty is problematical. Many comparatively minor paragraphs of which the public is unaware are likely to bring determined opposition from the Germans. One of these is the clause binding Germany to accept the allied prize court decisions. This comprises only about sixty lines, but as it affects the fate of the entire German merchant marine, it is obvious that it will not be assented to without a struggle.

Granting—in the face of some doubt—that the German plenipotentiaries will receive the treaty draft on the date set, April 25, they will probably be given from five days to a week to discuss its terms informally with the Council of Four. This brings us to May 1. Then—if the present understanding is carried out—the enemy emissaries will be permitted, if they so request, to take the treaty away for consideration by the Berlin Government or the Weimar National Assembly. This will certainly consume at least a week.

The date on which the German delegates must return to Versailles with final instructions will be fixed by the Big Four. Should they return to Versailles on May 10, the formal conferences will be begun then. How long they will last will depend on circumstances. It is conceivable that conditions may make the allied chiefs willing to hear every phase of German objection. In that event the exchanges at Versailles may not be completed until June 7. The opinion is very general here that unless the Big Four decide to impose peace by compulsion—the method exemplified in saying to the German plenipotentiaries "Sign here on the dotted line"—the treaty will not be concluded before June.

WANTS BARRIERS RAISED.

Wilson Plans Measures to Encourage Germany Pending Peace Signing

By CHARLES H. GRASTY.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

PARIS, April 17.—During the lull between the allied agreement and the German decision, President Wilson plans to inaugurate energetic measures for raising the embargoes and blockades, feeding the hungry, and putting the idle to work.

It is believed that the prospect of a return to normal conditions of life will greatly promote the acceptance of the peace terms.

GERMANY WANTS INDEMNITY.

Reported Seeking Damages for Air Attacks, Occupation, and Delay.

PARIS, April 17.—Germany intends to claim an indemnity from the Allies, according to the Frankfort Gazette.

The German negotiators at Versailles, that newspaper says, will ask payment for damages from aerial attacks, from the occupation of Germany territory by the allied troops, and from the delay in concluding peace, the latter being represented as causing a prolongation of the Bolshevist and Spartacide trouble.

HASTENING ITALY'S CASE.

Orlando Aims to Report Settlement to Parliament Next Week.

PARIS, April 17.—The Italian delegation to the Peace Conference is making a strong effort to obtain a decision in the dispute between Italy and Jugoslavia regarding the possession of Fiume and the Dalmatian coast before the end of the week.

As the Italian Chamber of Deputies meets April 24 and as Premier Orlando is expected to make a report to that body, it is said that he does not desire to return to Rome without the question, in which Italy is vitally interested, settled.

tentiaries may ask for a considerable time on a document of such magnitude.

Will Revise Belgian Treaty of 1839.

The Council of Five Foreign Ministers at a meeting today at the Foreign Office decided in favor of the revision of the Belgian treaty of 1839, which Dr. von Bethmann-Hollweg, the Imperial German Chancellor, made historic as "a scrap of paper."

Other questions, including restriction of the opium trade, acceptance by Germany of allied prize court decisions, treaties with Austria and Bulgaria, and questions for the ending of the state of war, were referred back to the Drafting Committee for minor changes.

The Moroccan and Egyptian questions were referred to the Reparations Committee.

A new commission was appointed today to consider the Kiel Canal. It consists of the present Commission on Waterways and additional naval experts of the Entente.

All the old commissions have completed their reports, except that on Poland, which is undoubtedly delayed because of the uncertainty of the eastern boundary of Germany.

Viscount Chinda of the Japanese delegation arranged today for his appearance before the Council of Four on Saturday on the Kiau-chau question, with a view to an adjustment with China, which shall be incorporated in the peace treaty. The American delegates believe that an accord will be reached whereby China will ultimately control Kiao-chau, with suitable recognition of Japan's efforts.

FEAR FRENCH STORM OVER PEACE TERMS

Sarre Settlement, Much Less Than Demanded, Not Yet Understood by Public.

INDEMNITY, TOO, MAY SHOCK

Disappointment Expected When People Learn Reparation Will Not Be Complete.

By CHARLES A. SELDEN.

Copyright, 1919, by The New York Times Company.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

PARIS, April 17.—The rumblings in the French Chamber and Senate and the threats of interpellations by the Socialists to compel Premier Clemenceau to tell Peace Conference secrets, very much as the British Parliament insisted on knowing the truth from Lloyd George, are deplored by French Government officials, chiefly because of two things:

First, there is a complication about the Sarre Valley settlement which Clemenceau has accepted from the Big Four that will not appeal to the French public.

Second, it is not thought wise by the officials that at this time the French people should know in full the disappointment in store for them in the matter of the money to be expected from Germany on account of war damages.

As to the Sarre settlement, it is much less than what Clemenceau and his Government tried to obtain. They declare that it contains the seeds of future conflict by imposing double sovereignty on the same territory, or at least leaving German sovereignty quiescent there for fifteen years, when it may be revived or ended by plebecite, while in the meantime the French have control under supervision of an international commission of five members. It is this imposing of an international commission upon them that French officials, including Clemenceau, resent as implying lack of faith in her fairness of administration. If America can be trusted with a mandate for Armenia and France, England, and Italy with other mandates in Asia Minor, held responsible only to the League of Nations, the French ask why a special watch should be placed over France in the Sarre Valley.

Terms of Sarre Settlement.

The terms of settlement in that valley as at present approved by the Big Four provide that France is to have the coal mines in fee simple and territorial administration until the plebecite period, fifteen years hence, but under control of a commission composed of one Frenchman, one Sarre Valley native, and three others, probably an American, an Englishman, and an Italian. This arrangement is not fully understood yet by the bulk of the French people, and it is taken for granted that when they do know they will resent it, partly as a reflection on their national integrity and capacity to deal fairly with the Sarre population and partly as a roundabout method, repugnant to the French idea of common sense and directness. They asked for the Sarre Valley outright, without restrictions or qualifications, primarily as reparation for the destruction by the Germans of their own coal mine property at Lens. What they have got is described as the fruit of a compromise between French needs and Wilson philosophy.

It goes without saying that Clemenceau wanted much more in this matter than Wilson and Lloyd George have allowed; but the French Premier is reported as far from feeling that he has got nothing for his country. Attention is called to the Morocco settlements a decade and a half ago, by which France apparently got very little, taking the terms of those agreements at their face value, but by an intelligent Moroccan policy in handling the natives she has so used her rights there as to become practically supreme in Morocco. It is the French official hope and expectation that the same result may be attained in the Sarre Valley in the next fifteen years, so that, when the time comes to decide, the population will vote overwhelmingly for annexation to France. Such a result will be kept in view throughout the period of French administration under the commission, and the expectation is further based on the fact that the Sarre Valley coal is the industrial complement of the Lorraine iron and on the assumption that victorious France will be able to hold out more inducements for annexation than defeated Germany.

But despite this official French tendency to make the most of what they have got and to be cheerful as to the future, there is still a French feeling that the Peace Conference has done a most risky thing to place this rich valley under such a régime that for fifteen years there will be one people constantly striving to get it permanently and another people constantly striving to get it back. If the French are right in their fears of a future conflict, there seems to be this situation—the dangers of a terra irredenta without any off-setting idea finally about it.

Reparation a Disappointment.

Another matter the French peacemakers do not want to tell their people too much about just now is the amount to be received in reparation. France, especially the farming country, does not yet realize that Germany will not and cannot be made to pay all the cost the war has put upon France. The Frenchman's idea of what constitutes fundamental justice is contained in Article 1,382 of the country's Civil Code, which provides that every one who wrongs a man shall be obliged to make full reparation. The idea of the French peasant farmer and industrial worker is that that article of their code applies to the case of Germany at the present time. No other idea is conceivable by them, and as a French Foreign Office member said to me today:

"Nobody has yet dared to tell the French people the whole truth of the outcome of reparation. They do not know yet that Germany can't pay, and that no effort is to be made by the Peace Conference to make her pay in full. The ruined peasant does not make fine distinctions between the words 'indemnity' and 'reparation.' He knows only two facts, that which the Civil Code under which he lives teaches him about—the penalty of wronging a man and the fact that France must now raise 22,000,000,000 francs a year to live on and rehabilitate herself, whereas before she lived on 5,000,000,000. The average Frenchman still assumes that Germany is to pay all that difference, instead of only a part of it. We do not fear revolution or Bolshevism as a result of the eventual awakening of the French public to the real situation, but it is a reasonably safe assumption that the next election in France will be a great victory for the extreme Left."

Socialist Proposes Resignations.

PARIS, April 17.—Albert Bedouce, Socialist member of the Chamber of Deputies from the Upper Garonne, is reported by Le Journal to have proposed to his Socialist colleagues that they resign in a body as a protest against the attitude of the Government in declining to outline to the Parliament the details of the peace preliminaries until the treaty has been signed. The Socialist groups in the Chamber of Deputies will immediately take up the question for decision, it is added.

The question of confidence in the Government came up in the Chamber of Deputies Wednesday on the question instanced in the foregoing and the Government was sustained by a vote of 334 to 166, the Chamber defeating also a demand for a secret sitting by 341 to 158. Another vote, on the order of the day, showed an even greater preponderance in the Government's favor, the vote being 363 to 126. The Socialist members have been foremost in demanding that the Government reveal to the Deputies the status of the peace negotiations.

PARIS SPECULATES ON PLEDGES TO FRANCE

Lloyd George's Commons Statement About Guarantees Given Causes Wide Comment.

PARIS, April 17, (Associated Press.)—Premier Lloyd George's statement in the British Parliament yesterday that France had received full guarantees against a renewal of German attacks is the first authoritative statement that such guarantees have been given, and arouses the keenest discussion regarding the nature of the guarantees, as affecting the United States and Great Britain. The French reports are that the guarantees amount to an alliance, and the semi-official Temps says:

"Premier Lloyd George's language admits of only one meaning. This is that Great Britain and the United States engage to sustain France in case she is again attacked by Germany. Such an alliance is legitimate and necessary. Lloyd George would not pronounce such words lightly, and his announcement is singularly instructive."

Other French reports describe the guarantees as in the nature of a casus foederis, whereby any failure of Germany to carry out the treaty would bring concerted action by France, Great Britain, and the United States.

The Council of Four, which framed the guarantees as part of the Rhine settlement, has thus far maintained a rigid silence, except for the general declaration of Mr. Lloyd George.

Copyright, 1919, by Chicago Tribune Co.

PARIS, April 17.—No alliance has been made between the United States and France. Clemenceau was merely reassured regarding future German aggression by President Wilson through the latter assuring the Premier that if the Germans invaded France in the future America would support France militarily through the League of Nations. It was only the explanation made by Wilson and Lloyd George to Clemenceau that gave rise to reports of a secret agreement.

DANIELS CROSSES RHINE.

Navy Secretary Inspects American Troops in German Fortress.

COBLENZ, April 17, (Associated Press.)—Josephus Daniels, Secretary of the Navy, crossed the Rhine this afternoon. He visited Ehrenbreitstein, on the opposite bank of the river from Coblenz, and, after inspecting the 17th Field Artillery quartered in this so-called Gibraltar of the Rhine the Secretary and his party proceeded to Neuwied as the guests of Major Gen. John A. Lejeune, commander of the 2d Division.

Secretary Daniels lunched with Major General Dickman and then began a sight-seeing trip which will last four days around the Coblenz bridgehead and nearby points. On the way to the occupied area the Secretary visited Château-Thierry, Verdun, and other battle fronts.

WILL FEED RUSSIA, BUT REQUIRE PEACE

and food and medical supplies from our Governments."

Reply Sent by the Allies.

The following reply was sent by President Wilson and the Premiers today:

"The misery and suffering in Russia described in your letter of April 3 appeals to the sympathies of all peoples. It is shocking to humanity that millions of men and women and children lack the food and nourishment which make life endurable.

"The Governments and peoples whom we represent would be glad to co-operate, without thought of political, military, or financial advantage, in any proposal which would relieve this situation in Russia. It seems to us that such a committee as you propose would offer a practical means of acquiring the benificent results you have in view and could not, either in its conception or its operation, be considered as having any other aim than the humanitarian purpose of saving life.

"There are great difficulties to be overcome, political difficulties given to the existing situation in Russia and difficulties of supply and of transport, but if the existing local governments of Russia are as willing as the Governments and peoples whom we represent to see succor and relief given to the stricken people of Russia, no political obstacle will remain.

"There will remain, however, the difficulties of supply, finance, and transport which we have mentioned, and also the problem of distribution in Russia itself. The problem of supply we can ourselves hope to solve in connection with the advice and co-operation of such a committee as proposed. The problem of finance would seem to us to fall upon the Russian authorities. The problem of transport of supplies to Russia we can hope to meet with the assistance of your own and neutral Governments, whose interests should be as great as our own and whose losses have been less.

Transport and Distribution.

"The problems of transportation in Russia and of distribution can be solved only by the people of Russia themselves, with the assistance, advice, and supervision of your commission. Subject to such supervision, the problem of distribution should be solely under the control of the people of Russia themselves. The people in each locality should be given, as under the régime of the Belgian Relief Commission, the fullest opportunity to advise your commission upon the methods and the personnel by which their community is to be relieved.

"In no other circumstances could it be believed that the purpose of this relief was humanitarian and not political. Under no other conditions could it be certain that the hungry would be fed.

"That such a course would involve the cessation of hostilities within definite lines in the territory of Russia is obvious, and the cessation of hostilities would necessarily involve a complete suspension of the transfer of troops and military material of all sorts to and within Russia's territory.

"Indeed, relief to Russia which did not mean a return to a state of peace would be futile and would be impossible to consider.

"Under such conditions as we have outlined we believe that your plan could be successfully carried into effect, and we should be prepared to give it our full support.

REDS CLAIM GAINS FROM SEA TO SEA

RESUME WAR ON FINNS

70,000 Persons from Riga Said to Have Been Herded on Island to be Exterminated.

LONDON, April 17.—Continued successes for Russian Soviet forces along almost the whole of the Western Russian front, from the Baltic to the Black Sea, are claimed in a Russian official wireless dispatch received here today.

West of Riga the Letts have been driven southward to within four miles of Mitau.

West of Proskurof the Bolsheviki have taken Volochysk, on the former Russian-Galician frontier, and within twenty-five miles of Tarnopol.

In the Crimea Soviet forces have crossed the Salt Lakes and advanced in the direction of Simferopol, the capital of the Crimea.

The statement reads:

We have compelled the enemy to withdraw across the frontier in the region of Lake Sander, north of Olonetz. On the whole of the Courland front the offensive continues to meet with success, especially in the region of Shotak, where the enemy's right has been cleared as far as four miles from Mitau.

We have captured Volochysk, on the Galician front, and the front of the forces of the Ukrainian Directory there has been cut in two. In the direction of Sarny, (north of Volochysk) the enemy is retiring southward, abandoning a great number of prisoners and wounded.

In the Crimea the Red Army has crossed the line of the Salt Lakes and occupied Tohukdihankoy. The offensive continues in the direction of Simferopol.

The mention by the Russian Soviet Government of fighting in the region north of Olonetz indicates that the Bolsheviki have resumed the campaign against the Finns. Olonetz is northeast of Petrograd and on the opposite side of Lake Ladoga.

WASHINGTON, April 17.—Interpellations in the Finnish Diet have brought a denial from the Prime Minister that Finland intended to intervene in Russia, it was said in official dispatches received here today from Helsingfors. In the meantime, however, information reaching Stockholm from Helsingfors declares that the Finnish voluntary corps has crossed the Russian frontier north of Ladoga for the purpose of safeguarding Finland's interests in Carelia. Rumors of bloody fighting have been circulating.

Masses of fugitives were said to be fleeing to Finland to escape brutal treatment by the increasing Bolshevist forces. Red Guards have crossed the Finnish frontier at the village of Hyrsyle in the parish of Salmi, plundering and burning.

STOCKHOLM, April 17.—The Bolsheviki are carrying out a rapid and systematic annihilation of all the bourgeois elements in Riga, according to reports from Libau to the Svenska Dagbladet.

The victims of the Bolshevist terror are taken to the Island of Hasen in the Dvina River and are said to number 70,000, including women and children. No one is permitted to take food or money to the island.

BOLSHEVIKI FILTERING WEST.

Laxity of Frontier Regulations, Especially in Poland, Is Noted.

VIENNA, April 16, (Associated Press.)—The spread of Bolshevist propaganda westward is being greatly favored by the laxity of frontier regulations, the most lax being those of Poland. Trains are now arriving at Budapest and Vienna from the east carrying numbers of agents supplied with all sorts of false passports and false money.

The observations of the correspondent show that the best-guarded frontier apparently is that of East Prussia, where the Bolsheviki are made to understand they are not welcome. Trains from Cracow into German Silesia and Bohemia, however, are filled with nondescript individuals from Russia whose papers are either not examined at all or are looked over most casually. Conditions are much the same as regards the trains entering Hungary by way of the Ukraine and East Galicia.

It is even asserted that notwithstanding the Italian restrictions entrance to Italy is not difficult because of the existence of a false passport factory at Trieste, where for a few hundred dollars passports are saidto be obtainable, good also for Jugoslavia. The Italian frontier, however, is now closed, to remain so until April 20.

The falsification of American passports is declared to be so common that the representatives of the American diplomatic service here, attached to the Spanish Embassy, states that it would be advisable to increase the difficulties of fraud by requiring the application of thumbprints to all original United States passports, as it is easy, it is claimed, to substitute new photographs and imitate the signatures.

LONDON HEARS OF MASSACRE.

1,800 Persons, Including 400 Women, Reported Slain at Ufa.

LONDON, April 17.—Eighteen hundred persons, including 400 women, were murdered by the Bolsheviki at Ufa, according to a telegram from Omsk received in official quarters here.

Ufa, one of the principal cities in the Orenburg district, near the Siberian border, was taken by the Bolsheviki early this Spring, but late in March was recaptured by forces of the Omsk All-Russian Government, which have continued to press back the Bolsheviki in this region. Dispatches from Omsk dated April 5 and received on Tuesday announced the massacre by the Bolsheviki of more than 2,000 civilians in and near the town of Usa, to the north of Ufa, in this district.

REDS BEING SUPPLANTED?

Copenhagen Hears of "New Bourgeoisie" Rising in Russia.

COPENHAGEN, April 17.—Bolshevism in Russia is giving way to a "new bourgeoisie," according to the Director of the Moscow Red Cross Committee, who has arrived here. Premier Lenine and War Minister Trotzky are trying to reach an understanding with the moderate elements in Russia.

The situation in Petrograd, the Director reports, has been growing worse, and numerous anti-Bolshevist outbreaks have occurred there. In February there were 83,000 deaths in Petrograd, compared with 123,000 in January.

AMERICAN SCOUTS ROUT A BOLSHEVIST PATROL

Thaw in the North Halts Transportation—Ice in the Rivers Breaking Up.

ARCHANGEL, April 16, (Associated Press.)—A small American scouting party operating in front of the allied positions along the railway front yesterday surprised and ambushed a Bolshevist patrol in the forest four miles east of the railway, wounding a number of the enemy.

The situation during the last few days has been generally quiet. Roads which through the long Winter were three feet deep in snow are now covered with icy slush, and are thawing so rapidly that transportation is virtually at a standstill.

Great cracks are appearing in the ice on the Dvina and Vega Rivers, and at points where the thaw is rapidly progressing there are constant sounds like artillery as the ice gives way.

President's Return Still Uncertain.

WASHINGTON, April 17.—Private advices to the White House today from Paris said that plans for the President's return to the United States were still indefinite. The message said that satisfactory progress was continuing in the peace conference.

Feast or Famine

Theatrical advertising is often used as an example of a feast or famine business that falls outside the prosaic rules.

It is pointed out that with the show a great success, advertising is unnecessary; and with a failure, the more advertising the sooner the demise.

In the main, of course, this is true—advertising, like heat, intensifies action. And if a play or a cook-stove is unsatisfactory, the least said the soonest mended.

However, there may be secured from seasonal successes a certain permanent asset.

Take Belasco, for example, has he not secured from his past triumphs a tangible asset in a favorable presumption for his new productions?

If you mix silks or art creations that are ephemeral, some part of the season's triumph can be and should be retained as a permanent asset to your line.

For an industry of spasmodic successes, advertising acts as a great conserving balance-wheel.

NORTHCLIFFE WAR STIRS BRITAIN

New Political Chapter Opened by Lloyd George's Attack on the Publisher.

COALITION FORCES RESTIVE

The Times Hints at Coming Disclosures About the Premier's War Record.

GREAT STRUGGLE EXPECTED

London Press Generally Agrees That Prime Minister Won Great Triumph in Commons.

Copyright, 1919, by The New York Times Company.
Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, April 17.—Lloyd George's Parliamentary triumph seems to have had but a weak echo outside of Westminster. Except from The Daily Chronicle, which is stanchly Coalition Liberal, and The Daily News, which dislikes Northcliffe more than it likes Lloyd George, his speech receives few commendations.

The Manchester Guardian records his "personal and immediate success" as politically a very important thing.

"The Northcliffe incident," it says, "has an importance going a good deal beyond the moment. It amounts to a declaration of war. A breach has been opened between the powerful Prime Minister and the master of many legions in the press. It is perhaps too wide ever to be healed. That is a considerable event in our politics.

"On the whole it is probably altogether for the public good. It was once solemnly declared of the power of the Crown that it was too great, that it was growing, and that it ought to be diminished. At least as much may be said of the power of the syndicated press if exercised without a due sense of responsibility."

The Westminster Gazette asks: "What has caused the Premier's sudden disillusion about the great newspaper proprietor with whom he engaged in so many spirited enterprises, his stanch champion against Asquith, his missioner in America, his Minister of Enemy Propaganda, and why has he taken so long to discover his inherent disabilities?" and it answers that Lloyd George is "meditating something new. Independent Liberals may watch the development of this particular quarrel with impartial interest, but we are not surprised to learn that it is causing unrest among the supporters of the Coalition."

There is nothing in the attitude of the Northcliffe press to suggest that the "Napoleon of Journalism" is afraid of putting on the gloves with Lloyd George. The Daily Mail breathes open defiance and The Times, without actually declaring war at present, prints an editorial containing some extremely caustic criticisms, some personal allusions to the Premier's alleged deficiencies as a statesman and a hint of disclosures about Lloyd George's war record "when public service can be rendered by making them known."

Comment on the larger aspects of the Prime Minister's statement pursue the usual lines, for most critics maintain that with the exception of Russia Lloyd George said nothing very new or definite with regard to the policies pursued in Paris and that until facts are known assertions are of small account.

Lloyd George returned to Paris this morning with Parliamentary laurels thick upon his brow, but "deadly nightshade," in Shakespeare's phrase, growing up around his feet.

Power Ascribed to Northcliffe.

LONDON, April 17, (Associated Press.)—Open warfare between David Lloyd George, who returned to Paris this morning, and Lord Northcliffe, England's foremost publisher, is to the political world the most interesting result of the Premier's flying visit to London from the Paris Peace Conference and his speech before Parliament yesterday.

Lord Northcliffe and Baron Beaverbrook, who served as the official "eyewitness" for the Canadian Government at the front in 1916 and later became Chancellor of the Duchy of Lancaster and Minister of Information, have always been credited with being the powers behind the scenes who brought about the retirement of Premier Asquith and the succession of Lloyd George to the head of the Cabinet.

Northcliffe's newspapers, which include The Times, Daily Mail, and Evening News, gave Lloyd George general support throughout his management of the war, but when the general election followed the armistice, they shifted somewhat to the attitude of friendly critics. Only during the latest developments of the Peace Conference have they become sharply critical of Mr. Lloyd George's leadership.

The Premier in his speech in the House of Commons credited this fact to the "disease of vanity," and hinted that it was due to disappointment on Lord Northcliffe's part that he had not been appointed on the peace delegation. The Premier referred to the peace terms which Lord Northcliffe recommended in The Times before the Peace Conference began, saying:

"I am prepared to make some allowance when a man is laboring under a keen sense of disappointment. However unjustified and however ridiculous the expectations may be, under those circumstances he always is apt to think the world is badly run."

Times Makes Accusations.

The Times today replied with a slashing attack, accusing Lloyd George of overlooking reports prepared by experts.

"It is currently said by his colleagues in Paris," The Times declares, "that while he is able to read and write, he does neither."

After saying that the record of The Times during the war speaks for itself, the newspaper apparently threatens a future attack, saying "some points of his war record require to be more fully known."

The Daily Mail, owned by Lord Northcliffe, confines its comments on the speech virtually to the Premier's "gross diatribe" against Lord Northcliffe, who, says the peper, "cares as little for Mr. Lloyd George's hostility as his friendship." The newspaper concludes: "In a speech in which melodramatic insinuation and mere buffoonery were so mingled it is difficult to know how much is to be taken seriously."

The Evening News prints a cartoon of the Premier hovering over Westminster in an airplane, labeled "hot air," with bombs for the Northcliffe papers.

Mr. Lloyd George and Lord Northcliffe probably are the two most influential personal forces in British politics, and now that they are fiercely and publicly joined in battle the effect upon Mr. Lloyd George's political fortunes and the test of the influence of the Northcliffe press which is expected to follow will mark the beginning of a new political chapter, the developments of which are being discussed with the liveliest interest. Each man is an eager fighter, and the battle between the little Welsh "Giant" and the newspaper Napoleon is not likely to be a tame one.

Outside of the Northcliffe and Laborite newspapers, while opinions are divided concerning the substance of the Premier's speech, it is generally agreed by the London press that it was a great Parliamentary triumph, as indeed was shown by the rousing cheers of his audience and the expressions of individual members in the lobbies. With the exception of the newspapers mentioned none condemns his statement wholly, while several applaud it. These admit that Mr. Lloyd George revealed nothing of the peace terms, but they do not complain.

Says He Demolished Criticism.

The Telegraph, for instance, says that his general account of the terms will "give deep satisfaction," and adds that he "demolished the whole structure his critics built on his supposed departure from his pre-election pledges."

The Express declares its full belief in the Premier's statement that his pledges will be found embodied in the peace terms, and says that he retains the complete confidence of the nation.

The Graphic is equally favorable, and says, incidentally, that Lloyd George's statement "justifies the assumption that President Wilson has abandoned his opposition, or alleged opposition, to the sterner views of those powers which suffered most in the war."

Those who attack individual members of the Peace Conference when the chief concern of everybody is the public interest are condemned by The Chronicle, which says: "If the peace terms eventually disappoint any sane expectation, the fault will lie less with the statesmen in Paris than with the peoples they represent."

The Post, which stands for the exaction of most severe terms from Germany, says that the Premier's address is susceptible of various interpretations, and that, although Mr. Lloyd George declared his readiness to print the terms of peace alongside of his pledges, "it would be preferable to see the terms alongside of the demands of justice and security, and according with them in every particular."

The Daily News admits there may have been serious reasons for withholding information as to the terms of peace, but in the absence of evidence, "mere declarations that all pledges will be kept are idle. It is a fact that some of them have not been kept."

Making a similar point, the Herald, the Labor organ, says: "All the Premier's pledges cannot be kept for they are as contradictory as his speeches." The newspapers declare that Mr. Lloyd George "left the international situation where he found it and completely missed his opportunity."

The Premier's rejection of any idea of military action in Russia meets with considerable approval. The Telegraph and Express say it will be received with general relief. The Daily News agrees, but says that doubt remains regarding the logic of the policy. It asks how it is possible to supply arms to the Kolchak Government and yet refuse to do anything further, and contends that such a policy can succeed only on the assumption that Bolshevism is moribund.

The Post is also skeptical of the Russian policy, and says: "The Allies will be lucky, indeed, if they are not compelled to reverse it."

W. R. HEARST CHIEF LEGATEE OF MOTHER

Value of Her Estate Is Estimated at from $5,000,000 to $10,000,000.

SAN FRANCISCO, April 17.—William R. Hearst, the publisher, is named as the chief beneficiary in the will of the late Mrs. Phoebe A. Hearst, his mother, which was filed for probate here today. The value of the estate is estimated at from $5,000,000 to $10,000,000. The Hearst Building in San Francisco was bequeathed in trust to the four sons of Mr. Hearst in trust as well as the Pleasanton, Cal., estate of Mrs. Hearst. Legacies ranging from $250,000 to $1,000 were left to various members of the family and close personal friends.

The University of California was the only institution mentioned in the will. It received $60,000 in trust, the proceeds to be used to continue scholarships which Mrs. Hearst supported during her lifetime. The university also received Mrs. Hearst's art collection.

Mrs. Hearst during her life distributed in charity, philanthropies, education, and public works approximately $21,000,000, it was said today by friends of the family.

POLES ARE DISSATISFIED.

Government Shaken by Failure to Get Troops Home Through Danzig.

LONDON, April 17.—The prestige of the Paderewski Government in Poland has been affected seriously by the position of the allied and associated powers regarding the transport of Polish troops from France to Poland, according to advices received here.

Local fighting continues on the borders of the Posen district and has spread to the borders of East Prussia.

PARIS, April 17.—Hugh Gibson, the newly appointed American Minister to Poland, will leave Paris Tuesday for Warsaw. Mr. Gibson will be accompanied by Frederic Dolbearev, former Secretary of the Embassy at Vienna, who has been appointed Secretary of Legation.

Paderewski, the Polish Premier, will depart tomorrow for Switzerland, but will return to Paris Wednesday. He conferred today with French statesmen and expressed himself as hopeful of the outcome of Poland's claims.

COBLENZ, April 16, (Associated Press.)—Seventy-five American officers, with interpreters, have been assigned for duty on trains which will cross Germany with Polish troops. On each train there will be an allied convoy and at each German station where trains will stop there will be allied guards.

Successful co-operation between German technical railway workers and German military authorities on one hand and the Polish troops on the other will be insured by the intervention of allied guards and officers wherever necessary. The military mission in charge of the transportation of General Haller's forces consists of thirty-two members, the American, French, British, and Belgian armies providing eight officers each, with an interpreter and clerk. The commission passed Coblenz on Tuesday to take up stations along the route which will be traveled by the Poles.

Any singing or manifestation of such nature that it might cause conflicts with the Germans is prohibited on the trains. Every six hours there will be stops to give the men food and to take on supplies. Where the men leave the train to "stretch their legs" they will not be allowed to leave the station and, to prevent any infraction of this rule, guards will be placed around each station immediately before the men leave the cars.

TO BRING UP IRELAND?

Walsh Said to Have Received Assurances from Wilson.

Copyright, 1919, by The Chicago Tribune Co.

PARIS, April 17.—Frank P. Walsh was received by President Wilson this afternoon, and while neither Walsh nor ex-Governor Dunne of Illinois, who was with him, would talk about the meeting it is understood that they are entirely satisfied with the result of the conversation concerning Ireland.

From the highest authority it can be stated that the President assured Walsh that the Irish question would be brought up before he went home and that efforts would be made to induce Lloyd George to receive the delegation from the Irish Congress to state their case.

GROWING DISORDER DISTRACTS TURKEY

British Admiral Reports on Critical Conditions Attributed to Peace Delay.

BIG OUTBREAKS FEARED

Danger of New Armenian Massacres—Britain Sends Reinforcements to Egypt.

LONDON, April 17.—Serious alarm as to conditions in the Near East is felt here, and it is thought to be not unlikely that there may be in a few months extensive massacres of Christian inhabitants of Turkey.

Admiral Webb, the British commander at Constantinople, has made very disturbing reports as to the disorder throughout the Turkish Empire. This is a result, it is said here, of the delay in effecting a settlement in these regions.

After the fall of the empire the Committee of Union and Progress was thoroughly cowed, but now months go by without anything in particular happening and it has begun again an active underground propaganda. It is helped in this by the fact that large sections of the population have never heard of the surrender of the Turkish Empire or of the victories of the Entente. Moreover, the outbreaks in Egypt and the evacuation of Odessa have seriously injured the Allies' prestige.

Within even a few miles of Constantinople bands of brigands dominate the country, commit atrocities and murders and mutilate as well as plunder travelers.

At Smyrna the Turks and Greeks are ready to fly at each other's throats at the slightest notice. Feeling is running high everywhere between the Turks and Armenians.

It is feared here, THE NEW YORK TIMES correspondent learns in authoritative quarters, that these conditions are likely to become much worse once peace has been signed. As things are, the Entente commanders have the support of such Turkish authorities as are left, since the latter are on their best behavior in the hope of mitigating the Allies' demands, but once the rigor of these is known they will probably resume a thoroughly hostile attitude and refuse to do anything further to preserve order.

Meanwhile, although the situation in Egypt is improved for the moment, General Allenby is under no illusions. He believes that another crisis will occur, and he is now being reinforced by a British division which has been garrisoning the Dobrudja ever since the collapse of Bulgaria and which has been replaced by other allied troops.

SOLDIERS SCORE COUP ON STRIKE CONFERENCE

Surround Meeting of 400 Irreconcilables Near Essen and Arrest Most of Them.

COPENHAGEN, April 16.—Energetic action by the German Government in the face of continued strikes in the Ruhr district is reported today.

Telephoning from Berlin this afternoon, the correspondent of the Berlingske Tidende says that yesterday afternoon a meeting of strike leaders from the whole western industrial region was held at Werden, near Essen. About 400 representative strikers were present and the general opinion was that the strike ought to be continued and that both the conciliatory offers of the Government and the action of the Government troops ought to be ignored.

The meeting had been in progress about an hour when suddenly a shot was heard. It was apparently the signal for soldiers to take their positions, as when the members of the conference hurried to the windows they found themselves surrounded by a strong detachment of troops with loaded rifles. There was some scurrying when some of the members of the conference tried to escape and several were wounded, but most of the 400 stayed within the building and were declared to be arrested.

As a measure of how bad things are in the Ruhr district, it may be mentioned that coal production there has fallen from 330,000 tons to 12,000 tons daily.

BARS STRIKES IN BRITISH ZONE

Gen. Plumer Orders Men to Return to Work Immediately.

COLOGNE, April 16.—In consequence of the spread of the German strikes to the Cologne district Lieut. Gen. Sir Herbert Plumer, in command of the British forces on the Rhine, issued a proclamation today ordering the immediate return of the men to work and threatening the strongest measures against persons promoting or countenancing strikes in the British zone of occupation. The General offered military mediation if other means of settlement failed.

A squadron of British airplanes flew over the affected district today.

3 additional danger points.
Will your heirs escape them?

You have doubtless considered the list of nine common business errors listed below. They are frequently made in many households. Here are three additional errors, not so applicable to household affairs but equally common among inexperienced persons who attempt to manage property which has been willed to them.

Failure to take advantage on rights to subscribe for new securities before the expiration date.

Failure to provide, by gradual accumulation, funds to take care of unusual net expenses, such as taxes, etc.

Failure, through lack of easy facilities, to follow the trend of securities owned so that it may be handled advantageously.

THE appointment of the Mercantile Trust & Deposit Company as executor and trustee of your estate provides that these and similar important duties be carried out without fail. All securities in a Mercantile Trust account come for careful scrutiny before the Mercantile Trust Committee. This Committee, elected from the Board of Directors, meets at regular and frequent intervals.

9 everyday business errors

1. Neglecting to get receipts when bills are paid in cash.
2. Neglecting to keep receipts where they can be located.
3. Neglecting to check up items in current bills.
4. Inability to keep checkbook balanced.
5. Too easy optimism in starting credit accounts.
6. Careless handling of valuable business papers.
7. Signing documents without knowing their contents.
8. Tendency to establish living expenses which would exceed income and eat into savings.
9. Tendency to invest money on dangerous hearsay—without proper knowledge of facts.

MARTINSYDE FLIER TAKES TRIAL SPIN

NO HOPE FROM EXPERTS

Hawker, Following Raynham's Example, Cables $500 Bet on Successful Flight to England.

Special to The New York Times.

ST. JOHN'S, N. F., April 17.—The Martinsyde biplane, after a beautifully successful trial flight this afternoon, is all ready to start the transatlantic air flight as soon as the weather permits. Captain Raynham, the pilot, shortly after a perfect landing, declared every part of the machine "quite all right."

The weather persists in what the two pilots and their navigators have come to regard as fiendish unfriendliness. The day's reports to Lieutenant Clements, the meteorological expert, show easterly and southerly winds playing about the edges of a cyclonic area distributed across the ocean, with low-lying clouds and fog. To make the prospect more cheerful Clements, basing his predictions on hundreds of daily reports now arriving from coast stations and ships at sea, says the weather here will get worse about the time it improves in mid-Atlantic and on the English coast. Still the fliers are hopeful of getting away by the end of the week.

The Raymor was wheeled from its canvas hangar just before noon, with several hundred spectators taking advantage of the ideal sunshiny day to see the trial. The little biplane, with the background of frowning, snow-streaked hills rimming Lake Quidi Vidi, looked far snappier and smarter than the larger, heavier, sturdier Sopwith. Captain Raynham and Major Morgan, in leopard-skin suits, with all their electrical warming attachments working, climbed in while the mechanics spun the propeller. As soon as the engine was warm, Raynham started, keeping on the ground to the side of the Quidi Vidi road, with not many feet between him and the water's edge.

The biplane fairly leaped into the air, her wheels being off the ground before she had traveled 120 feet. The pilot straightened out for a moment at 300 feet, then climbed rapidly into the blue sky, attaining an altitude of 1,500 feet inside of a minute. He circled the lake several times, then raced off over bumpy looking St. John's, where the houses hunched on the hillsides in the distance. As the Raymor passed over the heads of the watchers below she was a beautiful sight, her wings showing as a faint yellow streak, while the sun touched her aluminum into flame and her tail glowed as vividly as a scarlet patch in the sky.

As Raynham and Morgan traveled the length of Quidi Vidi Lake, headed townward, great flocks of gulls set up an indignant chatter, audible above the steady roar of the engine, then wheeled and retreated behind the shelter of the hills. Once the paid had traversed the city they wheeled again and put out to sea, both craning their heads over the side to study the arctic ice once more blocking the port, and ponder on the chances of landing there if it became necessary. Later Raynham jokingly said it was doubtful if any one of the numerous icebergs was big enough, but he added seriously that he felt satisfied the packed ice itself would bear the weight of his plane.

Coming back over the airdrome at a height of 2,000 feet, the Raymor, for a moment in the sunlight, became an uncertain speck, indistinguishable from the tiny group of gulls racing to get out of its way. Then the biplane came coasting slowly, gently downward. Raynham reached the landing place by cutting across the lake corner, skimmed just safely over the heads of a crowd too puzzled to know which way to move, and then slid gently to the tough cricket turf undisturbed for ninety years or more. With only a slight bump or two he brought the biplane to a stop while the mechanics leaped on the tail and grabbed the wings to steady the machine.

A rope drag, anchored at either end with heavy bags of bowlders, stretched from the road to the lake edge for five hundred feet in front of Raynham in case the landing was bad and the machine failed to stop, but it was not needed. Before the start of the flight Morgan tested his compass and other instruments, and found all working satisfactorily. The wireless receiving set was also tested with messages from the Cape Race station, which Morgan said he heard so clearly at sixty-five miles distance that he was almost deafened.

Hawker, following Raynham's example, cabled $500 to England, betting half on himself and half on Raynham to make a successful flight.

REPORT SITE CHOSEN FOR NAVY'S START

N C 2 Out of Commission at Rockaway with Damaged Wing Panel.

ST. JOHN'S, N. F., April 17.—United States naval aviation officers have selected a site on the shores of the Bay of Biscay, on the south coast of Newfoundland a few miles west of Cape Race, as the jumping-off spot for their transatlantic flight, according to a report received here from Trepessy Bay.

This report stated that two Americans recently had spent a day looking over the ground, and that they were understood to have made an agreement for use of a meadow fronting on the inlet before they were picked up by a destroyer.

Officers here in charge of the navy's plans for the transatlantic flight declined tonight to comment on their report from St. John's that a jumping-off place had been selected on the southern coast of Newfoundland.

It has been announced that planes now being tested at the naval air station at Rockaway will go to Newfoundland before "hopping off" from this continent. Naval aviation officers recently went to Newfoundland to look for a site and the result of their search has been reported to Washington, but no selection has been announced.

A trial flight of the NC-2, one of the navy seaplanes at the Rockaway aviation station was not made yesterday afternoon as had been planned. When the machine was taken out for the flight it was discovered that one of the wing panels had been knocked out of plumb, and those in charge decided not to take to the air until adjustments had been made. The NC-2 is one of three machines being tuned up at the station to determine which will be most acceptable for the coming transatlantic flight. It will probably take two days to get the craft ready for the air again.

EXECUTIVES OF NAVY FLIGHT.

Men Who Are Paving the Way for Our Seaplanes.

WASHINGTON, April 17.—The mobilization of naval effort for the flight of seaplanes across the Atlantic next month probably is more extensive than any heretofore undertaken in peace time. Captain Noble E. Irwin, in charge of naval aviation, is the directing head, and every bureau of the Navy Department as well as the fleet itself is cooperating with him.

The planes to be used were designed by Naval Constructors Jerome C. Hunsaker and Holden C. Richardson in association with the Curtiss Company, which built the aircraft. The manufacture and installation of motors and their attachments were directed by Commander Arthur K. Atkuns, and the preparation and installation of radio equipment by Lieutenant Robert A. Lavender.

Preparations of plans for the flight and the assembly of material is the work of the especially created transatlantic section in charge of Commander John H. Powers with Lieut. Commander P. N. L. Bellinger, Commander Richardson, Lieut. Commander R. E. Byrd, Lieut. Commander G. de C. Chevalier, and Major B. L. Smith of the Marine Corps. The office of communications is charged with working out details of wireless communication between the planes and the destroyers, Rear Admiral C. P. Plunkett commanding the destroyer force, under the direction of Admiral Henry T. Mayo.

CLAIM NEW AMERICAN RECORD

Georgia Officials Say Aviator Averaged 137 Miles an Hour.

AMERICUS, Ga., April 17.—A new record for transcontinental airplane travel is claimed by aviation officials of Souther Field here for Major T. J. Macauley of Fort Worth, who today flew to Jacksonville, Fla., on the last leg of a cross-country tour from San Diego, Cal. Major Macauley left early today, arriving at Jacksonville at 8:40 o'clock and returned here at 11. He left soon afterward for Fort Worth.

According to Souther Field officials, Major Macauley traveled from San Diego to Jacksonville in 19 hours' flying time, an average of 137 miles an hour. He made four stops, at Tucson, Sweetwater, Fort Worth, and Americus.

WOOD WAITING TO START.

Pilot of Shortt Transatlantic Entry Still Held Up.

LIMERICK, April 17.—Major J. C. P. Wood expects to start on his attempt to cross the Atlantic in a Shortt airplane early next week, according to an announcement made by his representative here today. Wood will fly from Eastchurch, England, to Curragh, Ireland, where the engines of his plane will be overhauled. Then he will go to Bawnmore Field early in the morning of the day selected for the start.

The machine will take the air at noon, and, reckoning on twenty-four hours for the flight and the time gained by flying westward, Wood expects to reach the American coast in broad daylight.

Weather conditions are still very uncertain. For a week it has been cold and wet, and today the visibility was very low, making flying impossible.

EASTCHURCH, England, April 17.—Major J. C. P. Wood, the British aviator who is to attempt a transatlantic flight from Ireland in a Shortt 'plane, announced his intention this morning of flying to Limerick this afternoon. If the present improved weather conditions continue he said he would start his flight across the Atlantic tomorrow.

IMPROVING THE R-33.

British Airship Fitted to Make 88-Hour, Non-Stop Flight.

Copyright, 1919, by The New York Times Company.
Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, April 17.—Rapid progress has been made by Messrs. Armstrong, Whitworth & Co. with improvements and additions to Airship R 33. The Manager states that on April 28 it will be ready for the Admiralty to take over fully equipped for an Atlantic flight.

The airship has been fitted with twenty-six additional petrol tanks, making a total of eighty-seven, so that it can travel for eighty-eight hours of continuous flight and attain a three-quarter speed of fifty miles an hour.

Panama-Key West Fliers Safe.

WASHINGTON, April 17.—Lieutenants Otto and Parker and Mechanician Hornby, army fliers, unofficially reported missing, with the big plane H S-2, between Bluefields, Nicaragua, and Havana, Cuba, are safe in Nicaragua, having been prevented from starting for Havana by engine trouble. Word came today through the army Air Service from Panama that Lieutenant Otto had reported from Bluefields Bluff that it probably would be necessary to have a new part made there for his engine before porceeding to Havana on the second lap of the flight.

Army Balloons on Test Flights.

OMAHA, Neb., April 17.—Two United States Army balloons started at midnight last night on an experimental flight in high altitudes, to test meteorological instruments. Lieut. Col. W. S. Wuest, commanding officer at Fort Omaha, and Lieutenant Ralph A. Reynolds accompanied the balloon which was consigned to an altitude of 5,000 feet. Captain F. W. Goodale and Lieutenant C. L. Leroy Meisinger were in the craft selected to register 10,000 feet. After being aloft for from forty-eight to seventy-two hours at the selected levels, the airships reported safe landings, one at Cabot, Ark., and the other at Orola, Miss.

in effect with the boat owners previous to the strike of March 14, 1919, the hours and wages of the official decision to be retroactive from the time the men return to work.

The private boat owners have in past negotiations offered similar proposals to the one which was made yesterday by the strikers. One point in the plan on which objection may be raised is that which requires the boat owners to take back all of their striking employes. The boat owners assert that they now have 25 per cent. of their craft in operation and might object to turning out non-union men now employed on their craft.

Attitude of Boat Owners.

The following statement was issued last night by the Boat Owners' Committee, composed of Joseph H. Moran, Henry M. Lee, and Joseph J. Glatzmayer:

Federal Mediator Hughes requested us to meet Secretary of Labor Wilson in a conference, to be held either in New York or in Washington for the purpose of trying to reach a settlement of the present strike. We agreed to such a meeting. At noon on Thursday, Mr. Hughes telephoned that we were to meet Mayor Hylan and not Secretary Wilson.

During the course of the conference, the Mayor assured us that he was present because Mr. Hughes had stated that we had requested the Mayor to mediate. Of course, we had made no such request and the meeting seems to have been the result of a strange misconception all around.

The boat owners will meet tomorrow morning at 10:30 o'clock for the purpose of passing upon the offer made by the strike leaders. The Mayor had intimated that he would like to address this meeting and we shall be very happy to have him attend for this purpose.

Besides presiding at the meeting yesterday, Mayor Hylan made a speech appealing to both sides on humanitarian grounds to end the strike for the general welfare of the city. He also suggested that a nine-hour day might be a compromise acceptable to both sides. The strike leaders said that they would consider such a suggestion, but the boat-owners declined to entertain it. Others besides the representatives of the strikers and boat-owners who attended the meeeting were Regional Director A. H. Smith, President T. V. O'Connor, of the International Longshoremen's Union; Major Gen. John F. Shanks, in charge of the Port of Embarkation; Colonel Henry S. Kerrick, William R. Bettison, representing the Secretary of War; Frank L. Howe, representing the Secretary of the Navy; Collector of the Port Byron R. Newton, and Federal Conciliator Charles L. Furey.

Thomas L. Delahunty, President of the Marine Affiliation, said after the meeting:

"Labor is solidly behind the effort to bring this dispute to an amicable adjustment. If we eliminate lawyers, I think we can reach an agreement.

"We have agreed with the Government that, strike or no strike, the work of moving transports, supply ships and hospital ships will go forward without interruption."

A letter from Assistant Secretary of War Benedict Crowell to President William Fellowes Morgan of the Merchants' Association was made public yesterday defending the War Department, which had been criticised along with other Government Departments by Mr. Morgan for failing to enforce the Macy award after the Government and the strikers had both pledged themselves to abide by it and President Wilson by cable had sent assurances that the Government departments involved would do their utmost to enforce it. In his letter Mr. Crowell assailed the private boat owners for refusing to arbitrate. After describing efforts at arbitration alleged to have been balked by the stand of the boat owners, he continued:

"This was done in good faith. Its object, however, failed of accomplishment as the private boat owners immediately and violently proclaimed in the public press and elsewhere that it was immaterial to them what the Taft Board might decide, as they had no intention of abiding by any award which might be made. Thus the whole object of the arbitration to bring about an understanding between the private boat owners and their employes was nullified. However, the Taft Board proceeded to investigate the case, and, failing to reach a decision, the matter was referred to an umpire, who rendered a decision.

"It is my understanding that it is a matter of record, which can still be verified by the official records of the Taft Board, that during all this time the private boat owners refused jurisdiction of the Taft Board, except in the case of the Red Star Line, stating that they were in no way interested in the arbitrator's decision. The employes, it seems, somewhat naturally thereupon took the ground that the arbitrator's decision was in no way binding upon them, inasmuch as the private boat owners had demanded arbitration and had not fully submitted their case to the board."

SAYS BRITISH LABOR FEARS LEAGUE PLAN

Royal W. France Declares He Investigated Their Attitude for Number of Senators.

GIVES STATEMENT BY PARTY

Asserts Leaders Have Lost Faith in Wilson and Want Amendments to Covenant.

Royal W. France, brother of Joseph I. France, United States Senator from Maryland, who has just returned from England, declared yesterday that the British Labor Party was opposed to the covenant of a League of Nations as proposed by President Wilson, Lloyd George and their associates at the Peace Conference.

Mr. France said that at the request of a number of Senators he investigated the attitude of British Liberals on the idea of the League as expressed by President Wilson. Nowhere, he declared, did he find any enthusiasm for the League on the part of the Liberal leaders. The British Labor Party, he says, at a meeting of the Executive Committee, issued a statement for him to bring here. The statement follows:

> The Joint Committee, having considered the text of the League of Nations Covenant, are of opinion that it is defective in certain important particulars and requires to be amended to bring it into conformity with the proposals of the international working class movement. The League of Nations, in order to establish and maintain world peace, must be based on direct representation from Parliaments and not merely from Governments, so as to secure and maintain its democratic character and prevent it being used as a buttress to Executive authority.
> It should include all the nations of the world willing to join in creating it and accepting its obligations. It should contain provisions for control of armaments, definitely declared to be a step toward national disarmament, for freedom of trade, and for carrying into effect an international labor charter. It should impose upon the signatory nations the responsibility of holding colonies and dependencies in wardship for the purpose of training and educating them in political qualities which will enable them ultimately to practice self-determination; and, in accordance with the proposals in the Labor War Aims, this provision should apply to all such colonies and not merely those lately under German control.
> On these points we regard the League of Nations Covenant issued from Paris on Feb. 15 as defective and unsatisfactory, and we are of opinion that the British representatives at the Peace Conference should be called upon to propose and support amendments which will alter the scheme in accordance with the above conditions, and so make it acceptable to the democracies of the world.
> Further, the Joint Committee is strongly convinced that the immediate and total abolition of conscription in all countries is an inseparable part of a successful League of Nations. We consider that the gigantic military estimates recently presented to the House of Commons are conceived in the old spirit which brought about the war and has been discredited thereby; they are calculated to fasten compulsory military service on this country, and as a consequence on other countries, as a permanent part of national policy. In our judgment, therefore, the Government should be pressed to reduce these estimates and to instruct its delegates at the Peace Conference to work for the total and universal abolition of compulsory military service.

"It is not stating it too strongly to say that the attitude of the Liberals, both in England and France, toward the proceedings of the Peace Conference is one of bitter disappointment," said Mr. France. "They had looked to President Wilson as a great liberal leader, who would show the world a way out of the abyss of hatred and despair in which it finds itself. They considered the President's fourteen points a basis on which the world could be reunited and its wounds healed. They feel, however, that he has abandoned his position; that the fourteen points have been thrown into the scrap heap and that the Paris Conference, like previous conferences of unholy memory, has degenerated into a scramble for the spoils which will leave the world embittered and divided and ready for new wars.

"On March 30 I saw a great labor demonstration in London in favor of raising the blockade on Germany. It was a most impressive spectacle. The speakers also denounced the falsification of the news in regard to Russia and demanded the withdrawal of allied troops from that country.

"The bitterness and hatred engendered by the war has given way, so far as the great laboring classes of England are concerned, to a feeling of pity and to a desire for fair play, and the surrender which they feel President Wilson has made to the bitter and violent spirit of the reactionaries of England and France has filled them with the deepest disappointment. Time and again I was told that had the President realized the strength of the people and their sincere wish for a peace of justice and understanding he would never have yielded his position. Most of the persons with whom I talked expressed the feeling that great injury has been done to the world by the delay in arriving at a settlement of the peace terms, and there is also a deep resentment at the secretive methods employed by the 'Big Four' at the Paris Conference."

Mr. France said that he had talked the matter over since his return with a number of United States Senators, among them his brother. He refused to divulge the names of the others.

FINDS PEOPLE FOR LEAGUE

But Senator Curtis Says He Cannot Tell Whether This Is It.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, April 17.—Senator Curtis, Republican Whip, who returned to the Capital today, after an absence of a month, said that he believed that the majority of the people of the country were anxious for a workable League of Nations to be evolved at Paris as a means of averting another world war. But he was unable to venture an opinion, he said, whether the conferees had drafted a suitable instrument, owing to the "secrecy" surrounding the proceedings.

"The people of the country will not tolerate a League of Nations covenant that does not protect the sovereignty of America," said Mr. Curtis. "We do not know that the draft as now worked out accomplishes this. The United States must be left free to determine its domestic affairs. That must be made plain.

"Ninety per cent. of Americans were opposed to the League of Nations covenant as originally drafted. It did not safeguard the Monroe Doctrine and it would have turned determination of America's affairs over to foreign nations. To obtain support in the Senate, the League covenant must see that these principles are observed. But we cannot know that this has been done in the amendments talked of, for dark secrecy has prevailed regarding the conferees' deliberations and the people have not been taken into their confidence. We shall simply have to wait before arriving at any conclusions respecting the League."

Senator Hitchcock, Chairman of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, will address a mass meeting in Denver on the League of Nations April 27, it was announced today. He will speak in St. Louis April 28 or 29.

Senator Pittman of Nevada, member of the Foreign Relations Committee, will speak in favor of the League Saturday before the Mississippi Society here.

FRENCH AIRMEN HONORED BY PERSHING

Win Distinguished Service Cross for Aiding Our Soldiers in Battle.

WASHINGTON, April 17.—The Commander in Chief, in the name of the President, has awarded the Distinguished Service Cross to the following-named officers and soldiers for the acts of extraordinary heroism described after their names:

Captain Jean Menl, 16th Pursuit Group, French Air Service.—For extraordinary heroism in action in the St. Mihiel offensive on Sept. 12. Despite the unfavorable weather conditions, he made a reconnoisance flight over the enemy lines, returning with valuable information concerning the evacuation of the enemy and the dominant position of Montsee.

Lieutenant Philippe Santial (French Army,) 53d R. I. C.—For repeated acts of extraordinary heroism in action July 15-16, Oct. 14, and Nov. 9, at Argonne-Meuse. On July 15-16 he defended a stronghold against overwhelming forces of the enemy for a period of thirty-four hours until assisted by reinforcements. On Oct. 14 under cover of a fog he carried on a raid against an enemy picket and, without loss, he captured fourteen prisoners and one machine gun. On Nov. 9, after being severely wounded, he took a strong enemy position after a severe struggle and also captured nine prisoners and two machine guns.

Sergeant Etienne Houroux, pilot, 284th Escadrille, (French,) attached Third Army Corps, United States Army.—For extraordinary heroism in action near Dun-sur-Meuse, France, Oct. 30. While engaged in a visual reconnoissance he accepted combat with four enemy planes, who attacked him with the object of forcing him to abandon his mission. Although he was himself seriously wounded, he sustained the unequal fight until his observer was killed by the fire of the attacking aircraft. When no further defense was left to him he made a successful retreat into the allied lines and landed safely. Suffering severely from his wound and too weak to leave the pilot's seat without assistance, he insisted that his observer be cared for before permitting any one to aid him. Home address, M. Houroux, 39 Rue de Paris, Avallon, Yonne, France.

Other awards are:

Captain Fred C. Redick, 146th Infantry, Wooster, Ohio; First Lieutenant Herman L. Hess, (deceased,) 148th Infantry, Pomeroy, Ohio; First Lieutenant Rudolph S. FAVORS TANK CAR FOR MILK.

Dealer Says Revolution in Transportation Would Lower Prices.

Transportation of milk in tank cars was recommended to Magistrate McAdoo at the milk investigation yesterday by F. T. Craft, a milk dealer of 39 Liberty Street. Mr. Craft contended that milk distribution would be revolutionized by a tank car system that had been perfected, and would ultimately reduce milk to 8 cents a quart. The use of these cars, it was said, had proved satisfactory in San Francisco and Salt Lake City.

During the remainder of the hearing Assistant District Attorney Dooling questioned George E. Hogue, Director of the Dairy Bureau of the State Division of Agriculture. Mr. Dooling had a canceled check for $200, which he said had been drawn to the order of Mr. Hogue by the Dairymen's League. Mr. Hogue said the money was for the expenses of organizing a dairy exposition, part of which had been used and the remainder returned to the contributor. Mr. Dooling served a subpoena upon Mr. Hogue for another hearing.

RICH MAGYAR GIRLS SEEK AMERICAN MEN

Attractive Marriage Offers Are Made in Effort to Save Fortunes from Red Regime.

KAROLYI NOW DESPONDENT

Cannot Spend as He Used To and Is Ostracised as Betrayer by Aristocracy.

VIENNA, April 16, (Associated Press.)—It is confirmed that the reports of the executions at Budapest of Count Michael Karolyi, Archduke Joseph, and others are untrue. The city continues outwardly quiet, with progress being made toward the nationalization of property. It is estimated there are only twenty naturalized Americans and American wives of Hungarians in Hungary. It is possible that an effort will be made to send food there. There is little meat and few vegetables in the hotels and there is no salt. Eggs are plentiful, while the bread sold in the city is worse than that on the market here.

When Count Karolyi was in Vienna he called on Professor Philip Brown, Secretary of the American mission here, and told him that he would be glad to accept a can of condensed milk. He finds socialism a difficult program, and was much downcast, partly because he felt he was badly treated by the Allies and partly because he is hated by the aristocrats of Hungary, who charge him with betraying them into the hands of robbers or fanatics. He was also despondent because he was being restricted in his expenditures. In former times he was accustomed to spending a million crowns annually.

Count Karolyi's frame of mind is characteristic of all persons in Hungary, who have been apprehensive for weeks as to what would happen next. It is a common thing to see a party of men and women walking along the streets or promenades or sitting in cafés and to see one woman burst into tears and then laughingly wipe her eyes. Thus is shown the tension under which people are living who have lost all their property and the hope that came with the end of the war.

Foreigners, especially Americans, are receiving attractive marriage proposals from families of wealthy young women, who expect by this means to save something from the wreck of their fortunes because of the fact that foreign property will be exempted from nationalization. Women who marry foreigners will be enabled to travel freely over the frontiers with their families. There is a disposition on the part of the new Government, however, to allow middle-class Hungarians to leave, provided they do not take property with them.

The condition of many Hungarians who have fled to Vienna is one of abject poverty. Count Alexander Esterhazy, who lost his son in the war and who was with former Emperor Charles until the latter went to Switzerland, is finding means of subsistence by selling the furniture in his house here. He has already sold his clothes.

There has been a recent exchange of visits by officials of Hungary and German Austria. Minister of War Boehm and Herr Pogany of the Hungarian Foreign Office are here from Budapest with an army of clerks, ostensibly to liquidate the affairs of the two Governments.

EX-CROWN PRINCESS SUES FOR A DIVORCE

Cecile's Mother, Grand Duchess Anastasie, Accuses Frederick William of Infidelity.

ZURICH, April 17.—The former German Crown Princess Cecile has taken steps to divorce her husband, Frederick William, according to a statement given to Swiss newspapers by the former Grand Duchess Anastasie of Mecklenburg-Schwerin, mother of the former Crown Princess. The statement says that it long has been the desire of Cecile to divorce her husband, but that the pressure of the Hohenzollern family up to this time had prevented her from carrying it out.

The statement of the Grand Duchess charges Frederick William with cruelty to his wife, saying:

"On one occasion some time ago the situation became so unbearable that my daughter actually fled from her home. She almost succeeded in reaching Switzerland. Orders were sent from Berlin to intercept her and she was captured at the German frontier like a common criminal and taken to Berlin under arrest.

"My daughter will be able to place before the German court overwhelming evidence against her husband and will be able to prove many instances of the grossest cruelty against him. His infidelities were numerous and there is abundant proof of them. His brutality was atrocious. On more than one occasion my daughter was treated with actual violence. She was bruised and her face was disfigured by her husband's blows."

Berlin dispatches by way of Zurich on Feb. 3 said that Frederick William had instituted proceedings for a divorce, but there have been no further reports on the case. The former Crown Prince and Princess Cecile were married in June 1905. The pair have five children, the youngest having been born in 1915. The former Crown Prince is now in exile in Holland. His family has remained at Pottsdam.

The former Grand Duchess Anastasie was a Grand Duchess of Russia before her marriage. Since the war she has been living in Switzerland. She renounced her German nationality and renewed her allegiance to Russia late in 1914.

Mrs. Barbey's Gifts to Philanthropy.

The will of Mrs. Anna K. Barbey, who died at 60 Riverside Drive on July 30, disposes of an estate of more than $200,000 and provides a number of public bequests as well as gifts to friends. BRIBE INQUIRY GOES INTO TRACTION BILL

Legislative Sponsors Tell How and Why They Came to Introduce It.

BRADY COUNSEL ON STAND

Ex-Judge Beardsley Tells of Talks with Thompson and Burke, but Never Heard of Fund.

Special to The New York Times.

ALBANY, April 17.—The Senate Judiciary Committee at the continuation this afternoon of the Thompson bribery hearing went deep into the history of the Carson-Martin six-cent traction bill. The committee also heard Samuel W. Beardsley of the law firm of Beardsley, Hemmens & Taylor, general attorneys for the Edison Electric Company and other Brady concerns. Beardsley, who testified that he was the personal attorney of Nicholas F. Brady, was examined closely regarding his relations with Senator Thompson and Richard H. Burke.

Beardsley testified that he became acquainted with Senator Thompson at the time of the Public Service Commission investigation through Burke, whom he regarded as in the employ of the Senator. Beardsley had known Burke since 1913, when the late Anthony N. Brady had told him that he was interested in Burke as a result of representations made to him by men of influence, who were backing Burke very strongly. The identity of these backers had not been disclosed to Beardsley.

"Burke whenever he came in lauded Thompson to the skies and generally seemed to want something for him," said Beardsley in explaining visits of Burke to his office. No demand for money had been made on behalf of Senator Thompson by Burke, and the witness disclaimed any recollection of a demand for a $15,000 loan, which Burke testified that he had made on Beardsley at the Senator's request. He did testify that Thompson had sought his advice with regard to the flotation of a $40,000 bond issue for an electric light company in Middleport, where the Senator lives, in which he had an interest. Beardsley regarded the request as a proper one.

In relation to the Carson-Martin bill, Senator William A. Carson of Wayne and Assemblyman Louis M. Martin of Oneida, its sponsors; J. Henry Walters of Syracuse, President pro tem. of the Senate; Harry B. Weatherwax of this city, Vice President and General Manager of the United Traction Company and President of the State Association of Electric Railways, and Alexander Cowee, a Syracuse lawyer, were examined by the committee. From their testimony it appeared that the bill was drafted and introduced on behalf of that organization, and that the plans for promoting its progress in the Legislature involved a great amount of publicity. All these witnesses were asked what they knew about the $500,000 slush fund and denied any knowledge of it.

Call "Slush Fund" a Fake.

"I think that yarn is the most colossal fake ever foisted on this Senate or on the people of the State," said Mr. Weatherwax. "Furthermore, I do not think there is $500,000 running loose in the traction industry at the time when one-fifth of the entire railway mileage of the United States, not including the New York City Railways, is in the hands of receivers."

The cross-examination of Burke, demanded by Senator Thompson, will be put off until the legislative session is ended. At Senator Thompson's request, according to Chairman Burlingame, it is probable that at least one and possibly two weeks will be afforded him to prepare for examining Burke. The Legislature will provide an appropriation to enable the committee to carry on its investigation into the broader field of lobbying after the session has adjourned.

At a meeting of the committee tomorrow the two newspaper correspondents who printed the interview with Senator Thompson which led up to the inquiry, will be called to testify.

While it is not likely that the Carson-Martin bill, which has already passed the Assembly, will win favor in the Senate, it was stated positively after the hearing today that the measure will be brought out for consideration in the open before the legislative session ends. An informal canvass of the attitude of Senators toward the measure has disclosed that not an excess of twenty votes will be cast in its favor. The bill is now in the custody of the Senate Committee on Public Service, of which Senator Thompson is Chairman.

Assemblyman Martin told of being called into the room of Speaker Sweet and introduced by him to Mr. Weatherwax, who handed him the traction bill. Speaker Sweet asked Martin to introduce the measure. He had given copies of the bill to William C. Capes, Secretary of the State Mayors' Conference, and told him to send them out to the Mayors throughout the State. Martin also sent a letter to the Mayors inclosing the bill and informing them that it had been introduced "at the request of traction companies who wanted a hearing, and that he personally had no interest in the bill."

Out of nineteen communications received from city administrations only two were in favor of the measure. The general trend of these communications also indicated a general doubt as to the constitutionality of the plan. Thirty-eight banks and trust companies wrote requesting the passage of the bill on the ground that they had bought blocks of traction stocks which were depreciating. Resolutions were received from six Chambers of Commerce and other civic bodies generally approving the bill. At the hearing 103 banks, 21 organizations of railroad employes, and 30 trade and business organizations appeared in support of the measure.

Messrs. Martin, McNab, Pierce, Rowe, Lown, Jenks, Everett, and Wilson, all up-State Republicans, voted to report the bill out of committee, which was done.

Senator Carson, who introduced the Loasby of Syracuse, Mr. Loasby being asked by Senator Walters to present the measure. "I want to say," he added, "that I have never been approached in any way since in regard to the bill."

Senator Walters testified that a delegation composed of Mr. Weatherwax and Alexander Cowee and Arthur A. Loasby of Syracuse, Mr. Lotsby being President of the State Association of Trust Companies and Mr. Cowee attorney for the association, told him the banks held so many securities of traction companies which were depreciating and had sold so many others that they felt morally responsible to their clientele for some action to bring relief. They wanted a bill which was to be introduced in the Assembly presented to the Senate, too, so that there could be a joint hearing where they would demonstrate the necessity for such relief from the banker's point of view and that they would bring men like ex-Governor Hughes and ex-Judge Miller to make arguments for the bill.

Early in the session he had a talk with Senator Thompson in relation to traction legislation, particularly about the fare legislation, and he gathered that Senator Thompson was opposed to fare legislation where it interfered with the contractual relation between municipalities and traction companies. Senator Walters said he had not seen Governor Whitman or any members of his firm since last December until the day Mr. Whitman testified, and never knew Burke.

Testimony given by Weatherwax and Cowee was purely corroborative of that given by Walters and Martin.

Tells of Meetings with Thompson.

Beardsley testified that he had first met Senator Thompson at his own office. Burke brought him.

"Burke said that Thompson wanted to see counsel for the various public service corporations to get their suggestions as to the report and the legislation to be based upon the report after his investigation of the Public Service Commission," said Beardsley. "I made an appointment at my office, where we had a general discussion of the report and the bills. There was no secrecy about it. He wanted suggestions, and we were willing to give them. Later Mr. Hemmens took over this work and the conferences occurred at the Biltmore."

The witness had four or five further conferences with the Senator. After the report of the investigating committee Beardsley and Thompson went to Mr. Brady's house, Burke having asked Beardsley to make the appointment. He thought it was in February. Thompson told Mr. Brady of a scheme for combining all of the electric water power in the State and having the electric light corporations of the State and capitalists generally take up the developing and distributing of electricity. Later Beardsley arranged for another interview with Brady, which occurred on March 1. Beardsley was not present.

The witness said he had no recollection of any suggestion made in his presence of a $100,000 fund to enable Senator Thompson to start a trust company in Lockport, nor did he ever hear of such a fund. Regarding any talk with Burke in relation to a loan that Senator Thompson wanted to make, Beardsley said his mind was not clear.

"Nearly every time that Burke came to my office he wanted something for Thompson, and seemed to think that we didn't do enough," said Beardsley. "I was a little prejudiced against Thompson and didn't take kindly to Burke's suggestions. Burke always had something new. As to that statement about the loan of $15,000—my mind is not clear at all."

"Do you remember that statement in his testimony that Burke came to you and suggested that Senator Thompson wanted to borrow some $15,000 on some Middleport stocks, and that you said that you would not loan him 15 cents?"

"My mind is not clear on that. I would not say that I did not say it. I would not say that I did."

"Was Mr. Burke in the employ of your firm or any of the corporations that you represent?"

"Never. I always supposed he represented Senator Thompson."

"How many times have you seen him since the investigation?"

"Since the investiagtion? Well, he has been there, I should think, twenty times."

"Do you recall an occasion when you took lunch with Senator Thompson and Mr. Burke at the India House?"

"No, it was downtown—Delmonico's.

"What was the occasion of that luncheon?"

"I guess it was in connection with the visit to Mr. Brady and I guess in connection with the bills."

"With what bills?"

"With the report of the committee on the bills—based on the report. I am not sure about the dates at all."

"Your recollection is that the occurrence took place when the Thompson Investigating Committee was preparing its report?"

"I would not say it was then or a year later. I asked them over to lunch. They came into the office about 1 o'clock, and I was going out and I took them along with me."

"But you recollect that was the occasion when they asked you to introduce Senator Thompson to Mr. Brady?"

"I am not sure about that; I am not sure about dates at all."

"Have you any recollection of anything that took place, any conversation that took place at that luncheon?"

"Well, it was quite informal; sort of general. I think Senator Thompson said something about 'people down here thought he had horns and something of that kind. Some such talk as that, and he wanted to convince Mr. Brady that he was not antagonistic; that he was a real fellow, or something like that."

"Do you know anything about a slush fund at Albany?"

"Not at all," was the reply. "I didn't suppose there was any."

"Do you know anything about the proposition of the traction magnates to finance the candidacy of any one for Governor of the State?" asked Mr. Cheney.

"I never knew of anything except what I saw in the testimony."

"You are not able to assist the committee in discovering it?"

"I am not. I recollect that Burke came to me at Thompson's advice. I telephoned to Ira Place of the New York Central when that West Side matter was pending, and I think that Thompson wanted to come down and have another investigating committee, and I think he intimated that if it could be—if it was properly presented and if he was the head of the committee, it was all right. I talked to Ira Place over the telephone and he did not think well of it."

"And you so reported to Burke?"

"Yes."

Beardsley testified that he had seen Burke probably ten to fifteen times since the public service investigation, and that every time he had had some proposition from Senator Thompson. One time it was the fare proposition. Another time it was the West Side improvement.

"What else?" asked Chairman Burlingame.

Beardsley referred to a letter Senator Thompson had prepared to acquaint John D. Rockefeller, Jr., with his water power scheme and get his help. Senator Thompson tossed a typewritten manuscript on the table and told the committee they were welcome to examine it. It was the Rockefeller letter, but as the witness had never seen it, it could not be introduced in evidence.

TO CURTAIL SUNDAY ACTIVITIES ON LOAN

Glass Receives Protests and May Drop Proposed Flying Circuses.

WASHINGTON, April 17.—Revision of some features of the loan campaign is under consideration as a result of complaints against activities on Sundays and holy days of the church calendar.

A protest came to Secretary Glass today from Philadelphia churches against the showing of moving pictures in theatres on Sunday. An hour later a delegation of Washington ministers called on Mr. Glass to urge that Sunday flying circuses, scheduled in various parts of the country, be abandoned.

A telephone message was received from the Governor of the Cleveland Federal Reserve Bank reporting objection by some Cleveland churches to the Secretary's speaking for the loan there on Saturday, a holy day. Mr. Glass then raised the question of whether the same church interests would not be offended at his reviewing a Liberty Loan parade there Sunday, and took under consideration the cancellation of his dates in Cleveland. Later, however, he decided to go there.

Sunday engagements of the flying circuses will probably be abandoned, Mr. Glass said. The question of moving pictures on Sunday is likely to be left to local committees. During the last loan many cities held house-to-house canvasses on Sunday afternoon and evening to raise their quotas, and had the active co-operation of churches.

"We must not forget," said Mr. Glass, in discussing the subject, "that the raising of the Liberty Loan is a pretty holy matter itself."

ZIONIST DELEGATE REPORTS

De Haas Says Political Work Is Done and Practical Work Must Begin.

Jacob de Haas, Executive Secretary of the Zionist Organization of America, who has returned from Paris, where he was one of the American Zionist delegation, made his report last night at the Hebrew Technical School for Boys, Ninth Street and Stuyvesant Place. He said the political work in connection with making Palestine a homeland for the Jews was assured but that the practical work must now begin.

Charles A. Cowen, Acting Secretary of the organization, announced that beginning on April 23 a ten-day campaign would be inaugurated in 2,000 cities in the United States to double the present membership. It was said that the restoration campaign was so well advanced that no difficulty was expected in raising the necessary amount. The Chairman of the meeting was Israel Friedlander.

GERMAN LINER HERE AS TROOP TRANSPORT

First Enemy Ship to Reach This Port Since War Was Declared.

FLYING AMERICAN FLAG

Vessel, Under Command of a Son of "Fighting Bob" Evans, Brings Home Soldiers.

The Hamburg-American liner Kaiserin Auguste Victoria, the first of the German liners turned over to this Government to reach this port and the second to reach this country, came to her pier in Hoboken late yesterday. The American flag was fluttering in the breeze and the familiar houseflag of the company was not in evidence. There were many things on board to remind her passengers of the time when the Kaiserin ran between New York and Hamburg. The German signs were still to be read and there was the Kaiser Deck, the Crown Prince Deck, and the other decks just as there were before the war.

Though these things remained, there was a different atmosphere than formerly on the liner. On her bridge was her Commander, Captain Frank T. Evans, son of the late Admiral "Fighting Bob" Evans; about her deck were alert American sailors and American soldiers. Since July 20, 1914, the ship has been laid up at Hamburg. She was taken over by this Government at Spit Head Roads, England, on April 2, and almost immediately put to work as a transport to bring American soldiers home. The crew that brought her across was proud of the fact that they had put her in shape for sea going within seven days after she was taken over.

On board the vessel were six German officers who had been on her when, before the war, she steamed away from Hoboken. They said last night that they appreciated the treatment accorded them by the American naval men. All of them served in the Germany Navy, and all have been decorated with the Iron Cross. Walter Dost, who commanded the Kaiserin, served as a Lieutenant Commander and commanded the dreadnought Schleswig-Holstein, and was twice wounded in action.

On board were ten base hospital units, including Base Hospital No. 1, the Bellevue Hospital Unit, which was in charge of Major Carl Burdick, formerly surgeon at Bellevue, who went with them in February, 1917, and Miss Beatrice Bamber, chief nurse.

Brig. Gen. Ira A. Haynes, commander of the 64th Field Artillery brigade, was troop commander aboard ship. With him was Lieutenant William H. Taft, Jr., as aid. The 141st Field Artillery complete was also aboard.

The ship will be taken to Brooklyn and there converted into a troopship with a capacity of 4,000 men.

The Saxonia brought 98 civilian passengers and 1,396 troops. On the way over an operation for appendicitis was performed while the vessel was running at top speed. The patient was Private Robert L. Dawson, Troop B, 3d Cavalry, of Richmond, Va. The operation was performed by Dr. Archibald Scott, the ship's surgeon, and Lieutenant Jacob Toporoff, Medical Corps. Most of those aboard were convalescents.

The Roanoke arrived in Hoboken last night from Bordeaux, France, bringing 1,395 officers and men. The 1st Battalion of the 20th Engineers, consisting of 19 officers and 929 enlisted men, and the 115th supply train of 14 officers and 265 men, with two casual companies of 45 men and the 5th Cement Mill Company of 14 officers and 265 men, constituted those on board.

Another transport that came in yesterday was the Sierra, from Pauillac, France, and she brought 1,596 troops. They consisted of the 143d and 144th Machine Gun Battalions of the 40th Division, composed of the National Guard of California; the 40th Military Police Company; a detachment of the 19th Balloon Company, and 268 sick and wounded.

BURLESON MOVES FOR PHONE PARLEY

and hit by a crowd on Milk Street. They succeeded in reaching a hotel.

The students were jeered as they came out of the exchange, and one of them was knocked down.

Twenty Harvard students who replaced striking operators tonight at Cambridge were taken to the Harvard yard in police wagons after they had been threatened by fifty operators and more than 100 men strike sympathizers.

When they came out of the exchange they were jeered by the girl pickets. They said that they had taken the switchboard positions for "a little excitement."

Mayor Andrew J. Peters left tonight for Washington, where he will try to obtain an interview with Postmaster General Burleson concerning the strike.

Men's Unions Join Strike.

The strike assumed a new phase today with the entry into the fight of thousands of members of unions affiliated with the telephone operators in the general organization of the New England Joint Council of Electrical Workers. The girls asserted that the greater number of the 12,000 cable splicers, testroom men and other associates had joined them.

The Cooks and Waiters' Union notified the hotel men of the city that none of its 2,600 members would serve strikebreakers at the hotels. Senator John J. Kearney, Business Agent of the cooks and waiters, pledged $28,000, the total funds of the union, for use if necessary to win the strike.

Some additional help was said to have been obtained by the company during the day, but no material change in the telephone service was noticeable.

VOTING FOR NATIONAL STRIKE.

Electrical Workers Recording Big Majorities for Move.

SPRINGFIELD, Ill., April 17.—Overwhelming majorities favoring the calling of a nation-wide strike July 1 of more than 150,000 electrical workers are being received, according to J. P. Noonan, acting President of the International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers, whose headquarters are in this city.

"The whole responsibility, if the strike becomes effective, will rest with Postmaster General Burleson," Mr. Noonan said today. "He has refused time and again to recognize the telephone employes' union, even after President Wilson has turned our request over to him.

"I, personally, have appealed to him twelve times, but he has taken no action. We appealed to the War Labor Board and the Department of Labor, and feel sure these two bodies did what they could in our behalf."

FIGHT ON UP-STATE RATE RAISE

Public Service Commission Orders Action Against Telephone Co.

ALBANY, April 17.—The Public Service Commission, Second District, directed its counsel today to take summary proceedings against the New York Telephone Company to prevent the raising of rates in various parts of the State on May 1.

In a statement issued by the commission it was said that the commissioners understood that it was not the intention of the telephone company to raise rates in New York City or Buffalo, but in a number of the smaller cities and towns of the State. The statement added that there appeared to be a lack of uniformity in the proposed increases, instancing that while a raise in the rate for a certain class of service in Syracuse would be 50 cents it would be only half that amount in Rochester.

Notification of the new rates was made yesterday by the company in advertisements appearing in newspapers.

An original suit brought by the commission is still pending. In this suit the commission seeks to compel the telephone company to file any schedule of increases with it. The company contends that since its business was placed under the control of the Federal Government it has ceased to be under the jurisdiction of the State, and that an increase in rates only requires the approval of the United States Telegraph and Telephone Administration. The schedule has been submitted to that body and passed by it.

WANT BETTER WIRE SERVICES

Republicans Here Also Call Postal Department Inefficient.

Declaring that the postal, telephone and telegraph services of the country are at the lowest point of efficiency ever known, the Republican County Committee of New York at its regular meeting at Bryant Hall last night unanimously adopted a resolution protesting to the President, the Postmaster General and the new Congress of present conditions and urging a restoration of efficiency. The resolution reads:

Whereas, It is common knowledge and common experience that the postal and telephone and telegraph services alike are today at the lowest point of efficiency ever known, causing intolerable embarrassment to business and unjustifiable inconvenience in every social relation, while rates of charges have been increased; therefore, be it

Resolved, That we communicate to the President, the Postmaster General, and the new Congress about to assemble in Washington, our protest as citizens and voters against the present disgraceful conditions in the postal and wire service; that we call for restored efficiency in the railway mail service; for the abolition of the zone system; for the construction of underground mail tunnels, and the resumption and extension of pneumatic tube service in congested cities; for just treatment of all employes, and for the reduction of telegraph and telephone rates.

After adopting another resolution requesting the War Department to allow a parade of the 77th Division, the committee listened to a recital of the war experiences of Lieut. Col. Herbert Parsons, who was with the Intelligence Department, 5th Division, in the Vosges Mountains during the last year of the war, and at Berne, Switzerland, after the armistice was signed.

Georgians Want Burleson Ousted.

BRUNSWICK, Ga., April 17.—Removal from office of Postmaster General Burleson was requested of President Wilson in a resolution adopted today at the annual convention of the Georgia Federation of Labor. The resolution was offered by the Telephone Operators' and Electrical Workers' Union representatives and charged that Mr. Burleson, as Director of Telephone and Telegraph Lines under Federal control, had been unfair to organized labor "and unfair to the public because telephone and telegraph rates have been unreasonably increased."

Strike Threatened at Bridgeport.

BRIDGEPORT, Conn., April 17.—At a meeting of union telephone operators of the Bridgeport exchange tonight seventy-eight of the eighty-five girls present voted to strike unless their demands were granted.

BRITISH CENSORSHIP TO NORTH EUROPE TO END

America Will Take Over the Work to Give Speed and Satisfy Any Complaints.

PARIS, April 17.—British censorship on mails between the United States and Northern European neutral States will probably be removed within a fortnight, as a result of friendly negotiations with British representatives here.

This action will involve the reimposition of American censorship for these mails to prevent the dissipation of German securities and assets required for reparations and efforts to open an illicit German trade, but it is thought that the change to censorship by American officials will be welcomed as ending a source of irritation and closing the door to any suspicions of discrimination against American business, while simultaneously speeding the mail service by the use of direct steamers.

Parcel post service to the Northern European neutrals will probably be reopened at the same time.

Herrick Now Drug Commissioner.

ALBANY, April 17.—Governor Smith's appointment of former Senator Walter R. Herrick of New York as head of the State Narcotic Drug Control Commission was confirmed by the Senate today. This action means the retirement of Frank J. Richardson of Washington County and former Senator George H. Whitney of Saratoga County as Commissioner and Deputy. Both Richardson and Whitney were appointees of former Governor Whitman.

Hirsch Reports New Land Fraud.

Assistant District Attorney Theodore L. Waugh announced yesterday that Nathan Hirsch, head of the Mayor's Committee on Land Frauds, had presented a number of complaints concerning a scheme for selling property on Staten Island to poor people and withholding deeds. Mr. Waugh said he had subpoenaed three former officers of the Italian Army, two editors here of foreign language newspapers and several bankers, to tell him about the matters complained of.

POINT FOR CHAMBERLAIN.

American Aviator's Defense Opens in Paris Court-Martial.

PARIS, April 17.—The defense in the court-martial of Captain E. G. Chamberlain of San Antonia was opened this morning by a statement from the Captain's attorney, Donald Harper, that the defense would show that Captain Chamberlain did make unofficial flights with a British squadron on July 27 and 28, 1918, and would produce evidence to disprove the accusation that Captain Chamberlain forged, prepared, or had prepared for him, documents recording the flights.

Harper said it would be shown that the defendant had no knowledge of such documents until they were shown to him by his superior officer on Aug. 12. The accused officer, his attorney declared, claims nothing by, through, or under such reports except that the accounts of the flights and combats attributed to him are substantially correct, and that he would point out that upon his return from the unofficial flights he did not claim any publicity for his feats, the publicity arising only through the action of some one else.

Captain Chamberlain, his attorney stated, absolutely denies all the charges.

The first witness for the defense was Lieut. Commander Frederick H. Allen of the United States air forces. He testified that he was directed by the staff officer at United States Naval Headquarters in Paris on Jan. 19 last to make an investigation into the reports of Captain Chamberlain's flights, which he did, preparing a report which he delivered to the Paris headquarters.

The defense called upon the prosecution to produce this report, but the prosecution said the original was not available, being in Washington. The defense, despite the objections of the prosecution, was allowed to introduce a copy of this report.

Lieut. Commander Allen's report quotes the British aviator of a "Camel" squadron as saying to Captain Chamberlain when the two met at a hotel in northern France last January:

"You are the fellow who stole a 'Camel' from me and flew over the lines."

RECOMMENDS LYNCH BILL.

Reconstruction Commission Favors Change in Training for Boys.

The State Reconstruction Commission yesterday made public the report it had made to Governor Smith of an investigation it had conducted into the operation of the State military training law. The commission urged the repeal of Article 1 of the military law dealing with military training, and advocated the amendment of the education law in relation to physical training for boys. A recommendation was made in the report for an appropriation for the work of carrying out a system of physical training as contained in a bill introduced by Senator Lynch.

In summing up its findings in favor of the Lynch bill, the commission's report read:

"The commission finds that the present military training law is designed to reach all boys of the State, 16, 17, and 18 years of age, and to give them one and a half hours a week of drill, but in reality it reaches only a quarter of the number due to the system of exemptions. While this law has the advantage of being already in force and is an available instrument for the State, it has the disadvantage of interfering needlessly with school work and causing confusion in the educational system. A training for a high type of citizenship can be obtained better through other methods. The chief of those methods are physical training and Summer camps."

Before submitting its findings the report stated that the commission had sought the opinions from educational organizations and the result showed that 80 per cent. of those questioned favored the Lynch bill.

Anti-Saloon League Head Robbed.

Mrs. William H. Anderson of 310 West Seventy-ninth Street, wife of the State Superintendent of the Anti-Saloon League, discovered Sunday the theft of about $3,000 worth of silverware from her home. She reported her loss to the West Sixty-seventh Street station, it was learned yesterday, and since that time detectives have been working on the case. No marks were found to show that the house or chest had been forcibly entered.

PROPOSE BUILDING AS RENT SOLUTION

State Housing Committee Will Call Conference with View to Stimulating Construction.

200 COMPLAINTS RECEIVED

Tell of Families Facing Eviction and No Flats to Which They Can Move.

The Housing Committee and the Housing Advisory Committee of the State Reconstruction Committee met yesterday at the Hall of Records, and after listening to the presentation of facts and figures bearing on the housing shortage, it was decided that immediate action should be taken with a view to stimulating the building program. Abram I. Elkus, Chairman of the Reconstruction Committee, who presided, was authorized to call a conference of the principal business, industrial, and financial agencies of the city.

At the conference a definite plan will be put forward by the experts now studying the problem, and it will be shown that the lack of a building program coupled with the existing conditions go to make up a situation that directly affects the business interests of the city and not only the tenants immediately concerned. It is expected that the meeting will take place within the next two weeks and after the survey now being taken under the auspices of the State Reconstruction Committee is finished. In the meantime the Mayor's Committee on Rent Profiteering will continue to receive complaints in Room 1220 of the Municipal Building.

The Committee on General Welfare of the Board of Aldermen met yesterday and decided, pursuant to a resolution introduced by Alderman Gilmore, to hold a public hearing in the Aldermanic Chamber of the City Hall on Thursday at 2 P. M. Persons having complaints against landlords are invited to present their cases. Instances of apparent profiteering will be investigated by Inspectors from the office of the Commissioner of Accounts, and if the investigations bear out the complaint the landlords will be subpoenaed to present their side of the case before the Aldermen.

Two hundred letters were received yesterday by the Mayor's Committee on Rent Profiteering and they were submitted by Nathan Hirsch, Chairman of the committee, to the State Reconstruction Committee. Many of the letters told of tenants with families of young children facing eviction because of the impossibility of either paying the rent increases demanded or of finding apartments to which to move.

Frank Mann, Tenement House Commissioner, at the meeting of the Housing Committees, quoted striking figures concerning the housing situation. He said that a survey of vacancies in 1916 showed that the percentage of vacancies in that year amounted to 5.60. In 1917 it had decreased to 3.66. Since 1917, he said, there has been no building, and with no immigration and a normal increase of 200,000 in the population there is a shortage of 100,000 apartments at least. Practically the only vacancies are those in old-law tenements, built prior to 1901, which, he said, are habitable "legally," but are humanly not fit places to live.

As an indication of the lack of building Mr. Mann pointed to figures showing the building plans filed from Jan. 1 to April 8. The figures showed that eight new plans were filed, involving a total outlay of $2,500,000. It appeared that the buildings were high-class apartment houses and not the kind of apartment buildings now in greatest demand.

The apparent consensus of opinion at the meeting appeared to be that the remedy in the situation lay in the stimulation of building operations. Robert Kohn, President of the American Institute of Architects, said that the important thing was to meet the needs of those who pay from $20 to $35 for their apartments. The members of the committee feel confident that in a few weeks they will be able to present to the business interests of the city a definite plan which will solve the problem.

Among those present at the meeting were Frederick Ackerman, in charge of housing design for the Shipping Board; Alexander Bing, a real estate man active in housing matters; Walter Stabler of the Metropolitan Life Insurance Company; John J. Murphy, former Tenement House Commissioner; Dr. E. P. Roberts of the Urban League; Frank Williams, Chairman of the City Plan Committee of the City Club; Alfred Marling of the New York State Chamber of Commerce; Lawson Purdy, Mrs. Henry Moskowitz, Secretary of the State Reconstruction Committee, and Clarence Stein, an architect interested in housing conditions.

Joseph S. Schwab, President of the Real Estate Owners' Association, has sent out a call urging the members to attend a meeting on Monday night at the Hotel Majestic in order to discuss the rent-profiteering situation. He said in his letter that no self-respecting owners of property will approve of profiteering, and unless this condition is checked it will result "in owners of real estate awakening to find themselves in the same plight as those careless individuals who will perhaps be ruined by the adoption of prohibition because of like indifference to the menace of oppressive legislation."

Say Statewide Inquiry Will Be Made of Rent and Ice Situation.

Special to The New York Times.

ALBANY, April 17.—The Legislature manifested a desire to put rent profiteering landlords to rout today when the Senate unanimously passed the Abeles bill authorizing municipalities to appoint rent investigating commissions. The bill provides that if the commission finds a landlord who has unreasonably increased rentals it may publish his name or raise his assessment so that his return shall not be more than 10 per cent.

It is understood that the leaders have agreed to pass Senator Abeles's resolution providing for a State-wide investigation of the rent situation. The resolution appropriates $10,000 for the expenses of the committee, which is to consist of two Senators and three Assemblymen. The commission is also charged with investigating the distribution and supply of ice.

TO ASK REPEAL OF DRY LAW.

Representative Haskell Says He Will Introduce Resolution.

Representative Reuben Haskell of the Tenth District, Brooklyn, issued a statement yesterday in which he announced his intention of introducing in the next Congress a resolution for the submission of an amendment to repeal the prohibition amendment to the Constitution. He declared it was his conviction that prohibition was a purely moral issue and not properly within the sphere of legislation, except for revenue, the exercise of police power, and, in war times, to conserve the food supply.

"All sincere advocates of prohibition," Mr. Haskell said, "should confine themselves to educational methods and the appeal to conscience. They will be convinced of the wisdom of this plan if the ill-advised prohibition program by legislation is continued, by observing the evils arising from the use of liquors for medicinal purposes and the abuse thereof, the illicit traffic in inferior wet goods, the increased use of drugs, the persecutions and the violations of the sacred rights of citizenship against search in their homes, in futile attempts to enforce this blue law, all of which will make present-day conditions look like heaven in comparison. Under the proposed legislative acts to define intoxicating beverages there is still a chance to rectify in part by removal of the embargo on beers and wines, the mistake which has been made, and at any rate, action should be taken to repeal the prohibition amendment."

If the people were given an opportunity to vote direct on the proposition, Congressman Haskell said he was convinced it would be ascertained that many individuals have acted in advancing prohibition without finding out the sentiment of the people on the question.

TO FIGHT ARGENTINE REDS.

Buenos Aires Citizens Arming to Deal with May 1 Demonstration.

BUENOS AIRES, April 17.—Young Argentineans, including the members of the "January White Guards," are organizing and arming to combat the Maximalist demonstration being prepared for May 1. Two thousand are already under arms, and declare their determination to deal vigorously with the expected outbreak. The regular army is now composed of new conscripts who have been under the colors less than two months.

If the demonstration in Buenos Aires assumes a revolutionary character, it is expected to be counterbalanced in the interior, where the Maximalist agitation has not yet reached a stage of importance.

It is rumored that the demonstration of May 1 will probably serve to cover important political changes.

REPUBLICANS AGREE ON INCOME TAX

erty, but this measure the leaders have little hope of seeing enacted.

Senator Davenport, at the request of real estate interests in New York City, has introduced a bill providing for a limitation of the real estate taxes in cities throughout the State to 68 per cent. of the total levy on all sources.

The Senate today passed the Knight bill which amends the inheritance tax law so as to provide for a tax on the estates of nonresident decendants. According to estimates furnished by State Controller Travis the change would add approximately $3,000,000 annually to the proceeds from the inheritance tax. Under it, according to the Controller, the State could have collected $3,500,000 from the Hetty Green estate and approximately $2,000,000 from the Harkness estate, from which the State, under its present inheritance tax law, received nothing.

The Republican leaders of the Senate have discharged their compact with Governor Smith which called for the passage of the two bills providing for the reorganization of the Public Service Commission for the First District, and which contemplates two commissions, both single-headed, to take the place of the present body composed of five Commissioners, one of the new Commissioners to supervise rapid transit construction and the other to exercise the regulatory functions of the present commission. The bills are now in the Assembly Rules Committee, with the assurance that they will be brought out and passed.

Of the several measures providing wage increases for school teachers only one is assured of passage. The one likely to go through is the Lockwood bill, which will involve annual increases running over a period of eight years, which in the present year will cost at a minimum $5,000,000 to localities and an equal amount to the State in the form of contributions to school districts.

The bill providing for the return of the State Convention will not be reported from committee, and apparently nothing is being done by the promoters to place it in the line of passage. Senator Charles M. Walton of Ulster, one of its sponsors, said tonight that he would renew his efforts at next year's session, andexpected success then.

The Senate and Assembly held all-day sessions, and the Senate sat until a late hour tonight. Night sessions are scheduled for tomorrow, when the tax bills will be called up for final passage in both branches of the Legislature.

Senator Downing's bill, abolishing the New York City Court House Board and providing for a court house site commission, passed the Senate today. The bill names the Board of Estimate and Apportionment to sit with an advisory board of eight residents of New York County, to be appointed by the Mayor, as the commission.

Automobile owners are called upon to pay increased registration fees for their automobiles under terms of a bill introduced by the Senate Internal Affairs Committee and passed by the Senate this afternoon by a vote of 37 to 6. This measure is a part of the general legislative program to bring additional revenue to the State. It is expected to net about $2,500,000.

The Senate, by a vote of fifty to one, passed the Blakely bill establishing the three-platoon system for firemen in cities of the first class. The bill was amended in the Senate to eliminate second and third class cities from its provisions, and it now contains a referendum rider to put the whole question up to the people. In its amended form it will be sent back to the Assembly, where concurrence is expected.

Begin to Try Los Angeles Mayor.

LOS ANGELES, April 17.—The trial of Mayor A. T. Woodman on a Grand Jury indictment, charging, in effect, that he had accepted a bribe for protecting vice, began today in the criminal department of the Superior Court. Six women were in the first panel of jurors. Mr. Woodman is a candidate for re-election at the primaries which will be held May 6.

SPEAKS FOR DEVELOPMENT.

Secretary Redfield Urges Adoption of National Policy in Boston Speech.

BOSTON, April 17.—Adoption of a definite national policy of developing the resources of the United States so that the country would become as nearly economically independent of the world as possible was advocated by Secretary Redfield here tonight in an address before the Executive Association of Wholesale Grocers of New England.

"The United States can never reach full economic independence of the world, because no one nation is ever given all tehblessings of Providence," Mr. Redfield stated, "but we can become far more independent than we are. Public opinion should not only support but urge the Government to make and carry out a definite policy, with the requisite funds for carrying it out, where the national domain, whether in the United States, Alaska, Hawaii, or Porto Rico, should have its possible resources ascertained and steps taken to their development.

"This should include our transportation systems, our cable facilities under seas, our waterways, our mines, and supplies of oil, our timber reserves, our coast surveys, the resources of fisheries, the reclamation of waste land, the checking of industrial waste; in short, a forward policy of 'develop America.'"

Mr. Redfield asserted that most of the appropriations were for the Government's political work rather than for practical, constructive undertakings.

Votes Censure for Iowa Governor.

DES MOINES, April 17.—Censure of Governor W. L. Harding and criticism of Attorney General H. M. Havner for their activities in the Rathbun pardon case were voted today by the House of Representatives. Eleven hours after the House had adopted the minority report of the Judiciary Committee, censuring the Governor, it accepted the majority report on Havner, which criticised the Attorney General's action, but declares him not guilty of misconduct.

HAS 8,350 WORKERS ABROAD

Y. M. C. A. Force Is Larger Than It Was in November.

Five months after the signing of the armistice the Young Men's Christian Association has 8,350 workers overseas, according to an official statement issued yesterday by the National War Work Council of the association. The figure shows an increase of 726 workers since November.

Of the total number, 5,528 are men, a small portion of whom, according to the statement, are directing the overseas work from the Paris headquarters, while the great majority are scattered from Archangel to Rome and from Vladivistok to Brest and London and the north of Scotland. There are 2,187 women workers abroad. More than forty are assisting in the motion picture entertainment of the troops. In the overseas entertainment bureau of the War Work Council there are 635 men and women workers abroad.

Since the beginning of its overseas work, the Y. M. C. A. has sent 11,229 men and women abroad—8,338 men and 2,891 women. Of these, 2,645 men and 234 women have returned, eleven were killed in action, three died from wounds, and fifty-six from disease and other causes.

NEWARK GIRL IS MISSING.

Police Can Find No Clue to 14-Year-Old Viola Mueller.

The police of Newark are conducting a search for fourteen-year-old Viola Mueller of 20 Baldwin Street, who, according to her parents, has been missing a week. Lieutenant Brady of the vice squad, in charge of the case, said last night that the police had not a single clue to the girl's whereabouts.

Under arrest in connection with the police investigation is a man giving his name as Howard Beatty, who said he was a window dresser and lived with his wife on West Sixty-third Street, New York City. Beatty's arrest, according to Lieutenant Brady, was made as a result of information given by relatives of the missing child, who said Viola had met him at the Newark railroad station and that on their first meeting Beatty had given Viola a dollar for showing him to the business section of the city.

When the police arrested Beatty he at first denied he knew the girl, but later, it is said, admitted that he had met her several times. He is held in $2,500 bail to await the action of the Grand Jury.

CONCLUSIONS

In arriving at a conclusion with regard to a building contractor one should take full cognizance of the conclusion the contractor is expected to arrive at.

And in this respect his past is a better guide than his promise.

NEW U.S. INDICTMENT AGAINST DR. RUMELY

Former Mail Owner's Counsel, Kaufmann and Lindheim, Included in Charge.

HELD UNDER WAR TRADE ACT

Alleged to Have Sought to Deceive Property Custodian as to Paper's Ownership.

A new indictment was filed yesterday by the Federal Grand Jury against Dr. Edward A. Rumely, former editor of The Evening Mail, and S. Walter Kaufmann of the law firm of Hays, Kaufmann & Lindheim, together with Norvin R. Lindheim, also a member of the law firm, charging violation of the Trading with the Enemy act by obstructing the United States in obtaining possession of The Mail when it was alleged that it was the property of the German Government. This indictment will supersede the indictment on a similar charge found against Rumely and Kaufmann early in August, 1918.

Another indictment charges Kaufmann and Lindheim with violating the same act by counseling and advising Dr. Rumely not to report to the Alien Property Custodian, and United States Comment owned the majority of stock in The Mail, having advanced $1,301,700 for its purchase. On the previous indictment Dr. Rumely and Kaufmann are held in $35,000 and $5,000, respectively. Lindheim will be arraigned before Federal Judge Learned Hand today when bail will be fixed.

Besides the indictments found here Dr. Rumely was also indicted in Washington, D. C., last December for failing to make a proper report to the Alien Propedty Custodian, and United States Commissioner Hitchcock, after a hearing, directed that he should be sent to Washington for trial in that district. An appeal was taken, and the matter is now pending before the United States Supreme Court.

The law firm of which Kaufmann and Lindheim are members, was counsel for the German Embassy before the United States entered the war, and Mr. Kaufmann, when the indictment was returned against him last Summer, vigorously asserted his loyalty to the United States, and explained to the Department of Justice his precise connection with the transfer of The Mail to the control of Dr. Rumely. Until the indictment against Mr. Lindheim was returned yesterday he had not appeared conspicuously in any of the proceedings growing out of the purchase of the newspaper. Part of the indictment against the three defendents reads:

"That it was a part of said conspiracy and agreement that the defendant, S. Walter Kaufmann, on behalf of the firm of Hays, Kaufmann & Lindheim, should make and render to said Alien Property Custodian, a misleading, false, and fraudulent report and statement with respect to said property, that it was a part of said conspiracy that the defendants should withhold and conceal from the United States and from the Alien Property Custodian the true facts with respect to said property, and that it was further a part of said conspiracy and agreement that the defendants should obstruct, impede, hamper, delay, and prevent the transfer, assignment, and delivery of the said property to the Alien Property Custodian."

The indictment against Lindheim, the new defendant, says that he "unlawfully, willfully, knowingly, and feloniously did counsel, command, induce, and procure the said Edward A. Rumely, having and holding the custody and control of said property for and on behalf of said enemy, to fail, neglect, and omit to report to said Alien Property Custodian within the period of time prescribed by law, the fact that the said Edward A. Rumely held and had the custody and control of said property."

While all of the indictments charge specific crimes each of them is covered by the provisions of the Trading with the Enemy act.

BELGIAN WAR DAMAGES PUT AT $6,755,000,000

Estimated Cost of Restoring the Country to Its Economic Position When Attacked in 1914.

BRUSSELS, April 17.—Belgium's war damages, for which it is contended an indemnity should be collected from Germany, are placed at 35,000,000,000 francs, ($6,755,000,000,) in a report made by the Central Industrial Committee, which has completed an investigation of the subject. The committee has reckoned the cost of materials on the basis of prices now prevailing, declaring that this is only just if Belgium is to be restored to the condition it was in at the beginning of August, 1914.

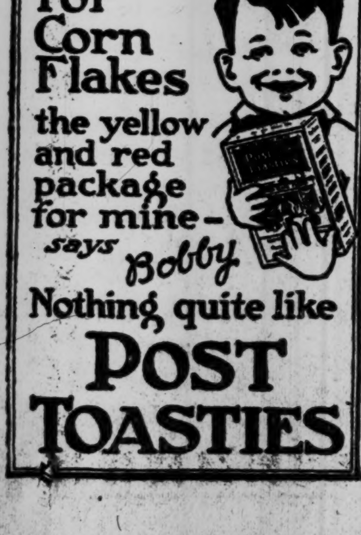
In itemizing the damages the claim for State property is placed at 5,535,000,000 francs, of which 4,515,000,000 francs is on account of railroads, posts, and telegraphs.

The war expenses, including aid granted, are found to have been 10,118,000,000 francs; war contributions imposed on the provinces by the Germans, 2,700,000,000 francs; fines and contributions imposed on communes, 1,880,000,000 francs.

The damage to Belgian industry is placed at slightly more than 8,000,000,000 francs, of which approximately 5,750,000,000 francs is computed as due for the destruction and requisition of property, while for the destruction of private houses and furniture 3,000,000,000 francs is claimed.

Tacoma Radicals Boycott Loan.

TACOMA, April 17.—The Tacoma Central Labor Council has declined to appoint a labor representative on the Victory Loan Committee or to have anything to do with pushing the notes, it was announced today. The action is regarded as an attempt by the radical labor element to boycott the loan, it was asserted by conservative labor men today.



CHARLES URGED PEACE ON THE CROWN PRINCE

Wrote in August, 1917, Declaring It Time to End the Sacrifices.

BERLIN, April 16, (Associated Press.)—The Vienna correspondent of the Zeitung-am-Mittag says that there has been published there a letter alleged to have been written by former Emperor Charles of Austria to the former German Crown Prince. The letter, it is stated, was dated Aug. 20, 1917, and said among other things:

"Bulgaria is on the point of dropping out of the war, and the situation demands that peace should be concluded before Winter. I have positive indications that we could win over an opponent if Germany would be willing to make certain territorial sacrifices in Alsace-Lorraine, but I do not want Germany alone to make sacrifices. I will myself bear the lion's share in this direction."

Pointing out that Austria in 1915 offered Trentino to Italy to avoid Italy's entrance into the war, former Emperor Charles proceeded:

"Germany is in a similar, but far more hopeless, situation, and you, as heir to the throne, have the right to throw a weighty word into the scale. * * * I beg you to unite your efforts with mine to end the war quickly and honorably."

NEW WILKINS WITNESSES.

Police Say They Know Men Seen on Night of Crime.

MINEOLA, L. I., April 17.—A blow to the defense of Dr. Walter Keen Wilkins, charged with the murder of his wife, Julia, is seen in statements made by officials of Nassau County today. It declared that three men who were seen about Long Beach on the day of the murder, and whose presence in the village was expected to be used by the defense in bolstering up Dr. Wilkins's story that robbers murdered his wife, have been found and have given a full account of their actions that day.

It is said, furthermore, that the men are well thought of in the section and that they have expressed willingness to be State's witnesses, in case it should be necessary in rebuttal of the "robbery motive" theory.

WORK OR FIGHT? WORK!

Six-Foot Justice of the Peace Gives Wife Beater Change of Heart.

Special to The New York Times.

SOUTHAMPTON, L. I., April 17.—"You'll have to work or fight," ruled Justice of the Peace R. A. Kendrick yesterday when Frank Powanhaski, a powerful looking farm hand, was arraigned before him charged with beating his wife, a frail woman with two children.

"Who'll I fight?" demanded Powanhaski, looking quite eager for the fray.

"Me," retorted Judge Kendrick shortly, standing up behind his desk.

When Powanhaski saw that the Justice was 6 feet tall he wilted.

"I'll work," he said, and also promised to pay his wife $7 a week and refrain from striking her.

"There ought to be a whipping post for wife-beaters," said Judge Kendrick. "If the village authorities will install one, I'll gladly act as official whipper, and I won't charge for my services."

The Change in Men Should Be Reflected in Their Clothes

There is a big difference between the young man of today and the young man before the war. He is as different in physique as he is in mind.

A Broader View-Point

He's set up straighter—quicker in thought. He is more alert and confident in bearing—broadened and strengthened.

THE HOUSE OF KUPPENHEIMER was the first to see this change. And to meet it in an entirely new design of clothes.

The new Spring Kuppenheimer models are fashioned in the new spirit of things.

Awaiting You

The Kuppenheimer styles for Spring are built authoritatively of clean-cut fabrics—tailored to hold their shape through wear and weather—and are ready now at all seven Brill Stores.

There is just one way to justify the price you pay for clothes: and that is, the service and satisfaction they give you.

It is this principle that has made Kuppenheimer clothing the finest value in America.

TRANSPORT CRUSHES NAVAL TUG AT PIER

REST OF CREW RESCUED

Quick Work by Other Boats and Life Belts Thrown from Liner Save Men.

The transport Saxonia, from Brest with 1,396 men on board, while being warped alongside Pier 53, North River, yesterday afternoon rammed and sank the naval tug Freehold. One man is believed to have been drowned. Shortly after the accident it was reported that thirteen of the crew had been lost. It was not until more than four hours after the accident that the crew of the tug could be mustered at the naval station at Bay Ridge.

The man believed to have been lost was Larry Lanahan, chief machinist mate, U. S. N. A report that wto other men had been drowned was not believed by the officers. Two men are said to have been picked up by a river craft. Theer was doubt whether two of the men on the crew list were on board at the time of the accident.

The Saxonia was one of the vessels that was able to come to her pier when the fog of the morning lifted. The Freehold, with a crew of fifteen men and two officers, met the steamship at Quarantine and followed her to her pier. When about 400 feet off the pier, two other tugs joined the Freehold and began the work of warping the liner in. The Freehold undertook the work of getting out bow and stern lines so as to swing the bow of the Saxonia about allowing her to glide stern first alongside her pier.

The parting of a line when the transport was about 200 feet from the pier head made it necessary for the tug to change her position, and she started her engines going astern. There was a strong tide running, and the Saxonia to avoid drifting, started her engines going. It seemed to those on the pier that the combination of tide and the current set up by the steamship's propellers was too strong for the smaller craft, and she was drawn into a dangerous position under the overhang of the Saxonia's quarter.

There came shouts from the pier and from the deck of the liner, while the siren of the Saxonia began to sound a warning to the Freehold. The small boat neared the stern of the transport and then a propeller blade on the upward stroke sliced through the side of the navy boat below the water line.

As the crash of the blow sounded the officer in the pilot house of the Freehold yanked the whistle cord and the crew appeared on deck as the little craft began to lurch. From the deck of the transport the men could be seen as they jumped into the river and swam for safety.

Almost immediately after the liner's propeller had all but cut her stern off, the Freehold went down in fifty feet of water, leaving only her topmast showing.

The work of rescue was quickly under way. Lifebelts were thrown from the deck of the Saxonia. The alarm sounded by the Freehold brought the small boat used in "running lines" from the pier, the two tugs that were assisting the Freehold, and the fireboat Thomas Willett from a nearby pier. Three of the crew were picked up by the Willett. One of the crew instead of waiting for help stripped off some of his clothing and swam to the pier. Others seized life belts. All the rescued were taken on board the naval tug Crawford and later to the station at Bay Ridge.

The tug was a former Central Railroad of New Jersey boat, taken over by the United States Naval Service in September, 1917, and converted into a mine sweeper, and assigned to the Mine Sweeping Division at Tompkinsville, S. I. Since that time, and up until a month ago she was engaged in sweeping German-laid mines off Barnegat and Fire Island. The vessel is now operating under the jurisdiction of the Naval Overseas Transportation Service.

RAINBOW TROOPS SAIL ON WARSHIPS

Two Battleships and Two Cruisers Bringing 4,500 Members of Division Home.

WASHINGTON, April 17.—More than 4,500 officers and men of the 42d (Rainbow) Division were included in troops announced by the War Department today as having sailed from France. The Rainbow Division men are aboard four warships—the Battleships Minnesota and South Carolina, due at Newport News, April 27, and the cruisers North Carolina and Montana, due at New York on the same day.

The units announced today as having sailed include the Headquarters of the 83d Infantry Brigade, commanded by Brig. Gen. Frank M. Caldwell; the 167th Infantry, formerly the 4th Alabama Infantry; the 151st Machine Gun Battalion, originally composed of three companies of the 2d Georgia Infantry, and the 117th Signal Battalion which, when it went over seas, was made up of Missouri troops.

The Battleship Minnesota has aboard the 151st Machine Gun Battalion, complete; Companies L and M of the 167th Infantry; a casual company each from Connecticut and New York, and two casual officers.

The battleship South Carolina is bringing the 117th Field Signal Battalion, complete, and twenty-four casual companies.

The cruiser North Carolina has on board the field and staff, headquarters, and supply companies, medical detachments, and 1st Battalion of the 167th Infantry; casual companies for New York and Iowa, and twelve casual officers.

The cruiser Montana is carrying the headquarters of the 83d Infantry Brigade, 2d and 3d Battalion Headquarters, Machine Gun Company, and Companies E, F, G, H, I and K of the 167th Infantry, and sixteen casual officers, among whom is Brig. Gen. Caldwell.

The transport Matoika sailed April 16 for Newport News with Base Hospitals 1, 9, 17, 52, 58, 67, 68, and Evacuation Hospitals 1, 2, and 4; Headquarters detchment, 69th Infantry Brigade; 110th Supply Train; Field and Staff, 1st Battalion; sanitary detachments, and Companies A to D, inclusive, of the 346th Infantry, three convalescent detachments, and three casual companies.

The transport Antigone also sailed April 16 for Newport News with the 110th Field Signal Battalion, 110th Sanitary Train, Field Hospitals 137, 138, 139, and 140, 129th and 130th Machine Gun Battalions.

The War Department also announced that the headquarters and medical detachments and Companies A to F, inclusive, of the 12th Engineers, were aboard the transport Cape May, due at New York April 30, instead of the 16th Engineers, as previously announced.

The 4th and 30th Companies and Headquarters 2d Battalion of the 20th Engineers have been assigned to early convoy.

Base Hospital 11 is on board the transport Rinjdam, due to arrive at Newport News April 24, in addition to the units carried by the ship already announced.

FIRST OF 77TH UNITS SAIL.

Publication of Ships Carrying Division to Begin Today.

The publication of the names of ships on which the units of the 77th Division sail for home will probably begin today, according to the advance contingent. The first boat was scheduled to sail yesterday.

Those in charge of the entertainment program were elated yesterday when Mrs. W. K. Vanderbilt, Jr., notified them that she would donate every seat in three theatres to the boys. The Y. M. C. A. has also arranged to supply tickets to the men.

The advance party has asked the public to refrain from showering cigarettes and candy on the boys as they march up Fifth Avenue. This appeal was made, they said, in order that nothing might be done to destroy the effectiveness of the military parade which they hoped to stage. They also pointed out that this form of distributing gifts was wasteful because the men could not stop to gather up offerings of friends.

Governor Alfred E. Smith has been added as a member of the Welcome Committee for the Jewish boys returning from the war. In a letter to the Chairman of the committee George R. Van Namee, secretary to the Governor, wrote that Governor Smith, realizing the importance of the part played by the Jewish boys from the east side in the war, was glad to become identified with a movement to welcome them home.

Win Distinguished Service Cross for Heroism Displayed at St. Souplet.

WASHINGTON, April 14.—The Commander in Chief, in the name of the President, has awarded the Distinguished Service Cross to the following-named officers and soldiers for the acts of extraordinary heroism described after their names:

Private Frank W. Garvin, Co. C, 107th Infantry—For extraordinary heroism in action near St. Souplet on Oct. 18. After the advance of his company had been stopped by strong hostile machine gun fire, Private Garvin, with three companions, advanced far ahead of the front line to attack an enemy position located in a large farmhouse. By skillful manoeuvring in the broad daylight they covered all entrances to the house and forced the surrender of the entire force of the enemy, numbering thirty-six men and two officers. During the exploit they killed two Germans who attempted to take cover in the cellar. Home address, George K. Garvin, father, 84 Nassau Boulevard, Garden City, Long Island, N. Y.

Corporal Charles T. Stoll, Co. C, 107th Infantry—For extraordinary heroism in action near St. Souplet on Oct. 18. After the advance of his company had been stopped by strong hostile machine gun fire, Corporal Stoll, with three companions, advanced far ahead of the front line to attack an enemy position located in a large farmhouse. By skillful manoeuvring in the broad daylight they covered all the entrances to the house and forced the surrender of the entire force of the enemy, numbering thirty-six men and two officers. During the exploit they killed two Germans who attempted to take cover in the cellar. Home address, Mrs. John Stoll, mother, 238 West Seventeenth Street, New York, N. Y.

First Lieut. William S. Hawkins, 107th Infantry—For extraordinary heroism in action near St. Souplet between Oct. 17 and 18. Acting as liaison officer during the forcing of the La Selle River he was severely wounded by an exploding shell. Undeterred by the weakened condition to which his wound reduced him, he bravely continued on, working untiringly under heavy shell and machine gun fire for two days until the advance of his battalion was checked. Home address, Eugene M. Hawkins, brother, 16 North Fourteenth Street, Flushing, Long Island, N. Y.

Private Charles C. Page, (Deceased,) Co. D, 107th Infantry—For extraordinary heroism in action near Ronssoy on Sept. 29. During operations against the Hindenburg line he crawled out through the murderous fire and rescued a wounded comrade, carrying him to the nearest dressing station. For the following act of extraordinary heroism in action near St. Souplet on Oct. 15 he is awarded a cluster to be worn with the Distinguished Service Cross. Private Page was sent ahead with a scout patrol of six men, when they were suddenly fired upon. One of their number was killed and four others, including Private Page, were wounded. With one leg blown off and the other hanging by a fragment of flesh he stimulated the greatest confidence in his companions by his words of encouragement while being placed on a stretcher. He died from the effects of his wounds shortly after reaching the hospital. Next of kin, Mrs. Anna L. Page, mother, 239 East Fifty-fourth Street, New York, N. Y.

Private Epifanio Affatato, Co. C, 107th Infantry—For extraordinary heroism in action near Ronssoy on Sept. 29. After being severely wounded by flying shrapnel Private Affatato took shelter in a shell hole somewhat in advance of his company, from which he had become separated in the fog and smoke. He saved the lives of four of his wounded comrades who were occupying the shell hole by throwing live grenades, which had been tossed into the shell hole by members of his own company in the rear, into the enemy's lines. Home address, Epifanio Affatato, 472 Park Avenue, Brooklyn, N. Y.

First Lieut. Ward B. Chamberlin, 307th Infantry—For extraordinary heroism in action near Merval on Sept. 15. While leading his company in attack through terrific shell fire he was severely wounded in the right hand, this wound rendering his entire right arm useless. Despite his weakness from loss of blood he refused to be evacuated until forced to do so. Home address, Mrs. Elizabeth B. Chamberlin, mother, in care of Chamberlin, Kafer & Wilds, 2 Rector Street, New York, N. Y.

14 AMERICANS DIE IN WRECK.

Six French Soldiers Also Killed in Troop Train Collision.

PARIS, April 17.—Fourteen American and six French soldiers were killed when an express train carrying American troops crashed into a stationary train with French soldiers on furlough near Le Mans today. Twenty-five Americans and twenty-two Frenchmen were injured.

Le Mans is in the Department of the Sarthe, west of Paris.

PARIS PLANS FOR MAY DAY.

Labor Meetings to be Held at All Quarters to Press Demands.

PARIS, April 17, (Associated Press.)—The Committee of the General Federation of Labor has decided upon arrangements for a manifestation on the 1st of May. Union meetings will be held in every quarter of Paris and the Seine Department, at which a resolution will be submitted presenting the principal claims of the Federation's program—an eight-hour day, full amnesty for all political crimes, non-intervention in Russia, abolition of the censorship and the state of seige and a return to constitutional guarantees and liberties.

The resolution will specify that organized cessation of work will not exceed the day of May 1, the workers hoping that the extent of the manifestation will convince the Government and the employers that if the claims are not satisfied the unions will be able to institute an immediate strike on a given order.

The committee of the Federation, not having had time to organize propaganda throughout France, counts upon the cessation of work in Paris and the Seine Department only. Such cessation will be observed in the case of transportation, although the unions connected with transportation have decided that this will not be absolutely complete, owing to the importance of the transportation service, which if stopped altogether, would mean the suspension of all services and interfere with the manifestants themselves.

INCREASE OF ADVERTISING

The unusual demand on advertising space in The New York Times due to the great increase of business attending the return of the United States to peace conditions will undoubtedly prevail for several weeks.

Advertisements, both local and national, are now offered The Times in so great a volume that many are crowded out in order that the space allotted to news may not be encroached upon.

Today 35 columns are omitted and 110 columns published.

It is suggested wherever possible that copy be ordered for insertion on Saturday, Sunday, or Monday, especially on Sunday, when more advertising space is available than on other days.

GEN. GLENN DEFENDS PRESENT ARMY LAW

Our System Is Fair, He Says, and Gave Us Best Disciplined Army in Europe.

BUT IT ISN'T CIVIL JUSTICE

Exact Justice May Be Sacrificed, View of a Divisional Judge Advocate —Opponents to be Heard Monday.

WASHINGTON, April 17.—The system of military jurisprudence is designed to produce an efficient, dependable fighting army, not to do exact justice to individual soldiers, according to the views vigorously presented today to the Committee of the American Bar Association by army officers of field experience, including Major General Edwin F. Glenn, organizer and commander of the 83d Division, and now again in command of Camp Sherman.

In attaining that objective, the officers contended, the present machinery for enforcing military discipline had proved both excellent and fair, the final product of the system closely approximating justice to the individual in addition to producing what General Glenn described as the best disciplined army in France.

Cases of court-martial sentences so excessive in the penalty awarded as to be ridiculous were freely admitted by the officers. Such sentences only served, General Glenn insisted, to prove that even in the early stage of the military-legal proceedings, the action of the courts in no case being final, fairness was the general rule.

Judge Gregory, Chairman of the committee, and General Glenn engaged in considerable argument which brought out that the officer, speaking from both his military experience and his special training in civil law as a graduate of the law school of the University of Minnesota, saw little in common between the purposes of civil justice and its military equivalent.

Major Charles H. MacDonald, General Glenn's Divisional Judge Advocate at Camp Sherman, but a temporary officer, and before the war counsel for the Federal Trade Commission, followed his chief and expressed the same views.

"You are not looking for exact justice," Major MacDonald declared, "when you are building an army of the size of that the United States was building. Suppose men did get sentences of twenty years, or forty years. The dishonorable discharges were suspended and they went to the Disciplinary Barracks, probably to be restored to service if they were worthy of restoration. It was the lesson involved.

"When exact justice interferes with the building up of the army, exact justice must be sacrificed."

"There is, of course," Major MacDonald added, "some room for improvement. There always is in any system of law or taxation, but the present army justice system is a very efficient machine. We have felt that we could attend to the question of exact justice after the war."

The officer submitted a record of 174 general court cases tried at Camp Sherman. He called attention to one sentence of twenty-five years imposed on a man who refused to obey a lawful order from an officer. On the face of the record, he said, the sentence seemed excessive, but that it was justified by facts, and as reviewing Judge Advocate he had regretted only that the prison term had not been longer. Explaining the case, he said the soldier had been ordered to work at the base hospital on a Saturday during the influenza epidemic and had refused on account of religious scruples, alleging he was a member of the faith that set that day aside for worship. On that particular Saturday, the officer said, there had been 140 deaths at the hospital and there were hundreds of very sick men to be cared for.

Both General Glenn and Major MacDonald insisted that the circumstances of any case must be fully known before it could be determined that the sentence was excessive. Both opposed suggestions that radical changes in court-martial procedure were necessary or that any large infusion of men trained in civil law into the military establishment was necessary. Every accused man was surrounded now with checks to safeguard his rights, they asserted.

The opposing views held in the service will be available to the committee next Monday, when Lieut. Col. Samuel T. Ansell, former Judge Advocate General and the leading figure in the criticism that has been directed against the court-martial system, will appear. He will be followed by Colonel John Wigmore, also of the Judge Advocate General's department, but a lawyer in civil life and in the army only for the war period.

CHILDS MUST FACE ELECTION CHARGES

Appellate Division of Supreme Court Reverses Order Sustaining Habeas Corpus Writ.

VOTE IS FOUR TO ONE

Head of 1917 Fusion Committee Indicted for Failure to Report Campaign Expense Items.

The Appellate Division of the Supreme Court, by a vote of four to one, decided yesterday that William Hamlin Childs, head of the Fusion Executive Committee of the Mitchel Mayoralty campaign in 1917, must stand trial on the indictments charging him with violating the law by failing to report as campaign expenditures $5,000 paid to former Governor William Sulzer and $6,500 to Mischa Applebaum. The court reversed an order of Supreme Court Justice Finch sustaining a writ of habeas corpus sued out by Mr. Childs, and holding that Mr. Childs had done nothing for which he was indictable.

Justice Page of the Appellate Division alone concurred with the decision of Justice Finch. The case will be taken to the Court of Appeals. The indictments against Sulzer, former Senator Josiah T. Newcomb, and ex-Coroner Healy are also involved in the proceedings.

The prevailing opinion, written by Justice Laughlin, sets forth the allegations of the "conspiracy" indictment against the defendants, and states that these allegations "sufficiently charge the relator [Mr. Childs] and his co-defendants with a conspiracy to prevent a compliance with the requirements of the election law by Clarke as Treasurer." The court takes the same position concerning the indictments relating to the Sulzer and Applebaum payments as violations of the penal law, and on this point Justice Laughlin says:

"As to the argument that the election law was intended to provide an exclusive remedy, thus barring recourse to the penal law, I think it is without force."

Justice Laughlin also holds that the attempt to question the sufficiency of the indictments by habeas corpus proceedings was not the proper course to pursue. Presiding Justice Clarke votes to uphold the reversal of Justice Finch's order, but on the sole ground that habeas corpus proceedings should not be resorted to in such a case. The dissenting decision of Justice Page is based on this point alone, and in ruling that the habeas corpus proceeding was proper, Justice Page said "the great object" of such a proceeding "is the liberation of those who may be imprisoned without sufficient legal cause."

Brooklyn Aviator Dies After Fall.

SAN ANTONIO, Texas, April 17.—R. S. Jones of Brooklyn, a flying cadet at Kelly Field, died today as the result of injuries he sustained when the airplane, in which he was flying with Lieutenant C. B. Sherry, fell at Stinson Field. Sherry was only slightly injured. An involuntary tail spin was the cause of the accident.

SALESMAN LEAPS TO DEATH.

Body Barely Misses Walkers on West Twenty-fifth Street.

While crowds were hurrying along West Twenty-fifth Street, between Broadway and Fifth Avenue, shortly before noon yesterday, a man who was later identified as James C. Miner, 42 years old, a salesman, of 609 West 127th Street, was seen to leap from a window on the eleventh floor of the building at 9 West Twenty-fifth Street, and fell into the street near the curbstone. The body narrowly missed striking several pedestrians. Hundreds of girls, employed in buildings on the opposite side of the street, opened windows and screamed as they saw the man standing on the ledge for a second, before taking the fatal plunge.

Miner was a salesman for R. McMillan & Co., lumber dealers of Oshkosh, Wis., and had an office on the eleventh floor of the building at 1,123 Broadway, the side entrance being in West Twenty-fifth Street. As soon as he arrived this morning, his stenographer said he requested her to leave the office for a few minutes, as he wished to telephone. She stepped into an adjoining office and in a few moments heard the screams of the young women.

She informed the police that Miner had suffered from stomach trouble for some time past, but that he seldom complained. She said he was single and that his mother, Mrs. P. H. Miner, lives in Rome, N. Y.

PLAN TO FIGHT LYNCHING.

Committee Calls Meeting for This City Next Month.

The committee in charge has announced that a national conference on lynching, "to take concerted action against lynching and lawlessness wherever found," will be held in this city on May 5 and 6 by a group of 120 prominent men and women of the country. Among those who will be represented are five Governors from the North and one from the South, and prominent persons from twenty-eight States.

In announcing the call the committee representing the signers, of which Moorfield Storey of Boston is Chairman and John R. Shillady of New York Secretary, says that 3,216 lynchings, exclusive of the East St. Louis and other mob riots, have occurred in the United States in the last thirty years, 702 of which have been lynchings of white people and 2,514 lynchings of negroes; that 63 negroes and 4 white persons were lynched in 1918.

MME. VICTORICA ON STAND

But Prosecution Fails to Link Spy with Fricke at Treason Trial.

Efforts of the Government yesterday to connect Albert Paul Fricke, on trial before Federal Judge Mayer for treason, with Mme. Victorica, the German spy, failed. She testified that she had called on Fricke at the Hotel Knickerbocker, but only to get the address of Karl Rodiger, also under indictment. Later Fricke introduced her to Rodiger. But the prosecution failed to learn from her that she had ever given Fricke instructions from Germany or received any from him. She was not cross-examined.

Miss Lillian Wallace testified that Fricke called at her home, 617 West 147th Street, early in 1917 to see Rodiger, who was then using one of his many aliases. Fricke called only once, and she had no idea of what they talked about.

Before court adjourned Judge Mayer indicated that the testimony of Mme. Victorica would not be allowed to carry weight against Fricke. Failure of the prosecution to show that he knew she was a German spy before seeking to show that any conversation he had with her was of a disloyal character eliminated Mme. Victorica from the case, he said.

The trial will be resumed on Monday.

The Compliment Paid the Hot Spot Chalmers by other Makers

SO successful has been the public response to the Hot Spot feature of the Chalmers and so readily and consistently has this device made good that imitations are now beginning to appear on other cars.

"Yes, we too have a Hot Spot device on our car," is a comment to be heard daily in other motor establishments.

There are two vital weaknesses in the imitations. First, the Hot Spot is not efficient without the Ram's-horn. Second, the Ram's-horn is not a device that can be "fitted to" any motor. The motor must be designed to fit the Ram's-horn.

It is the proper co-ordination of all three—the Hot Spot the Ram's-horn and the Cylinder block—that has made Chalmers one of the few great cars of the world.

It is always a compliment to be imitated. None greater can be paid. But you will be full of compliments for the present day Chalmers after you've turned the thousand-mile mark in one.

SALVATION ARMY LAUDED BY GIBBONS

Cardinal's Praise in Letter to Whitman in Connection with Home Service Drive.

$13,000,000 IN WEEK IS AIM

How Two Lassies Saved Soldiers from "Trap" on Broadway Told at Headquarters.

In a letter to former Governor Charles S. Whitman, Chairman of the National Committee of the Home Service Fund for the Salvation Army, made public last night, Cardinal Gibbons gave high praise to the work of the Salvation Army workers with the American troops on the firing line. The letter read:

> Honorable and Dear Sir: I have been asked by the local Commander of the Salvation Army to address a word to you as the National Chairman of the Campaign about to be launched in behalf of the above-named organization. This I am happy to do, and for the reason that along with my fellow American citizens, I rejoice in the splendid service which the Salvation Army rendered our soldier and sailor boys during the war. Every returning tooper is a willing witness to the efficient and generous work of the Salvation Army both at the front and in the camps at home. I am also the more happy to commend this organization because it is free from sectarian bias. The man in need of help is the object of their effort, with never a question of his creed or color.
> I trust, therefore, your efforts to raise $13,000,000 for the Salvation Army will meet with a hearty response from our generous American public. Faithfully yours,
> J. CARD. GIBBONS.

The drive for the Salvation Army Home Service Fund which begins officially on May 19 and continues for a week was planned to provide the sinews of war for the coming year through the systematic and intensive gathering of contributions both large and small instead of by the tambourine collections. The quota of $1,500,000 for the metropolitan district is to be raised by the Greater New York Committee of which Brig. Gen. Cornelius Vanderbilt is the chairman.

At Salvation Army headquarters last night they were telling a story of how two army lasses foiled an effort on the part of the military authorities here to arrest enlisted men in the city who habitually fail to salute their superior officers. It happened in this way:

Cadets May Livingston and Anna Popp, from the Salvation Army Training School, at 337 West Twenty-second Street, were jingling their tambourines and collecting contributions from the passing throng in Broadway, near Forty-eighth Street, yesterday, when they saw an officer and four men of the provost guard take their position before a motion picture theatre. The officer stood as if waiting for some one in front of the lobby of the theatre and the men loafed nonchalantly at the curb.

The Salvation Army girls were astonished when they saw two soldiers, after passing the officer, halted suddenly by the P. G.s. A moment's conference and then the two soldiers were marched off in the custody of one of the guardsmen. It didn't take the cadets long to realize what was happening when they saw the officer take up his original post and the P. G.s station themselves on the curb as before.

Cadet Livingston immediately took the corner north of the trap and Cadet Popp went just south, both jingling their tambourines and beseeching the crowd for coins as before.

"The guard will get you if you don't salute that officer!" was the whispered advice the girls gave each man in uniform as he passed them.

It wasn't long before the officer stationed at the theatre began to wonder if his eyes deceived him. One, two, three, in perfect cadence with maching time, each soldier as he passed the officer glanced squarely at him, looked him straight in the eye, and raised his right hand smartly to the hat brim just over the right eye, wrist stiff and elbow bent at an angle of forty-five degrees, as prescribed in regulations. Not a soldier failed to salute. The guards were beginning to wonder, too, when the officer saw what the Salvation Army girls were doing.

He attempted by threats and persuasion to get them to move away, even calling a policeman, but Cadets Livingston and Popp remained firm. They were within their rights, they said, and anyhow it was the Salvation Army lassies' duty to help keep the American soldier out of trouble. The officer could take himself away, they said, and he did. The trap was set, it was said, because of numerous complaints from army officers recently that the regulations regarding saluting were being ignored on Broadway.

INVESTIGATE DEUEL'S ACTS.

Court Orders Inquiry Into Lawyer's Part in Cohen Trial.

Judge McIntyre of General Sessions, who is presiding at a special investigation started by the District Attorney to determine if perjury was committed at the trial which convicted Joseph Cohen for complicity in the murder of Barnet Baff, directed Assistant District Attorney Pecora yesterday to inquire into certain alleged acts of Walter R. Deuel, who was attorney for a defendant at the murder trials. The court told Mr. Pecora that if he found any irregularity by his investigation to present the matter to the Appellate Division of the Supreme Court.

This action by Judge McIntyre was taken after Harry Blinderman, 132 Delancey Street, testified that Mr. Deuel had taken the minutes of the Grand Jury, which had indicted Willie Simon for participation in the Baff murder, to his attorney, Frank Aranow, and had permitted a copy of the minutes to be made. Blinderman said Mr. Deuel had called him to his office and had discussed the case of Simon, and had asked for a retainer of $500, and had requested a payment of $2,000 should he become attorney for Simon and get him free. Blinderman said he had given Deuel $500.

Max Lent, a butcher at 47 Norfolk Street, testified that he had advanced the money, for which Simon had given a realty mortgage on property at Far Rockaway. Blinderman testified that after this money was obtained Deuel had requested that the total payment, including the retainer, be increased to $5,000. Blinderman says he refused to pay this amount.

Oil Storage Plants at Our Ports.

WASHINGTON, April 17.—In developing its program for efficient operation of the new oil burning ships flying the American flag, the Shipping Board is preparing to build great oil storage facilities at five important ports, Boston, Philadelphia, Galveston, Colon, and Cristobal. Facilities at these ports will cost about $5,000,000. All of the vessels now being built by the Shipping Board are oil burning or combination coal and oil burning.

OPERA

By James Gibbons Huneker

Caruso's Farewell.

Enrico Caruso sang his farewell for the season last night at the Metropolitan Opera House. "Aïda" was the opera, and we were vouchsafed one of the most brilliant performances of the season. The great tenor, not satisfied with giving us full measure of voice and acting in "Carmen" last Monday night, was actually more prodigal in his vocal outpouring on this occasion and acted Radames with as much sympathy as he did Don José. "Celeste Aïda" was truly celestial Aïda and not merely warbling to some transpontine "Ada"; that is, while it was of a lyric sweetness beyond compare—unless, indeed, there be Carusos lurking elsewhere—it was neither pretty nor saccharine; in a word, virile fibre was present in this praise of the well-beloved. Mr. Caruso has hardly the physical inches for a warrior.

He looked more like a decadent ruler of some half-forgotten Byzantine empire. But in action he was both martial and impassioned enough. He was accorded a tremendous reception, and before the final curtain fell a huge section of musical New York had testified to its affection for the artist and its regret at parting with him. It was a veritable Caruso night.

Mme. Matzenauer as Amneris was truly Margarete the Magnificent. Her voice was organ-toned and she ran the gamut of love, jealousy, hatred in the part. In nile-green at first and, Isis and Osiris only know, what other ravishing confections later, she was beautiful, imposing, and as terrible as an army with lances, as well as banners. (More modern smiles would be in order, but we are tired of war talk.)

The Aïda of Claudia Muzio was vital and picturesque and the appearance of Antonio Scotti in an old role, Amonasro, was welcome. He acted fervidly and sang with his accustomed artistry. A new comer in the cast, though not a new singer to New York, was Henry Scott as Ramfis and with Caruso and Matzenauer he demonstrated the beauty of legato singing. He also proved another genuine pleasure of a pleasurable evening. The cast otherwise was as usual. Queenie Smith, with bobbed early Egyptian hair and chocolate-colored underpinings, danced delightfully. One of the myrmidons slipped and sprawled in the temple scene and gave a Karnak-like pillar the "terra-mota." He must have been a weighty person. What Stage Manager Agnini said was probably not fit to print, so we refrain from giving his utterance publicity. Was there money in the house!

Changes in Today's Events.

Today's two Metropolitan events will see two changes, owing to singers indisposed. Rose Ponselle cannot appear at the Good Friday concert this afternoon, and Marie Sundelius will therefore be the solo soprano in Rossini's "Stabat Mater" as well as in Gounod's "Gallia." Thomas Chalmers also has a cold, and his place as Manfredo in "L'Amore dei Tre Re" tonight will again be taken by Milo Picco.

GIVE BACH'S MASTERPIECE.

T. T. Noble Leads Oratorio Society in "The St. Matthew Passion."

An eighteenth century organist of St. Thomas Church, Leipzig, composed the music conducted at Carnegie Hall last evening by the twentieth century organist of St. Thomas Church, New York. The composition was that overwhelming dramatization of Holy Week, familiarly known as "The St. Matthew Passion," by John Sebastian Bach, and the performers were the Oratorio Society, led by T. Tertius Noble; Mildred Graham, soprano; Merle Alcock, contralto; Lambert Murphy, tenor; Reinald Werrenrath, baritone; Charles T. Tittman, bass; Frank L. Sealy, organist; Charles A. Baker, pianist; a large orchestra and the St. Thomas boy choir.

The presentation of Bach's masterpiece by New York's venerable choral organization is by no means a novelty, but Mr. Noble is a new figure at the conductor's stand, at least in public. His reading of the score yesterday was precise, respectful, and conscientious. Mr. Noble belongs to the diaphragmatic school of conductors: his baton seldom moves far from a perpendicular line bisecting the trunk from the thorax to the thighs. His beat is metronomic and his tempi are meticulous. He fits admirably into the spirit of the Oratorio Society.

Of the solo singing, only Mr. Murphy's conquest of the cruelly high tessitura of the narrator's part, and Mr. Werrenrath's broadly conceived interpretation of the words of Christ require comment. Mr. Tittman, in uniform, filled the minor rôles according to the traditions which he has helped to build at Bethlehem, Penn., and the two women were earnestly adequate. The chorus, while not imbued with the Bach fanaticism of Dr. Wolle's steelworkers, did justice to the stately polyphony, especially in the chorales.

CAPTAIN SCHMITZ PLAYS.

Pianist, Who Served in War, Gives Modern French Program.

Captain E. Robert Schmitz, who saw three years' active service on the firing line in France, appeared at Aeolian Hall last night, not as a lecturer on his specialty of anti-aircraft battery but in plain clothes as a pianist, his medal being that of a former prize man of the Paris Conservatoire. Before the war he led an orchestra and chorus in the French capital. Debussy was his friend, and Schmitz as a youth made a concert tour of America ten years ago.

As pianist last night in an all-modern French program, Captain Schmitz displayed tone, technique, temperament, but the greater of these was tone. He reveled in the prelude, aria and finale of Franck, a "Bourree" of Chabrier, and two "Promenades" of Magnard. New to this country, it was said, were Louis Aubert's "Sillages" and "The Tomb of Couperin," by Ravel. There were pieces by Saint-Saëns, the living dean of French music, and by Debussy in conclusion.

PLANS CHINESE REFORMS.

Government Would Reduce Army, Improve Economic Conditions.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

PEKING, April 17.—The Government plans for reorganizing the country as submitted to the Shanghai Conference include the reduction of the present force, numbering over a million and a quarter, and which absorbs four-fifths of the entire national revenue, to fifty divisions, a further reduction to follow. The disbanded men are to be employed in national works. The civil and military administrations are to be divided.

Economic development is to be encouraged by improved communications, reformed currency and the abolition of injurious taxes.

The Natural Way to Counteract "Acid-Mouth"

Pebeco Tooth Paste counteracts "Acid-Mouth," because it stimulates the abundant, normal flow of saliva, which as you know is distinctly alkaline and therefore the most natural and effective means of neutralizing unfavorable mouth acids. Normal saliva is the only mouth wash and tooth cleanser you need, and Pebeco helps you to obtain it in healthful quantities.

PEBECO TOOTH PASTE

LLOYD GEORGE ON RUSSIA.

Many Ministries have been overthrown because of statements like that made by Mr. Lloyd George to the House of Commons concerning the situation in Russia, for it was a confession of failure in the past unaccompanied by any proposals of policy for the future which could give ground for hope. That he felt the question to be one of great importance is shown by the fact that the Prime Minister devoted nearly half his speech to it. To admit absolute failure in a matter of such magnitude and menace and to have no plan for future action ready to retrieve the consequences of incapacity in the past would ordinarily bring about the fall of any Minister. But Mr. Lloyd George was not in the least danger of censure or a vote of want of confidence; he ran no risk at all, because the House of Commons and the British nation are in entire agreement with his declaration that military intervention in Russia now is impossible, it would be "the great-"est act of stupidity that any Gov-"ernment could possibly do."

Everybody knows that Russia is a great country, "very easy to invade, but very difficult to conquer"; that it is "very difficult to get out of." British courage and the British spirit have not usually been deterred from an undertaking because of its greatness or of its difficulty, if only the British heart were in the business. At the end of five years of war the British heart is not in the Russian business. No people has any heart for it, for it involves more fighting, possibly a great deal of fighting, and of fighting the world is sick and tired. That is the reason why Lloyd George could say, with perfect confidence of carrying his audience with him, that he "would rather leave Russia Bolshevist "until she sees her way out of it than "to see Britain bankrupt." It is the tate of the British mind, the state f mind in every country, not "the 'fundamental principle of foreign 'policy" in Great Britain of never iterfering "with the internal affairs f other countries," that puts interference in Russia out of the question.

It was very different a year ago. iterference then, for which plans ere feebly made by the Allies and ie United States and half-heartedly arried out, would have made an end Bolshevism and put Russia on her et. It was not then, it is not now, question of interference "with the ternal affairs of other countries." he external aspects of Bolshevism e vastly more serious and dangers than its relation to Russia. The lsheviki are engaged in actual war th troops of the nations that fought rmany. The high priests of that ligion of blood and madness are at ork by their emissaries and their oney in a dozen lands far beyond ie borders of Russia. They threaten ie peace and security of the whole world; it is their aim to destroy the ves and seize the property of those ho oppose them, and they preach at doctrine wherever one of its postles can get a hearing. They are ow the chief obstacle to peace, for e Treaty of Versailles will be a very secure bulwark against war so long the Russian people are held in bjection to a murderous proletariat ranny. Mr. Lloyd George says so. The world will not be pacified as long as Russia is torn and rent by civil war." Those are his words.

It is on behalf not only of himself d his Government, but of all the lies and the United States, that the ritish Prime Minister makes this conession of abject failure in the greatst and most vital undertaking, next the overthrow of Germany, that s confronted them. Politics, demgogy, a fatal readiness to seek counl in quarters secretly or openly in mpathy with Bolshevism, and that sposition has been quite as evident this country as in any other, acount for but cannot excuse the pusillanimous policy of the Allies in respect to Russia. We might be entirely willing to shut all that out of our vision, as Mr. Lloyd George does, but the policy of patting the Bolshevist mad dog on the head and trying to make friends with him has been continued down to the present day, and we do not know how far it is to be employed in the future. Some crumbs of comfort the Premier gives us when he says that the report of the American personal envoys to Lenine and Trotzky could not have been of much importance, since it was never put before the Conference; and that there is no question of recognizing the Soviet Government. It is comforting, too, to know that the Allies are really trying to prevent the westward flow of the lava of Bolshevism from scorching other countries, as Mr. Lloyd George puts it. For the rest, beyond some hint of aid to Kolchak, some vague suggestion of food supplies for the Russians, there is no indication of any other policy than that of letting Russia "stew in its own juice."

PLIGHT OF A PEER.

A dispatch from London tells the sad story of a gentleman and his income tax—a gentleman whose identity, though veiled, can be inferred by most New Yorkers from the statement that he is a very wealthy man who used to be an American citizen and is now an English lord. The sorrows of a rich man proverbially get little sympathy, but this gentleman's case offers such a painful example of the high cost of living on one side of the ocean when your property is on the other that he seems to deserve some commiseration.

As he is a British subject, the British Government imposes its own by no means light tax on all his income, from whatever source. But most of his property is in the United States, and under our laws all income from this property is likewise taxable here. Since the victim is wealthy enough to incur the highest surtax rates in both countries, the combined British and American income taxes amount to somewhat more than his entire income. That is, he has to dispose of some of his capital to pay his income tax, at a time when money is not as plentiful as it might be and losses are likely to be incurred in the sale; then he must repeat the process in order to meet his living expenses. To be sure, he has some hope; in the course of several years he will have disposed of enough capital to bring himself under the operation of a lower surtax rate, so that ultimately he will be able to pay his income tax out of his income. But there is little incentive to enterprise in the prospect of being able, by five or ten years' work, to rise to utter destitution.

The gentleman cannot return to his old allegiance; that might embarrass one who incurred so much publicity in casting it off; besides, it takes time, and if he returned to New York the British Government might confiscate his large estates in England. Nor are there many countries in the world where heavy taxation will not burden the population for years to come. Unless the peer chooses to naturalize himself in Monaco, where the "house's" percentage used to pay the entire expenses of the State, he seems to have little hope this side the tomb.

THE HOUSING DEMAND.

Unemployment and unprecedented demand for housing accommodations have focused the public attention upon the building industry. When the need is so great, why are not houses being built?

Lack of confidence in the continuance of present high prices is the answer. The builder is afraid to begin, the lender on bond and mortgage is afraid to lend on the present cost of production, and the outside investor, though beginning to be tempted by the attractive returns offered by some buildings, does not dare to put his money into new construction. The general opinion seems to be that in a period of five years the cost of building will decline to some level not as low as in pre-war times, but lower than at present.

But what of next year? Will it cost less to build next year? On this point there appears to be a change in the view held by many even as late as a month ago. There is a constantly growing feeling that it will cost more to build next year. Professor Fisher, in a recent publication of the Department of Labor, discussing the new level of prices in all commodities, says that those articles for which there has been a great wartime demand may be expected to come down in price during the coming year; on the other hand, other commodities, such as building material, may be expected to go up.

At the present time material dealers, many of them, are willing to sell at relatively low prices to "start the ball a-rolling." Subcontractors on all the different kinds of work that go to make up the modern building are willing to work practically at cost to find employment for their organizations. When building becomes active, when materials are sold, and contractors secure employment, reasonable profits may be hoped for.

With evictions increasing in number, hardship frequent, and discomfort and increased expense general, is new building to remain dormant until all the doubts of all the doubters as to the permanence of present prices are dispelled? Cannot reserves be set up from rents to protect new buildings against possible future losses in capital value? Is there no economic, no business solution? Is loss inevitable? Must we wait until rents reach such levels that the present hardships are doubled before capital can be tempted into building?

The problem before the building industry is essentially the same as before industry in general. Prices cannot go up forever. Business can be and is done upon a declining market, though it is true the business world prefers a rising one. There is one point of difference in favor of building which must be borne in mind. There has been relatively little wartime inflation in building; recessions in prices, therefore, if they come, will be correspondingly less, and the demand for the product of the builder has never been greater.

Organized effort on the part of the business community, merchants, manufacturers, and bankers, should be made at once to break the deadlock now existing. Leadership is needed. The scarcity of housing is countrywide; the business interests in the Middle West are grappling with the need and by co-operation are providing homes for their people. New York is growing—must grow—it cannot stand still. The best brains of the community should concentrate on a prompt solution of how, at once, to provide more housing.

STRIKERS' SECOND THOUGHTS.

The unions in this neighborhood which have been striking or threatening to strike have shrunk from the ruthlessness of their threats against community welfare, and there is a brief interval for agreement between them and the courts or their employers. The harbor strikers confront the political branch of the Government, which cannot surrender to threats nor allow its services to be interrupted. The Brooklyn Rapid Transit unions confront the law, which the courts must administer without distinctions. Even unions should be able to see that Judges cannot discriminate between classes of citizens, and cannot take their law from the unions.

Business men well know that it is better to make some sacrifices than to take chances with either Judge or jury, whatever the merits of the controversy. Employers and unions might easily agree out of court upon terms which neither could expect from the law in court. Judge Mayer told the unions what the receiver previously had told them, that under the law there could be a settlement of labor troubles only between the receiver and the workers as a unit, and that there could be no lawful settlement with a portion of the workers, or with one union rather than another union. All unionists and nonunionists are equal before the law, and a judicial decision should be both all-inclusive and impartial. Receiver Garrison already is in negotiation with representatives of his workers, but continues his refusal to treat with "outside" unionists.

A strike is no grievance in itself. No man, no combination of men, is under obligation to work for anybody, on any conditions of employment not agreeable to the workers. The withholding of labor is not obnoxious even because of such results as those outlined in labor's menace. The necessities of innocent and helpless thousands are not to be made the ground of forced labor, on terms imposed by employers. But also there can be no abandonment of feeding the hungry, succoring the sick, and maintaining the public utility services which are indispensable under modern conditions of life. This is not the collision of the irresistible with the immovable which seems to be indicated by the situation. The strikers put themselves in the wrong by their methods of intolerance and denial to others of what they demand for themselves.

The "recognition of the union" is the root of the trouble. That would be admitted the more readily if the unions and the unionists recognized the rights of any but themselves. The objection to recognition of unions as parties in collective bargaining is that, in the understanding of the unions, recognition of them too often means refusal to recognize any other parties to the labor contract, either other workers, or city, State, and Federal Governments as representatives of the community. So long as recognition of the union means that unions are free to do whatever they threaten to do it is a resort to "unfair" means to secure "fair" conditions of employment.

FOLLY AT ALBANY.

It is mighty little that the people of New York care about the furious personal feuds that seem to be breaking the Republican Party asunder at Albany, though these feuds will leave deep marks. The people are, however, deeply interested in the welfare bills and in the assumption of personal government by Speaker Sweet and Majority Leader Walters. Though the Republicans do not seem to understand it, the contrast their conduct is creating with the sober and reasoned attitude of Governor Smith is rapidly making that official one of the most popular Governors Albany has seen in many years.

But what does Speaker Sweet care for that? It is not the first time that some Republican leader, or for that matter some Democratic one, has been willing to see his party plunge down a steep place into the sea rather than yield his own personal prejudices. Mr. Sweet's talk of "Bolshevism" can have no other effect than to anger independent voters, who know very well that there is nothing Bolshevistic about these measures.

The welfare bills, we are told from Albany, are dead, and if they are the Republican Party will not cease to hear from that slaughter. A day ago the news from Albany did not seem to make it certain that the Republican leaders would succeed in killing the bills. They held control by only one vote in the Assembly on Wednesday, and the Democratic and insurgent Republican coalition again beat the oligarchy on the proposal to force adjournment tomorrow. But they seem again to have got control, and will presumably succeed in defeating the legislation planned to promote the welfare of the working classes. If they do, they will have done, for obviously selfish reasons, the worst day's work that has been done for the Republican Party in a long time.

PEACE AND THE PEOPLES.

There is no comfort in the vote taken on Wednesday in the French Chamber for the would-be publicists of various nations—our own, unfortunately, has contributed a somewhat high percentage of them—who have been denouncing Mr. Clemenceau as a reactionary imperialist who does not represent his people. He came into office with more enemies than any other French statesman of his time, he held office through the most critical and desperate period of the war, and through the even greater strain of making peace, and after seventeen months the Chamber voted confidence in his Government by more than two to one.

Of course, the forward-lookers have an easy explanation: the Chamber does not represent the people—except, of course, that part of the Chamber which voted against Mr. Clemenceau. This is an argument with which we have become familiar of late, that only Socialists can represent the people, no matter how few they may be or how small a portion of the electorate they represent. According to this theory the hundred or so Socialists in the Chamber—whose number would quite possibly be considerably smaller if there had been an election upon issues arising during the war—are the sole representatives of the French people, just as Mr. Victor Berger, if he ever takes his seat, will be the sole representative of the American people in Congress.

If two-thirds of the representatives of the French people support the Premier it is a pretty good proof that he represents France. And despite the "idealists" who haunt the keyholes of the Peace Conference, it may be said that he represents more than France; to a very large part of contemporary opinion he represents, and will represent to probably a much larger section of opinion in the future, the will to survive of our modern civilization, holding out against the barbarian and winning by its own moral strength.

This vote will be useful in stabilizing public opinion, particularly as it coincides with Mr. Lloyd George's successful defense in the House of Commons. The British Prime Minister was in much of his speech defending not only himself, but the entire Peace Conference. He did much, incidentally, to clear the policy of President Wilson from the rubbish of fantastic conjecture with which it has been loaded. As Mr. Lloyd George points out, a statesman who sees an incorrect account of the negotiations in a newspaper cannot always come forth immediately and deny it. The things which have been written about the President's policy by the "twilight fringe" of radicals and nondescript internationalists sitting on the steps of the Peace Conference have spread fear in France and hope in Germany; and as Mr. Lloyd George says, there is "no worse crime than this attempt "to sow strife, distrust, and suspicion "between these peoples whose good-"will, whose co-operation, whose "common action and common sacri-"fice have just saved the world from "disaster."

TOPICS OF THE TIMES.

Deprivation Brings Realization. One does not have to be much over 40 years old to remember when the world had not a single telephone in practical operation, and not much over 30 to recall when these instruments were almost unknown in private houses and not at all common even in the larger business establishments. Yet in those other days everybody managed somehow to get along without a means of quick communication that now seems to a majority of dwellers in both city and country little less than necessary to existence.

And, just as then we were not conscious of the needs which the telephone was soon to fill, so at present it takes something like the strike of operators in the central stations throughout several of the New England States to give a realizing sense of how much we have come to depend upon a facility that not long ago was quite unknown. The New Englanders are in no doubt as to the reality of that dependence, and so bitter and numerous are the complaints expressed in their papers that evidently they feel themselves to be suffering an almost intolerable hardship. Curiously enough, there is almost as much lamentation over the loss of the sense of safety with respect to emergencies that might have arisen and have not as there is of woe that has its basis in actual deprivation. That is, the New Englanders are worrying not less about their inability to get speedy help in case of possible illness, fire, and the like than about the compulsion they have been under to run errands and to get and give information in the ways that now seem so slow and inconvenient.

And it is true that the telephone is useful even when it is not in use, and would be worth having and paying for even though it might never be used.

A Saving, but Not of Labor. No assertion, probably, would get more numerous, quick, or emphatic denials than the assertion that the telephone is not a machine of the sort deserving to be called labor-saving. The denials, too, would be justified every time one person "calls"—and "gets"—another. Obviously in each such instance the object desired is attained more easily as well as in less time than would be the case if there were no telephones.

Yet the assertion would be true, in a way and to a degree, just as it is true of every other machine to which the name of labor-saving is applied. For though a good many men now work shorter hours than in the past, it is for reasons that have little or no connection with labor-saving machines, and by far the greater part of what such machines effect lies in the direction of enabling one man to produce more in a given time than formerly, and so releasing (or other tasks one or more of his sometime associates in that one.

This release of the other men is never to a life of leisure, nor does the machine shorten the work day of its operator. Not infrequently, indeed, the machine of which it is said, "It does the work of five men," or ten, sets more than five or ten to running machines of that same sort, and it would be hard to mention even one machine that does not increase labor in the sense of work done, instead of saving it.

An Exception Hard to Understand. It will be interesting to know how the Belgian delegates to the Peace Conference reached the conclusion that direct personal responsibility can be fixed on the former Kaiser for only one of the criminal policies devised during the war by what he called his Government and executed by what he called his army. He cannot be arraigned, they say, for declaring war, or for violating Belgium's neutrality, or for anything done before or synchronously with the beginning of hostilities, and for things like the shooting of Captain Fryatt and Edith Cavell only the officers who actually ordered and carried out the executions can be punished. Only with respect to such deportations and enslavements as those to which the inhabitants of Lille, among other cities, were subjected do the Belgian delegates see the possibility, and declare the certainty, of bringing to conviction and punishment the head of the House of Hohenzollern.

It is easy to understand these pronouncements of immunity as based on international law, but the exception is mysterious. The implication, apparently, is that the deportations were in some way a product of the Kaiser's own devising and carrying out, but that is not known to be the case, nor is it at all probable.

Of course, he consented to the deportations, and, in theory at least, he could have prevented or stopped them had he chosen to do so, but the same thing is true of everything else done by the Germans while he was or thought himself to be their divinely inspired and all-powerful war lord.

A Master Makes Mistakes. To pick petty flaws in work well done as a whole is poor business and a waste of time. There is something of excuse, however, in an expression of mild wonder why Joseph Conrad, who certainly can write good English and deserves as a stylist the praises given to him by all the critics, should have allowed to appear on the first page of "The Arrow of Gold," his new book, this remarkable sentence:

> If I start to tell you I would want you to feel that you have been there yourself.

A more appalling sequence—or insequence—of tenses than that it would be hard to imagine. It is elaborately, laboriously, and ingeniously wrong. Of excuse it has none and of explanation but one—carelessness. Unless he wanted to supply teachers with a fine means of testing the ability of their pupils in correcting heterodox locutions!

Just the same, "The Arrow of Gold" is a mighty fine story, even if its author does follow the evil British habit of adding an ugly and useless "st" to "among" and occasionally imitates our own Southerners in writing "like" when he means "as."

Cambrai Veterans Returning.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

Do you think that the inhabitants of our fair city know that the "first to fight" regiment is one of New York's own?

Do you think the people realize that the greatest regiment ever turned out by the city is coming home unheralded and unsung?

Why not give credit when credit is due?

The 11th Railway Engineers were the first American volunteers in France, the first to fight, (going into action at Cambrai with the British in November, 1917,) and the first to suffer serious casualties. They have seen more active service than any other New York regiment and have distinguished themselves innumerable times. And yet with all the glory and honor they have heaped not only on themselves, but on the city of which the great majority are residents, not an ounce of praise or credit has been given them in the daily press.

Aren't these boys entitled to a reception such as was given to the boys of the 15th Infantry and the 27th Division? I believe there is enough credit to be shared from the winning of the war to see that real heroes at least get a small part of it.

What is the Mayor's famous committee going to do about it? What are the people of the boys' home city going to do about it?

Philip Gibbs's Mission.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

I have just read with much interest the splendid article by Philip Gibbs in your Tuesday edition.

I am sure every one who has heard Mr. Gibbs speak or has read his articles in The Times will regret his leaving America so soon. His lectures and writings which have been so frank have, I think, done much to curb the insidious propaganda which is being used in this country in the attempt to sow the seeds of dissension between England and America.

I agree with Mr. Gibbs in his statement that America will surrender the greatest chance of honor that any nation has had if she fails to heed the spiritual call which is summoning her to the highest place in the Commonwealth of the world's democracies.

Mr. Gibbs, I believe, expresses the true feeling of England toward America, and I sincerely hope that that friendship which has brought Englishmen and Americans together to fight a common enemy and for democracy's cause, will never be broken.

Turkish Repentance.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

A gang of cut-throats after years of robbery and murder are captured. To curry favor one is taken by his suddenly improved fellows and hanged. This proves the absolute innocence and repentance of the survivors! Will the world accept Turkey's sudden effort to gain respect by holding up the dead bodies of a few who have simply done the nation's bidding as any sort of proof of decency in that worthy tool of Germany?

GERMAN TRADE SURVIVES.

Evidence of Its Vitality Found in Luxemburg Shops.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

I have just received a letter from an officer friend of mine with our forces in France, who makes some comments as to conditions over there which are interesting and I think afford food for thought. I quote some paragraphs from his letter:

"I had a very interesting trip recently over a good share of the Duchy of Luxemburg and went a little way into old Germany between Luxemburg and the Rhine. I traveled through the devastated regions of the Moselle Valley going, and through the devastated regions between Luxemburg and Verdun coming back, and was greatly impressed with the horrible ruin and desolation of France as compared with the fine roads, unmolested factories and homes, well clothed and apparently well fed civilians of Germany and Luxemburg. We are policing Luxemburg with two divisions of American troops, and we are finding in its factories large quantities of French and Belgian machinery, including complete plants, which were stolen by the boches and turned over to the Luxemburgers to manufacture supplies for the boches during the war. Now that there is a prospect of this machinery being taken and returned to its rightful owners, there is a tendency of some of the pro-German possessors to destroy it, and we are having quite a job maintaining guards in some of the plants.

"German industry is readjusting itself very rapidly, in spite of all the newspaper talk about abnormal conditions there. For instance, the requirements of military supply had practically eliminated the production and importation of photographic films in France, and all the time since the armistice, up to the present, it has been practically impossible to buy any French or American films in France. On the other hand, I found in the little city of Luxemburg at least four supply dealers heavily stocked with first class new films of German manufacture, good for nearly two years, of all common sizes to fit American and French cameras, at reasonable retail prices. In one of the stores I was amazed at the quantity on hand and asked what discount they would make in dozen lots of films. They very promptly replied that, although their stock seemed large, it would be entirely disposed of within a few days. In other words, this is just one instance of German goods being sold near the frontier to be carried across in small lots to supply the lack in France and Belgium. What are American manufacturers doing to get their products over here to meet such competition?"

Of course, I do not want to mention the officer's name, but I think the matter quoted above shows the necessity for quick action on our part if we are to take care of our interest from a business viewpoint, and also shows that France and Belgium must have a square deal and be given a chance to get back on their feet.

From a Grateful Soldier.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

I am a soldier in the employ of Uncle Sam and am now in a hospital recovering from the results of my work overseas. Luckily, I have been well enough to pay several visits to the one best city in the States. I have often wanted to thank the public for the treatment it has accorded me and my pals while in town.

It certainly is wonderful to think that the public in general is so grateful to us that a wounded soldier can hardly walk at all before some good-natured person drives up and offers us the use of his car. I recently while in the Grand Central Palace wanted to go down to the Federal Reserve Bank and called a taxi, and when I arrived there the driver wouldn't take any fare. Surely that class of people can't very well afford such generosity. Have met several people while in New York City and recently decided to have some cards printed, had them printed, and the printer refused to allow me to pay for them. At another time a lady by the name of Mrs. Freeman called at the hospital for seven young men and took us to a hotel and we were introduced to seven yeomanettes, and after having a very fine dinner she took us to the Morosco Theatre and we occupied several boxes.

Is it any wonder that we boys must find some way to thank the public?

Soldiers as a whole are not used to such treatment, and when they travel New York they all feel as though they want to stay there. We all wish to thank the people who are responsible for said conditions.

I hope you will transform this into some sort of a letter of thanks and present it to the public through your good paper.

A VOLUNTEER.

New York, April 15, 1919.

For a Foreign Widow.

The marriage of the R.'s was a typically foreign one, arranged by friends and unknown to the principals until two weeks before the wedding. Still, their married life was very happy, for Mr. R. was honest and industrious, and Mrs. R. was a careful housewife and splendid mother. Then the influenza robbed the home of its father. There was no money to provide for the family, for the meagre savings went for funeral bills and old debts, and Mrs. R., her tiny new baby in her arms, too sick and heartbroken to be both breadwinner and mother for her three children, asked for aid. The Charity Organization Society is providing a regular allowance, which Mrs. R. is learning to stretch to its limit. Until Mrs. R. can get back some of her ambition and strength and can spare more time from the constant attention the children need this assistance must be continued. Two hundred and eight dollars will provide for the next few months. Gifts toward this fund for the R.'s should be sent to 105 East Twenty-second Street, where they will be promptly acknowledged.

THE MYSTERY.

Now is the sacrificial wine outpoured,
  And Earth on trembling knees receives the cup;
  Now shall her soul be lifted up,
Her faith in Man shall be restored.

Still round her lie the bodies of her dead,
  And still ascends the smoke of vanished homes;
  A spectral Grief still wailing roams
And wildly traces footprints red.

Can Earth forget? Each desolating wrong
  Within her branded soul must prick and burn;
  Shall Time's slow power suffice to turn
Her dull lament to healing song?

For Man, her pride, her hope, became her shame—
  Abjured his lineage, and betrayed his race!
  Can he regain his former place—
Avert his God's avenging flame?

Hark, you who doubt! From Earth's torn breast arise
  A million witnesses in wordless creed—
  Their golden faith whose struggle freed
Earth from the tyranny of lies.

Once more was proved (and on how large a scale!)
  That sacrifice attends the march of Right—
  A faith within whose shining light
All lesser aims grow faint and fail.

The sacrificial wine is now prepared;
  Sweet to the lips, and strong to fire the hope
  Of all who still in darkness grope,
Whose stricken hearts Earth's anguish shared.

O mystic Sacrament! On bended knee
  And all unworthily, we take the gift,
  The while our deeds and aims we sift
And vow our lives to Liberty!

MARIE L. EGLINTON.

MAJOR MANNING HONORED.

Widow Notified of Award of Cross for Heroism in Action.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, April 17.—Mrs. William Sinkler Manning of this city has received an official communication from the Adjutant General, dated April 5, which says that his office has been notified by the Commanding General of the American Expeditionary Forces that the latter has awarded posthumously a Distinguished Service Cross to her husband, Major William Sinkler Manning, 316th Infantry, for "extraordinary heroism in action" near Verdun, Nov. 6, 1918.

Major Manning was a resident of Washington, having been engaged in newspaper work here for a number of years. He was formerly a member of the staff of The New York Times, having left its Washington Bureau to enter the Officers' Training School at Fort Myer when war was declared. He was one of six sons of ex-Governor Manning of South Carolina, all in military service, and served on the Mexican border with a South Carolina regiment. Mrs. Manning was Miss Barbara Brodie, a grand-daughter of the late Alexander R. Shepherd, ex-Governor of the District of Columbia, and Mrs. Shepherd, who now resides in the national capital.

The communication states that, leading his command in the face of heavy artillery and machine gun fire, Major Manning displayed remarkable bravery and coolness in reorganizing his battalion after severe losses had been inflicted on it by the enemy. By continuous encouragement and daring he directed operations to the successful gaining of his objective. During these operations he was instantly killed by a machine gun bullet.

Letters written by Lieut. Col. J. H. Steinman and Captain C. L. Glock of the 316th Infantry give the following details:

On the morning of Nov. 6 the Third Battalion of the 316th Infantry, 79th Division, was located on the Meuse, some three miles north of the village of Brabant and fourteen miles north of Verdun. The troops were battered and worn from days of fighting, and were more or less disorganized from a night of heavy shelling. The morning was cold and foggy, and the German artillery was firing continuously, seemingly from nowhere.

The battalion was formed for the assault, but the troops showed reluctance to cross through the heavy barrage. Major Manning ran in front of the line, in a hail of shells and machine gun bullets, exhorted the men as he passed up and down in front of them, and greatly encouraged them by his fearless bearing and utter disregard of personal safety, and so inspired them that, when, waving his cane, he called, "Let's go, boys," and led them, the foremost man in the charge, they drove on and carried their objective.

This, primarily, was the taking of "Hill 378," the pivot on which turned a whole corps movement from a northern axis toward the east and beyond the Meuse.

Shortly after the assault started Major Manning was almost instantly killed by a machine gun bullet, which came out of the fog and hit him in the throat. It was a heroic death, leading troops for an assault in the face of determined resistance by the enemy. After their Major fell the men could no longer be stopped. Hill 378 was freed of the Germans by the day's assault and was occupied by troops of the 316th Infantry.

After the battle Major Manning was buried with four other officers of his regiment and about fifty more gallant soldiers, not far from where they fell, in a little cemetery on the gentle slope of a hill about two miles west of the little village of Reville, some eighteen miles north of Verdun.

NAVY THANKS THE Y. M. C. A.

Acting Secretary Roosevelt Asks That Work Be Continued.

The Y. M. C. A. has received the formal thanks of the navy for war work done in that branch of the service, in a letter received yesterday by the National War Work Council from Acting Secretary of the Navy Franklin D. Roosevelt.

"The Department desires to express the gratitude of the officers and men of the United States Navy for all the many good things the Y. M. C. A. has done for them during the world war," the letter reads. "The efficiency of your organization has been well matched by the constant desire of the individual worker to serve the men to the best of his or her ability.

"This helpfulness and efficiency has proved a powerful aid to contentment and fighting spirit in the navy.

"The department is desirous that your excellent work be continued and that the naval service, whether the country be in peace or at war, have the benefit of your splendid co-operation. There is a very constant need of your services."

TO HELP FRENCH CHURCHES

Mrs. Harper Sails to Tell Cardinal Amette of Plans Here.

Mrs. Donald Harper, Treasurer of the Society to Help the Devastated Churches of France, sailed yesterday on the Megantic for France, and while there will inform Cardinal Amette and the French hierarchy of the plan to raise $5,000,000 in New York.

"No one in this country can realize the ruins left behind by the Germans," said Mrs. Harper. "In some of the dioceses there is not a church which does not need repairs. The mothers of France have suffered greatly in this war, and it seems terrible to us Americans to know that there are so few churches where they can pray for the sons who died in battle.

"Thousands of Catholic churches have been destroyed in France and these include some of the most beautiful cathedrals of the world. The $5,000,000 which the New York Committee plans to raise will provide temporary places of worship, which can be built for sums varying from $2,000 up, until they can rebuild their old churches, when the temporary churches will be used as schools and parochial halls."

RICHARD CRANE MINISTER.

Lansing's Secretary Selected for Post in Czech Republic.

WASHINGTON, April 17.—Richard Crane, private secretary to Secretary Lansing and son of Charles R. Crane of Chicago, is understood to have been selected to become the first American Minister to the new republic of Czechoslovakia. Announcement of his appointment is expected from Paris shortly. Mr. Crane has been connected with the State Department for more than four years, having first been appointed clerk to the Secretary of State and later becoming Mr. Lansing's secretary.

The probable first Minister to Czechoslovakia is, like Hugh S. Gibson, announced as the first Minister to Poland, a comparatively young man, being only 33 years of age. He was born in Champaign, Ill., and studied law at the University of Wisconsin and the University of Nebraska.

$16,000,000 GOES BEGGING.

War Risk Checks Returned Marked "Unknown" or "Unclaimed."

WASHINGTON, April 17.—More than $16,000,000 of returned checks are now in the hands of the War Risk Insurance Bureau, many of them marked "unknown" or "unclaimed," as the result of the failure of allottees to notify the bureau of changed addresses. The Red Cross has been enlisted in the campaign to locate such persons, and has taken over 30,000 of the checks.

About 500,000 checks have been returned since Dec. 31, 1917, and they are coming back at the rate of 1,000 a day. Some of them are not payable because of a change in the status of the allottee, but it is estimated that nearly 50 per cent. are still payable if the proper addresses can be found.

URGES FILIPINOS NOT TO BE IN HASTE

Judge Gary Asks Visiting Mission to Consider Effect of Complete Independence.

WANTS JUSTICE INSURED

Filipino Speaker, at Luncheon, Says Islanders Now Want to Stand Alone.

The Philippine Mission to the United States, which came to this country with the express purpose of seeking freedom from American rule for their islands, was warned yesterday by Judge Elbert H. Gary, Chairman of the Board of Directors of the United States Steel Corporation, to think twice before seeking to cut entirely loose from this Government. Judge Gary spoke at a luncheon held by the Merchants' Association in honor of the mission at the Biltmore Hotel.

Francis Burton Harrison, the Governor General of the Philippines, who had preceded Mr. Gary on the floor, had heartily indorsed immediate Philippine independence and had told of the degree of independence that the islands already enjoyed. Mr. Gary referred to this.

"Please do not forget this," Judge Gary said in the course of his address, "when discussions come up as to whether or not you shall have 'immediate independence,' as you call it—I might say it seemed to me, listening to the eloquent and very comprehensive exposition by the Governor General that you are pretty independent at the present time—or when you are discussing and considering this question of independence, please remember that not all of the Filipinos are equal in ability and education to the splendid types of Filipinos who are represented here today. You have not only yourselves and such as you to consider, but you have all the people of the Philippine Islands to consider, and it is for you to determine when all the people of the Philippine Islands have reached a high position of intelligence which makes it for the interests of the islands to be cut entirely loose from the United States.

"The United States is interested in the Philippine Islands particularly, because the United States desires the development of those islands, first, for the benefit of the Filipinos themselves, and, secondly, and selfishly for the benefit of the United States as well as other countries. I think, therefore, the question to be considered by the Filipinos is, What is for their own pecuniary interests? By the association with the capital of the United States to the fullest extent, or by acting in an entirely independent capacity?

"I pass no opinion upon that subject, nor make any remarks except to say that this is a day and age when the rule of justice and right and freedom is to be forever substituted for the rule of force.

"And therefore, so far as the people of this country are concerned, when we consider the interests of the Filipinos the only question we have to decide is: What under all the circumstances is absolutely right and just? And when we ascertain what that is, then it seems to me our duty and obligation have been fulfilled.

"From the standpoint of the Filipinos, I believe that they will receive the greatest benefit to the greatest number if in some way they themselves decide upon a way, a means, a basis, of forever cementing the friendly commercial and business relations with the United States."

The people of the United States, Judge Gary said in conclusion, desired the success of the Filipinos and were willing to clasp hands with them for the best interests of both countries, and while there were differences of opinion about immediate independence among leading business men here "we never say anything and never vote anything and never intend to do anything that we do not conscientiously believe is for the best interests, first, of the Philippines, and secondly, of the United States.

"We are glad to know you and see you, and hope you will get all that you are entitled to and all that you ask for when and as you are entitled to it."

Even though they did not agree with him about the question of immediate independence, the Filipinos applauded Judge Gary's remarks heartily.

James G. White, another speaker, said that he had met some idealists and some persons interested in politics who thought that there ought to be immediate independence, but he had never met a business man who thought that was for the best interests of the Philippines. Mr. White compared the present status of the Philippines with the status of Canada and Australia under British rule, and said that while no strong opponent factions might be in sight at present, the possibility of factions seeking to overthrow the Government, if freedom were granted, should be considered.

Gov. Gen. Harrison championed the Filipinos and said that under his administration they had practically complete autonomy, and had thrived for some years. He then told in detail of the extent to which the Filipinos were already governing themselves.

Camilo Osias, Assistant Director of Education in the Philippine Islands, another speaker, said that the Filipinos were grateful for the generous rule of the United States, and that they had avoided raising the question of independence while the war lasted, because they were loyal to America and did not wish to introduce any complicated subjects for consideration in those trying times. However, he said, his people felt that the time had come when they might ask the complete freedom promised by the Jones law for that time when their Government had become stable.

ASKS A GENERAL AMNESTY.

Committee Cables the President for Conscientious Objectors and Others.

WASHINGTON, April 17.—Resolutions urging the granting of an immediate general amnesty to conscientious objectors and prisoners whose religious, political or economic beliefs are alleged to form the basis of their prosecution, were adopted tonight at a meeting of the Washington Citizens' Amnesty Committee at Masonic Temple and cabled to President Wilson in Paris. They were introduced by Rabbi Judah Leon Magnes, head of the Jewish Community of New York. Rabbi Magnes and Dudley Field Malone addressed the meeting in advocacy of the movement.

In his address Rabbi Magnes said that in the new world which is being born the co-operation of all men, parties and classes, opinions and beliefs was needed.

Mr. Malone asserted that he had more confidence in the "liberal intelligence" of the new Attorney General, A. Mitchell Palmer, than he had had in former Attorney General Gregory. He charged that Mr. Gregory had permitted great wrongs to be perpetrated in connection with the trial of "political prisoners," and that this situation should be met properly only by a general amnesty.

"The recent decision of the Supreme Court in the Debs case," he said, "has stricken from the Constitution our ancient liberty of free speech. This decision is propaganda for technicality and oppression. It is destructive of liberty and justice. I do not agree with Debs's views on the war. But if real lovers of liberty like Marshall and Story were on our Supreme Court today they would protect the right of Debs or anyone else to speak honest convictions about the Government in peace or in war. For doing what Lloyd George did in the Boer war, what John Bright did in the Crimean war, and what our own Lincoln and Webster did in the Mexican war, Eugene Debs is tonight in jail."

BLANQUET KILLED, HIS ENEMIES SAY

His Supporters Here, However, Say He Was Not at Place of Reported Fight.

MEXICO CITY, April 17, (Associated Press.)—General Aureliano Blanquet, War Minister in President Huerta's Cabinet, who recently was reported to have landed in the Vera Cruz region for the purpose of starting a revolution against the Carranza Government, was killed yesterday in a fight near Chavaxtla village, according to press reports from Vera Cruz, which quote a report from General Francisco L. Urquide, chief of military operations in the region of Cordova and Orizaba.

According to telegrams given out by General Urquide, the Commander in the region of Chavaxtla, General Guadalupe Sanchez met a party of rebels under Blanquet late yesterday afternoon, defeating them. The dead body of General Blanquet was found later. General Sanchez telegraphed that he was bringing General Blanquet's head to Vera Cruz to establish the identification.

General Francisco Alvarez was taken prisoner, together with the family of Pedro Gavay, one of the most active lieutenants of Felix Diaz.

Vera Cruz papers have recently been printing numerous stories regarding General Blanquet's proposed revolt. These stories have been published in the United States, but General Blanquet's claim that he had 40,000 men, with artillery and an airplane, and that he was allied with other factions, has been scouted officially. The band which General Blanquet was leading when he was killed was small and was poorly equipped, it is reported.

VERA CRUZ, April 17.—Complete identification of the head of General Blanquet was obtained today when many persons viewed it at the barracks. The head of the dead revolutionist leader was exhibited during the day and many thousands of persons were permitted to pass by the table on which it reposed.

Blanquet's Friends Discredit Report.

At the offices of General Blanquet's representatives in New York, 41 Park Row, it was said yesterday that a cablegram, dated April 16, was received in New York Wednesday night, which stated that General Blanquet was then at his headquarters at Huasteca Veracruzana, which is about twenty-five miles from the place where the Carranza Government says he was killed. The message, it was added, came from an agent of the Diaz-Blanquet party in Vera Cruz.

"We take no stock in the report," said Robert Gayon, General Blanquet's personal representative, "and are convinced that it is nothing more or less than Carranza propaganda intended to strengthen the hold of the Carranzista leaders on the people generally and on their fighting men. They said weeks ago that they had captured Zapata and then later they killed him. We know the first report was false, and we have reason to believe the second report was equally false. We are sure the Blanquet report will prove just as false, and we expect to have this proof in forty-eight hours. The message we received last night said that General Blanquet was well and that he had just arrived at his headquarters in Huasteca Veracruzana."

Mr. Gayon said that Carranza had proclaimed the death of Felix Diaz to the Mexican people dozens of times. He also cited the number of times that Villa had been reported dead or captured.

At General Blanquet's home, 338 Fourth Street, Brooklyn, Mrs. Blanquet said she was not worried by the report from Mexico City.

"I am certain that everything is all right," she said, "and that we will hear direct in a day or two from the General himself."

Aurelio Blanquet, Jr., also stated that he took no stock in the reported death of his father.

General Blanquet sailed from New York for a port in the West Indies on Jan. 8 last. He was provided with passports and credentials, but the fact of his departure was known to only a few of his intimate friends. He was accompanied by General Juan Montano and Brig. Gen. Enrique Gonzales, with some minor officials. The party landed at an unfrequented Mexican port late in March and was met by a guard sent by Felix Diaz and was escorted to Texpalaxco, the headquarters of the Diaz forces. Since that time there have been reports of operations by General Blanquet.

MISS MARY MEEK TO WED.

Daughter of Late Official of The Times to Marry Lieut. Brown.

Miss Mary Cabeen Meek, a daughter of the late Samuel W. Meek, who, when he died, last January, was the assistant treasurer of the New York Times Company, and of Mrs. Willie Pierce Meek of Richmond, Va., formerly of New York, and Lieutenant James Dorsey Brown of Richmond, will be married on April 23 in St. James's Church, Richmond.

Lieutenant Brown was graduated from the University of Virginia and is a member of the D. K. E. Club of New York. He and his bride will live in Baltimore. Miss Meek's three brothers are in the service. Lieutenant Wilson Meek is in the 59th Artillery, Lieutenant S. W. Meek is in the 6th Regiment of Marines, and R. L. Meek, a gunner's mate in the navy, was lately in Base Hospital No. 2 in Brooklyn.

INCOME TAX EXCEEDS ASTOR'S INCOME

Imposts Here and in England Pass 100 Per Cent. Mark for the Viscount.

LONDON, April 9, (Correspondence of The Associated Press.)—That a man should pay more money for income tax than the total of his income seems the limit of taxation. This is said to be the plight of a well-known British peer who was born an American and became naturalized in England some years ago. His property is in the United States.

Being a British subject, he is compelled by British law to pay income tax on all his revenues from all sources, and the American law compels payment of income tax on all his income from American property. Being a multimillionaire, his income is subject to heavy supertax by both Governments, and the two taxes are said to amount to more than 100 per cent. of the income. Thus the unfortunate nobleman must pay out all of his receipts and dip into his capital to defray current taxes, and, after defraying this first charge, use more of the capital for living expenses.

The double income tax of the war period has hit well-to-do Americans who live in Great Britain very hard. In former days very few of the large colony of American business men living in Britain ever gave up their American citizenship. But many of them have found this draft on their patriotism too heavy and have reluctantly changed their allegiance and taken out naturalization papers.

As for those Americans who lived here because they found the social atmosphere of England more congenial, and the scope for spending money on pleasures greater than at home, most of them seem to have disappeared.

The British peer, here referred to, is obviously Viscount Astor.

WARSHIPS TO BRING EDITH CAVELL'S BODY

Military Honors and a Service at Westminster Abbey for the Martyred Nurse.

LONDON, April 17.—The body of Edith Cavell, the English nurse who was executed by the Germans in 1915 at Brussels, will be brought to England from Belgium on May 15 and taken to Westminster Abbey, where ceremonies will be held.

The body will be brought to Dover on a warship, and will be transported on a gun carriage with military escort to Victoria Station and thence to Westminster Abbey.

Burial will be at Norwich, the home town of the Cavells.

ASSAIL WHARTON TRUSTEES

Reactionary Influence Charged and Dr. Smith's Loss Deplored.

Special to The New York Times.

PHILADELPHIA, April 17.—Mrs. Anna Wharton Morris, daughter of the late Joseph Wharton, founder of the Wharton School of Finance and Commerce at the University of Pennsylvania, and Harrison S. Morris have issued a joint statement relating to the management of the school by the Trustees of the university. The statement was called forth by the resignation of Dr. J. Russell Smith from the Wharton School Faculty.

Professor Smith, head of the Department of Geography and Industry, gave as the reason for his resignation the fact that his ten assistants were constantly finding it necessary to take other positions because of the inability of the university to pay them adequate salaries. He announced his resignation a week ago and said he would take a professorship in the Business School of Columbia University.

The statement reads:

"The resignation of Professor J. Russell Smith from the Wharton School of Finance and Commerce of the University of Pennsylvania is a serious loss and a cause for apprehension. We deplore the exit of a notably skilled teacher, educated in the school and identified for over twenty years with its rise to international fame, and we dread the disintegration of which this is a symptom.

"* * * Most of its trustees are the silent forces that work in the dark of monopoly and high finance and who desire to limit education to what will least hinder the continuance of their power and profit. That this is a fatal fallacy they are not enlightened enough to see; that it promotes a greater menace, the more momentous danger of Bolshevism, these and their like never can see until the crisis is upon us.

"But that the Faculty of the Wharton School, built up out of its own efficient classes and from the experienced conception of Joseph Wharton, will go to pieces under such treatment and render the school of 1,500 students abortive is a self-evident fact. The disintegration has begun, and unless it is checked by a change in the attitude of the Provost and of the Trustees the Wharton School will become the mere voice of greed masquerading as education."

Mary Garden and Frances Starr.

Mary Garden sat in a box at the Belasco Theatre yesterday afternoon and enjoyed the fine dramatic work of charming Frances Starr as Sally in "Tiger, Tiger." Later Miss Starr entertained Miss Garden in her dressing room. Lionel Atwill and O. P. Heggie were also heartily praised by Miss Garden for their polished acting in Mr. Knoblock's vivid play, which is to be heard only three times more this season at the Belasco. Miss Garden sails for Paris next Wednesday on the Lapland. It's dollars to doughnuts she sings here with the Chicago Opera Association in January, 1920.

J. CLEVELAND CADY, ARCHITECT, IS DEAD

Designer of Metropolitan Opera House and Other Notable Structures Was 82.

HIS 15 BUILDINGS AT YALE

President of Skin and Cancer Hospital Was Superintendent of Sunday School for 53 Years.

J. Cleveland Cady, the architect, senior member of the firm of Cady & Gregory of 40 West Thirty-second Street, died yesterday of heart disease after an illness of two months at his home, 214 Riverside Drive. He was 82 years old.

Dr. Cady, (he had received the honorary degree of LL. D. from Trinity College in 1905,) was the designer of many of the most important buildings in this city, notably the Metropolitan Opera House, the American Museum of Natural History, the later buildings of the Presbyterian Hospital, the Skin and Cancer Hospital, Bellevue Medical School, and the Hudson Street Hospital. For Yale University he designed no less than fifteen buildings, including the Lamson, Fairweather, White Berkeley and Pearson dormitories, Dwight Hall, and the Chittenden Library. Examples of his work are also to be found at Williams, Trinity, and Wesleyan.

Dr. Cady was born at Providence, R. I., the son of Josiah and Lydia Cady. He received his early education at academies and was graduated from Trinity College with the class of 1860. Since 1870 he had practised architecture in this city, the associate member of the firm he established being William S. Gregory.

In 1861 he married Emma M. Bulkley of Orange, N. J. There were five children, two sons and three daughters. One of the daughters, Miss Lydia Cady, was married last year to William Langer, the Attorney General of North Dakota.

Dr. Cady was a devoted member of the Presbyterian Church. Speaking of his father last night, his son, Dr. Lyndon Cady of 214 Riverside Drive, said:

"I believe that the interest which was closest to my father's heart was his work as Superintendent of the Sunday school of the Church of the Covenant, in East Forty-second Street. He held this position for fifty-three years, and even during his last illness his mind was occupied with the development and continuance of this Sunday school work."

Dr. Cady was President of the Skin and Cancer Hospital, a Governor of the Presbyterian Hospital, a Trustee of Berea College, Vice President of the New York City Mission, President of the National Federation of Churches. His clubs included the Century, the Aldine, the Quill, and the Delta Psi Fraternity.

Last Autumn Dr. Cady presented to the Library of Trinity College his collection of books and photographs relating to architecture. This collection comprised 375 volumes and more than 2,000 photographs, and was considered one of the most complete of its kind in the country.

ISAAC LAWRENCE DEAD.

Ex-President of American Tariff Reform League Was 91.

Isaac Lawrence, former President of the American Tariff Reform League, a descendant of Major Thomas Lawrence, one of the earliest settlers on Long Island, died on March 21 at Delpine, Mon., at the age of 91. His last residence in this city had been at 15 East Ninetieth Street.

Mr. Lawrence was born in the American Embassy in London in 1828. His father, William Beach Lawrence, was at one time Governor of Rhode Island. He was a graduate of Columbia College and the Harvard Law School. For more than fifty years he took an active part in politics. He was editor of The Democratic Review, a defeated candidate for the Governorship of Rhode Island, and a member from that State of the Democratic Convention of 1884. During Grant's Administration he was Consular Agent at Coburg, Canada.

8-HOUR DAY FOR FRANCE.

Chamber of Deputies Passes Bill with Show of Hands.

PARIS, April 17, (Associated Press.)—The Chamber of Deputies this evening passed a bill establishing an eight-hour day for workmen.

The vote was by a show of hands after the Chamber had added an amendment, offered by ex-Premier Briand, providing that under no circumstances could employers make the reduction in working hours a pretext for a reduction in wages.

Moving to End Limerick Strike.

LIMERICK, April 17, (Associated Press.)—General Griffen, commanding the Limerick military area, made the proposition to the strikers today that he would be willing to allow employers to issue passes to workmen en bloc if they would call off the strike.

The labor leaders are reported in favor of accepting the proposition, taking the ground that the strike has served its purpose as a protest against martial law and that prolongation would mean suffering to women and children.

Convict 17 of Boston "Fish Trust."

BOSTON, April 17.—Seventeen of the thirty men who have been on trial in the Superior Court on charges of having conspired to raise the price of fish in time of war and of having created a monopoly in the fish industry of this city were found guilty late tonight.

Last night Mr. and Mrs. Vogel gave a dinner at the hotel for Sir Charles and Lady Henry and forty guests. Lady Henry is Mrs. Vogel's sister.

FRAME LAWS AT PARIS ON AIR NAVIGATION

Committees Drafting a Convention Embracing Principles Applied Now to Shipping.

PARIS, April 17.—"The seventh and eighth meetings of the International Convention on Aerial Navigation, which body is also the Aeronautical Commission of the Peace Conference, were held on April 15 and 16," says an official report issued today. "Admiral Knapp and Major Gen. Mason M. Patrick represented the United States.

"The commission had before them full reports from their commercial, legal, financial, and technical sub-committees. There were forty-one articles in the draft convention and six annexes.

"On the question of aircraft, the analogy of merchant shipping has been followed to a certain extent, the main principle being that the nationality should be governed by the nationality of the owner of the aircraft. The convention has decided as a matter of principle that certificates of competence in the case of the crew are to be recognized as universally necessary in international flying.

"The right of flying over a State from frontier to frontier is recognized, subject to the safeguard that the State flown across may compel a landing for the interest of national security, or, in other words, where reasonable suspicion exists that the flight is not a bona fide, innocent flight. There are also provisions for the carriage of various papers of identity on the aircraft and a prohibition against the carriage of dangerous articles.

"The final provisions include an arbitration clause for the settlement of disputes and a clause which definitely places the convention on a peace basis as not affecting the rights and duties of belligerents or neutrals in time of war. Aircraft are then replaced in a class apart and may not fly outside their own countries except by the special authorization of the State visited, in which case their treatment shall be in accordance with the usual rules prevailing in the case of a ship of war.

"The convention contemplates the formation of a permanent International Commission on Aerial Navigation, which will keep in close touch with all new developments and act as a clearing house for all information on questions of air navigation between the respective States.

"The commission directed that a complete draft dealing with the various amendments proposed shall be prepared for their next meeting."

GIANTS EMERGE VICTORS FROM SIZZLING TWELVE-INNING GAME WITH SENATORS

RALLY IN TWELFTH WINS FOR GIANTS

McGraw's Men Are Victors by 4 to 3 Score in Spectacular Game at Norfolk.

GREAT CATCH BY KAUFF.

Centre Fielder Pulls Down Long Drive in Final Inning, Which Saves Contest for New Yorkers.

Special to The New York Times.

NORFOLK, Va., April 17. — Benny Kauff, in centre field, and a rain-soaked spot in the left garden, enabled the Giants to beat the Washington team here today, by a score of 4 to 3 in twelve innings of an exciting game. Umpire Bill Brennan and George McBride were contributing factors with the able assistance of a crowd of more than 8,000 that overflowed stands and circled the playing field.

If it had not been for a short hit failing to come up when it struck the sodden turf the Giants would not have tied the score in the ninth and the Senators would have won in the regulation period. And if Kauff had not gone back through the crowd in centre field to pick a tremendous drive of Shanks's off the wall the Nationals would have won the game in the twelfth.

It was in this same session that Brennan and McBride figured, when the Giants took their turn with the score tied. Burns hit into the crowd in left, the fans who at this stage were all but on the diamond itself, evidently blurred the umpire's vision. He called the ball fair which under the rules made it good for two bases. In Washington's half Judge was on second with one out when Milan singled to centre. Kauff kicked the ball around, but the crowd was so close behind McBridge at the third base coaching station that several fans, anxious to see the play, pushed against him and he didn't send Judge home. The score should have been tied here.

The Senators played a brilliant fielding game behind Johnson and Craft. Walter quit the game after three innings with the teams in a scoreless tie, and Mollie went the remainder of the route. This is the youngster's home.

The Giants scored the first run of the game in the eighth when Davis fell trying to field a grounder from Kauff. The Senators took a two-run lead in their half by some timely clubbing, with two Giant errors helping them to one run.

Rice's single and Janvrin's double in the fourth with one out was the best opportunity either had until the scoring inning. In this spot Janvrin was caught off second and Davis was thrown out by Zimmerman.

The Giants broke the ice in the eighth. Young, first up, doubled into the crowd in left, and was advanced by Chase. Kauff grounded sharply toward Davis, who slipped on a wet spot, the ball going by him for a hit, Young scoring. Doyle lined to Rice, who doubled Kauff off first.

The Washingtons seemed to have the game in hand going into the ninth, but didn't figure on the sodden condition of the outfield. Zim greeted Craft with a two-base smack, and Fletcher repeated to score him. There the Giants' scoring should have ended. McCarty dropped the ball over short, and Shanks came in to get it on the bound. It stuck in the mud, and by the time Hank got it Fletcher was over with the tying run.

Burns went to second to open the twelfth when Brennan ruled he had hit safely into the crowd in left. He went to third when Janvrin threw out Young. Chase rapped hard to Davis, who juggled the ball just long enough to prevent him from getting Burns at home. He threw out Chase, however, and did the same thing on Kauff.

Judge hit into the right field crowd. Foster lifted to Fletcher. Milan hit to centre, but Judge was held at third even when Kauff fumbled the ball. Rice forced Judge at the plate, Milan going to third and Rice to second on the run down. Then Shanks knocked out the hardest hit ball of the game. Kauff went through the crowd in centre field. Milan and Rice were already over the plate when the little Giant centre fielder turned, with his back against the stockade, and stretched his gloved hand high. The ball hit it and stayed there.

YANKEES AGAIN VICTORS.

Defeat Dodgers, 7 to 3, in Final Game of Series in South.

Special to The New York Times.

NEWPORT NEWS, Va., April 17.—The Yankees have ceased picking on the Brooklyn team in the Sunny South. Today the clubs played the eleventh and final game of their Spring set, and the Yankees again finished on the heavy end of the score. The figures were 7 to 3. Three hours later the teams parted company, the National Leaguers going on to Boston to open the season with the Braves on Saturday, while the Yanks left here for Cambridge, Md., where they play the Rochester Internationals tomorrow and Saturday. Huggins's men won eight of the eleven games played with the Brooklyns.

Hard hitting in the first inning against Al Mamaux put the Yankees beyond the danger line of defeat. In this opening frame the American Leaguers landed on Mamaux for five hits and rang up four markers for the score. The Dodgers later threatened this lead but never were able to come on even terms. Mamaux settled down after the bad start and held the American Leaguers well in check up to the eighth inning, when they bunched three more hits and scored two runs. As Manager Robinson is short of pitchers, Mamaux worked the entire game.

Hard hitting by Frank Kane, a rookie outfielder, played a big part in the victory. Kane replaced Duffy Lewis, who asked for a vacation. The recruit made a double and a pair of singles, driving two runs over the plate and carrying three home himself. Mamaux led the Brooklyn attack with a double and a brace of singles, but only one chased in a run.

Successive singles by Vick, Peck and Pipp, Pratt's sacrifice, a single by Kane, Ward's double and passed ball gave the Yankees four runs in the first inning. The Dodgers got two in the second inning on Myers's single and doubles by Olson and Hickman. In the sixth O'Mara singled, Miller walked and Mamaux singled, scoring O'Mara with Brooklyn's last run.

The Yankees got one in the sixth on singles by Kane and Lamar Ward's sacrifice hit and Hanna's sacrifice fly. In the ninth Kane doubled, Ward singled and Hannah doubled, two runs resulting.

Pitcher Neal Brady was released today to the Toledo Club of the American Association.

FORDHAM LOSES TO BOSTON

Finn, Maroon Pitcher, Weakens in Eighth and Allows Three Runs.

Fordham lost a fast game to the Boston College nine at Fordham Field yesterday afternoon by the score of 4 to 1. Fitzpatrick and Finn, the rival twirlers, engaged in a stirring pitchers' battle until the eighth inning, when the Fordham pitcher weakened and the visitors scored three runs.

The Maroon aggregation tallied in the second round. Halloran singled and stole second. He then advanced to third on Lefevre's single, and completed the circuit while Keough was being thrown out at first base.

In the eighth inning two successive triples by Halligan and Urban followed by Mulcahy's home run netted the visitors three runs and drove Finn to cover.

The home players made a desperate effort to tie the count in the final round. They succeeded in filling the bases but were unable to advance the runners.

Lefevre, the Fordham third baseman, who got three hits out of three times at bat, was the star of the contest.

COLUMBIA BEATEN BY JOHNS HOPKINS

Blue and White Drop Game to Southerners by Score of 6 to 4.

Columbia was defeated by the Johns Hopkins nine in a poorly played game on South Field yesterday afternoon by a score of 6 to 4. The Blue and White began well by scoring two runs in the opening inning, but thereafter they had difficulty in getting near the plate, while their fielding became more ragged as the game went on. In the seventh errors by Uris, Schnaars, and Lane, combined with one hit and a base on balls, put Hopkins in a position to score four runs and clinch the game.

In the final inning Columbia began a rally, but the attack petered out and only one run resulted.

Fred Dawson sent Lester to the mound for Columbia, and with better support he would probably have pulled through. As it was, he lasted seven innings and yielded only five hits. He was relieved when Meany went to bat for him, and Koenig took up the pitching burden in the eighth. Judefind, who pitched for Hopkins, was inclined to be wild, but he held Columbia to eight scattered hits, half of which were made by Goodman, who had a perfect day at the bat.

ADAMS IN SQUASH FINAL.

Defeats C. J. Maguire in Handicap Match at Yale Club.

William Adams, Jr., reached the final round of the Class A handicap squash tournament at the Yale Club yesterday, defeating C. J. Maguire in three straight games, 15—10, 15—10, 15—12. Adams was aided by a handicap of plus 5 aces, while his opponent played from scratch. Maguire, although defeated, played a fine uphill game.

In the Class B tournament S. C. Holland, aided by a handicap of 7, defeated J. B. Cornell, 16—17, 17—16, 15—9.

The summaries:

Yale Club Class A Handicap Tournament, Semi-final Round.—William Adams, Jr., (plus 5,) defeated C. J. Maguire, (scratch,) 15—10, 15—10, 15—12.

Yale Club Class B Handicap Tournament, Second Round.—J. C. Tomlinson, Jr., won from J. F. O'Rourke by default; S. C. Holland (plus 7) defeated J. B. Cornell, (scratch,) 16—17, 17—16, 15—9; A. G. Blaisdell won from Irving O'Rourke by default; F. M. Blodgett (scratch) defeated Robert Roome, (plus 5,) 17—14, 15—12.

Harlem A. L. Changes Name.

For the purpose of extending its territory the Harlem Athletic League has registered with the Metropolitan A. A. U. as the Harlem Heights Athletic League, and will conduct its activities in future under the latter name. This change in title has been adopted so that the organization will include many clubs in its scope, which are located outside of the Harlem district.

FOREGROUND ROMPS AWAY FROM FIELD

Wins Purse Event at Havre de Grace After Conceding Weight to Others.

HAVRE DE GRACE, Md., April 17.—Commander J. K. L. Ross's four-year-old colt Foreground made a show of his field this afternoon in the fourth race at five and a half furlongs, for which a purse of $1,000 was given. There was a small but good field, but Foreground conceded weight to all his opponents and defeated them with consummate ease. R. T. Wilson's Straight Forward had been expected to give Foreground a battle, and after Foreground had beaten off Colinella McAtee moved up with Straight Forward to challenge the leader. Sande did not hurry Foreground until well in the stretch, but when he did let the Canadian horse down he drew away to win easily by four lengths. Straight Forward beat Colinella a length for the place.

Ral Parr's horses, trained by members of the Garth family, were successful in two events. The first steeplechase of the season was captured by Mr. Parr's Warlock. There were further honors for the Garth confederacy in this event, as Mrs. J. M. Garth's Rhomb was second. In the first race, for two-year-olds, Fanny Cook, a daughter of Theodore Cook, carried the colors of Mr. Parr to victory.

Bronco Billy, which won the sixth race for J. P. Phillips, was a great surprise, paying $114.50 for a $2 ticket. The weather was better than on the opening day yesterday, but the track was heavy and slow time resulted.

The summaries:

Beats Spear in Final Round of Billiard Trophy Play.

A brilliant opening display of form gave Julian Rice a victory last night over George T. Spear, a Class C player, in the first final round match of the Poggenburg Cup amateur handicap 18.2 balk-line billiard tournament at the Rational Recreation Academy in Brooklyn. Rice, a Class B contestant, won by the convincing margin of 175 to 93 in twenty-seven innings. The victor had high runs of 36 and 26. Spear's highest run was 32, which he registered in his twenty-fourth inning.

Spear won the tournament last year, and this was his first game in the chase for this year's laurels. Under the rules he was not compelled to compete in the preliminary round matches. The second match of the final round this evening will bring together Charles J. Steinbugler and Robert Steinbugler, cousins. The men are Class C players and compete at 115 points.

The score:

Julian Rice, (175 points)—10 11 13 5 26 36 1 0 0 4 4 2 12 0 0 8 3 0 0 4 0 16 2 0 11 2 5—175. Average—6 13-27. High runs—36 and 26.

George T. Spear, (115 points)—0 1 1 0 9 0 3 7 6 0 10 0 6 0 0 1 0 1 8 0 0 5 0 32 2 1—93. Average—3 15-26. High run—32.

BEALL MEETS HIS MATCH.

Loses to Pearce in Golf Tourney at Pinehurst.

Special to The New York Times.

PINEHURST, N. C., April 17.—Edward C. Beall, the North and South champion, went down to defeat in the second match round of the mid-April tournament at Pinehurst today. Beall was beaten by Leslie Dean E. Pearce of Ekwanok, who won by 2 up and 1 to pla.y

H. C. Fownes of Pittsburgh will oppose Pierce in tomorrow's semi-finals. The Oakmount veteran went out in 38, against Howard G. Phillips of Moore County and came home in 41 for a 79, incidentally winning by 5 up and 4 to play.

Tom Morrison, another Oakmount golfer, and Frank S. Danforth of North Fork, survived in the upper bracket. Morrison defeated T. W. D. Turner of Buffalo 3 and 2. Danforth defeated C. F. Watson, Jr.

WINS A. E. F. GOLF TITLE.

Sergt. Rautenbush Defeats Lieut. Hubbell at Nice.

NICE, April 16.—Sergeant William Rautenbush, of Motor Truck Company 413, won the golf championship of the American Expeditionary Forces today by scoring an easy victory over Lieutenant James W. Hubbell, of the 176th Infantry Brigade. The match was played over 36 holes and Rautenbush won by a score of 6 up and 5 to play. The victor belongs to the Garfield Golf Club of Chicago, Ill. Lieutenant Hubbell, playing for Harvard, won the individual intercollegiate championship of Eastern colleges in 1916.

CHICAGO, April 17.—Sergeant William Rautenbush won the golf championship of Chicago six years ago at Jackson Park public links. He has been contender in the Western amateur and Western open championships at various times during the last six years. He was a semi-finalist in the Western Amateur tournament at Grand Rapids, Mich., in 1914.

We know a man who yesterday dropped in on a first-class Fifth Avenue tailor, only to learn that he could get a Spring suit in not a day less than six weeks.

He's a somewhat fussy fellow, yet wanting the suit this Spring, he decided to see what we could do.

Our imported stuffs took his eye at once.

Our "36 long" fitted him exactly.

The price? Less than half the fee the tailor asked.

Whether Spring suit or Easter cutaway, our range of fabrics and sizes invariably wins out when time's a factor. We encourage looking.

For wear with Easter cutaways—four-in-hands of exquisite pearl gray or black. Silk hats. Spats. Patent leathers. Canes. Gloves.

AMERICAN CREW IS MADE UP OF STARS

Crack College Oarsmen Will Represent Uncle Sam in Great Race on Seine.

PARIS, April 17.—The roster of the American crew which will take part in the international regatta on the Seine April 27 reads like an all-American selection.

The American crew is made up as follows:

Bow, Sergeant Collis S. Cole, Yale; No. 2, Private Royal Bird, Cornell; No. 3, Sergeant Howard McHenry, Yale; No. 4, Captain James Brinkerhoff, Cornell; No. 5, Lieutenant Tommy Jefferies, Harvard; No. 6, Captain Royal Pullen, University of Washington; No. 7, Captain Harry Cabot, Harvard; stroke, Lieutenant H. S. Brooks, Cornell; coxswain, Lieutenant Guy Gale, University of California.

The crew, under the coaching of Captain C. D. Wiman, Yale 1915, has adopted a combination of the Yale-Harvard stroke, which is working efficiently.

The Yankee coxswain, who is an expert aviator and pilot, told the correspondent yesterday that, should the Seine continue to rise, he would hurdle the bridges with his shell, as there was more room over than under.

The reason given for the withdrawal of the English crew is that when they came to the Seine for training they did not like the French type of boat, which is heavier than the English, and decided not to compete.

Each of the crews is made up of war veterans. The Newfoundlanders are showing a surprising amount of speed. The coach, however, said that his men were handicapped because they were unaccustomed to sliding seats. The Australian and New Zealand crews are training on the Thames at present, but are expected in Paris on Sunday. The Portuguese crews have been on the water since February, and the French oarsmen are veterans who have rowed together for years.

The dark horse of the race is Alsace-Lorraine. The men representing these provinces are training in secret on the Rhine.

O'BOYLE VICTOR IN BOUT.

Defeats Rosenberg in Bensonhurst Y. C. Tourney.

Andy O'Boyle of the Bronxdale A. C., metropolitan amateur boxing champion at 145 pounds, scored a victory last night over Dave Rosenberg, Glencoe A. C., national title holder, in a special bout at the Bensonhurst Yacht Club, Brooklyn. O'Boyle, with an effective offensive in an extra two-minute period, earned the judges' award in four rounds. The judges' disagreed at the end of the regulation three rounds and the referee refused to pick a winner. The contest was one of the most keenly contested and interesting bouts of the local amateur season.

This bout was one of a number of interesting exhibitions which marked the final round of the yacht club's monthly tournament.

118-Pound Class; Final.—George Etcell, Union Settlement A. C., defeated P. Klein, East Side Gymnasium, three rounds; judges' decision.

110-Pound Class; Special.—C. Svoboda, East Side House, defeated J. Romano, Glencoe A. C., three rounds; judges' decision.

140-Pound Class; Special.—H. Pitt, Pastime A. C., defeated A. Berl, Clark House A. A., four rounds; judges' decision.

128-Pound Class; Special.—H. Brown, Clark House A. A., defeated C. Jackman, Mercury A. C., three rounds; judges' decision.

110-Pound Class, Final.—H. Levine, Clark House A. A., defeated S. Fogler, New West Side A. C., three rounds; judges' decision.

130-Pound Class, Special.—L. Rosen, Educational Alliance, defeated S. Beck, Mercury A. C., three rounds; judges' decision.

145-Pound Class, Final.—I. Mandelbaum, Pastime A. C., won from E. Kreger, East Side House, by default.

145-Pound Class, Special.—Andy O'Boyle, Bronxdale A. C., defeated Dave Rosenberg, Glencoe A. C., four rounds; judges' decision.

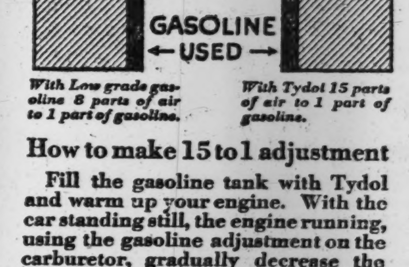
TRAVEL BOOKS.

Latest books of travel described in the Spring Number of The New York Times Review of Books, next Sunday.—Advt.

Every gallon of Tydol passes the "Doctor Test" for impurities



With Low grade gasoline 8 parts of air to 1 part of gasoline.

With Tydol 15 parts of air to 1 part of gasoline.

How to make 15 to 1 adjustment

Fill the gasoline tank with Tydol and warm up your engine. With the car standing still, the engine running, using the gasoline adjustment on the carburetor, gradually decrease the quantity of gasoline going through the bowl of the carburetor until the engine begins to slow down. Then increase the proportion of gasoline going through until you get a maximum engine speed, but not a fraction further.

With Tydol you will get approximately a 15 to 1 mixture (15 parts air to 1 part gasoline).

The same procedure with low grade gasoline will decrease the proportions to about an 8 to 1 mixture (8 parts air to 1 part gasoline). This means low mileage and excess carbon deposits.

Tydol is made so you can use less fuel and more air.

Gasoline that burns clean—

—freedom from engine troubles

GASOLINE may foul your engine. Carburetor, valves, pistons, cylinders may be gummed and carboned.

What results? Troubles! Your engine will need repairs. You may be stalled on the roadside.

Such gumming, excessive fouling, is unnecessary. Tydol, the Economy Gasoline, burns clean, gives power from every drop.

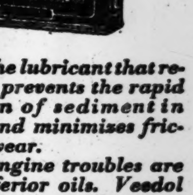
Impurities that gum up your engine never exist in Tydol. Every gallon passes the famous "Doctor Test." In the "Doctor Test" a sample of Tydol is shaken with a solution of sodium plumbate, then allowed to stand. If a dark ring forms between the layer of Tydol and the layer of chemicals, or if any discoloration appears, Tydol is again processed until all traces of impurities are removed. There are no injurious sulphur compounds in Tydol.

Tydol vaporizes fast. This is the reason why Tydol operates best on the famous 15 to 1 mixture. Those who condemn carburetor adjustment virtually ask the motorist to be satisfied with low mileage per gallon, and to risk dangerous engine troubles.

Fill up with Tydol today. Have your dealer make the 15 to 1 adjustment. (Described above.) With Tydol in the tank this means less carbon, greater acceleration and higher mileage per gallon.

Watch the result. Immediately you will feel new pickup, hill-pulling power, more miles to the gallon. Engine parts won't gum up.

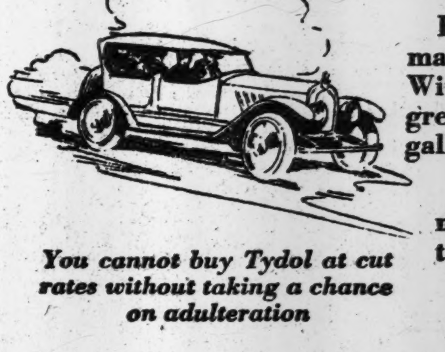
Look for the orange and black Tydol Sign.



Veedol, the lubricant that resists heat, prevents the rapid formation of sediment in your oil and minimizes friction and wear.

90% of engine troubles are due to inferior oils. Veedol prevents these troubles.

Have the old oil cleaned out of your crankcase and fill it with Veedol. Sold by reliable dealers everywhere.



You cannot buy Tydol at cut rates without taking a chance on adulteration

ENDS CENSORSHIP TO LATIN AMERICA

Navy Announces That Cable Messages in Code May Now Be Sent.

SEEKS BRITISH CONCESSIONS

Efforts Being Made to Obtain the Right to Use Codes Via London.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, April 17.—The Navy Department announced today through the Chief Cable Censor that censorship would be practically removed at midnight tonight from cables to Latin America, including Mexico and Cuba. A few days ago it was announced that censorship had been lifted from cables to and from Great Britain, France, and Italy, and to all of the Far East, except such messages as are routed through Vladivostok.

The relaxation of the American censorship means that merchants may now save money and diminish the delay in transmission.

The removal of the American regulations does not mean that codes will be allowable on cables where there is British, French, and Italian censorship. Despite great pressure brought to bear, England has not yet altered her rules against the use of codes. It is hoped that she will do so at a fairly early date.

Officials of the United States Navy Department, which enforces the censorship; the Post Office Department, which has taken over the American cables, and the State Department have been using their best endeavors to have Great Britain alter her rules. Negotiations to that end have been taken up in Paris.

Immunity Depends on Routing.

As the situation stands today, a New York merchant may use a code in his cablegram if the message goes direct to Latin America, but if it goes via London, the British regulations will prevail. Pacific cables are subject to British censorship at Hongkong. The retention of the American censorship at Vladivostok is for military purposes, as that is the base of the Siberian expedition.

Originally, the censorship was, of course, aimed at Germany and her allies, and was imposed largely to prevent communication for military, political or commercial purposes. An agreement was made among the Entente Allies on the subject. Now both the United States and Japan have relaxed their censorships.

Under the new rules made by the Navy Department, it is possible to send code messages to the scores of firms in South America and other countries not covered by the British censorship, known to have, or suspected to have, German conections, and blacklisted under the Trading With the Enemy act. Although it is possible to establish this physical communication, it is hardly likely that any one will take advantage of it, for it still remains a violation of the law to communicate with these firms, and the offender would be subject to severe fines and imprisonment. Even with the lifting of the censorship the files of cable companies would readily reveal to government agents cases where messages were filed for companies or individuals in violation of the Trading With the Enemy act.

Text of Navy's Announcement.

An official statement issued today by the Navy Department reads:

"The Navy Department, through the Chief Cable Censor, has today made important and far-reaching modifications in the operation ofthe United States cable censorship. As a result of these relaxations persons in the United States or any of its possessions may now cable, without any interference whatsoever by United States censorship, to points in Central and South America and the West Indies, including Mexico and Cuba. For instance, cablegrams in private code are permitted from Chicago to Valparaiso, or from Havana to Honolulu, or from New York to Mexico City.

"The United States has also stopped censoring cablegrams to or from points within British, French or Italian territory, irrespective of the route or terminus of such cablegrams; likewise cablegrams between all parts of the world and Central or South America are not censored by the United States; and in addition, cablegrams to and from the Far East, excepting only those to or through Vladivostok, are no longer subject to United States censorship.

"It is, however, to be noted that British, French and Italian censorships are still in operation, and the fact that the United States has stopped censoring certain cablegrams does not mean that such cablegrams will not be subjected to censorship by Great Britain, France or Italy, as the case may be. The United States will not censor a cablegram between Lima and Paris, but the French will, and such a cablegram will have to conform to the rules and regulations of French censorship, whereas a cablegram between Lima and New York is subject to no censorship whatsoever. Similarly, a cablegram from Mexico City to London, or through London, must conform to the British regulations, whereas a cablegram from Mexico City to Boston is subject to no restrictions.

Seeking British Relaxation.

"The British Government has not decided whether it will permit cablegrams in private code between the United States and South America to pass via London, but it is hoped that a decision will soon be reached.

"The restoration of the right to use private code between United States territory and all points in the Far East (other than to or through Vladivostok,) and the re-establishment of the same privilege with Central and South America, will prove highly beneficial to cable users and tend materially to hasten the resumption of normal trade. Prompt notification will be given of any modifications in the rules and regulations of British, French, or Italian censorship whereby private code may be used on cablegrams to, from, or through their respective territories.

"Cablegrams between United States territory and points in Europe, Africa, and Asia Minor which are not within British, French, or Italian territory will be censored by the United States as formerly and the same restrictions and regulations will remain in force."

Officials of the Post Office Department's Wire Board have contended that the prevention of code had much to do with the cable congestion and delay. Cable work has been days behind, because of the messages piled high in the receiving and sending offices. In addition, in many instances the delay was so great that often a merchant, worried because he had received no answer to his first communication, would send a "tracer" message, and these tracer messages packed the cables still more. The Wire Board estimated that the use of code across the Pacific would lessen by two-thirds the delay on the single cable that is now used through that ocean.

BUY UP GOVERNMENT WOOL.

34 Per Cent. of 4,100,000 Pounds Offered Taken at Philadelphia.

Special to The New York Times.

PHILADELPHIA, April 17.—At today's Government auction 59.37 per cent. of the total offerings, comprising about 200,000 pounds of capes and approximately 3,900,000 pounds of South American wool, was sold. This was divided into 34 per cent. of the capes and 61 per cent of the South American wool.

William H. Grundy & Co. of this city were the largest buyers, taking fifteen lots consisting of 883,900 pounds. Their purchases were confined entirely to South American stock and were mostly of wool that they had previously owned. Among their purchases was 150,000 pounds of chubut, for which they paid 33 cents in the grease.

Charles J. Webb & Co. was the next largest buyer, taking twenty-two lots comprising 291,066 pounds of South American wool. Other buyers and their purchases were: William D. Oelbermann & Co., 288,629 pounds; Tattersfield Company, 133,100 pounds; Winslow & Co., 105,130 pounds, and William G. Davidson & Co., 54,000 pounds. All of these buyers were of this city and confined their purchases to South American wool. English & O'Brien, Inc., of Boston bought 16,156 pounds cape greasy kempy matchings, 50-60s clothing, at $1.05¼ on a scoured basis. They also took 213,685 pounds of South American stock. Crimmins & Pierce Co. purchased 103,600 pounds of South American wool and 50,000 pounds of old cape.

Bidding dragged at times and the auctioneer passed several lots by when he was unable to obtain a bid. At other times the bids offered were much below the Government minimum prices and the lots were withdrawn.

WON'T OBEY GARFIELD.

Chief Refuses to Send Striking Kansas Miners Back to Work.

PITTSBURG, Kan., April 17.—Alexander Howat, President of the Kansas District, United Mine Workers of America, challenges the right of Dr. H. A. Garfield, Federal Fuel Administrator, "to direct the affairs of our organization in this district" in a message sent to Mr. Garfield today. The message was in reply to one received from Mr. Garfield yesterday directing Mr. Howat to put the striking Central Coal and Coke Company miners back at work and appear before the Labor Board to submit their complaint. Howat's message to Garfield today follows:

"I received your message in which you instruct me to rescind strike order, and have miners return to work. I have no knowledge of any authority given you by the coal miners of this country to direct the affairs of our organization in this district. I am of the opinion that I am in no way obligated to carry out your instructions in this matter. I therefore respectfully but positively refuse to comply with your direction.

"This district is going to stand with the miners and their officials in Arkansas and Oklahoma, and as far as we are concerned the strke at the mines of the Central Coal and Coke Company in Kansas will continue until the coal operators' association makes a settlement that is satisfactory to the miners in both districts."

INDICTED FOR MAIL FRAUD.

Reputed Marquis Under $25,000 Bail as Oil Firm's Head.

Louis Roumagnac, President of the Tuxpam Star Oil Corporation and reputed to be a French Marquis; John R. Bryant, Director of the corporation, and two agents, Genjamin Hurtoda Mendoza and George Breen, were indicted by the Federal Grand Jury yesterday on a charge of fraudulently using the mails to sell the stock of the corporation.

It was alleged that the principals, brokers, and others, had sold to persons throughout the United States and elsewhere 20,000,000 shares of the stock at prices ranging from 50 cents to $1.95. Federal officials alleged that the statements on which persons were induced to buy the stock were false and that the main business of the corporation was apparently to sell the stock.

Roumagnac and Bryant were held in $25,000 and $5,000 bail, respectively. All of the indicted men will be arraigned Monday.

GOVERNMENT SELLS 15 WOODEN SHIPS

First of the Transfers of the War-Built Merchant Marine to Private Owners.

LOSS OF $20 A TON IN COST

Fleet Will Be Operated by a New York Company and Engage in Transatlantic Trade.

WASHINGTON, April 17.—Sale of the war-built merchant fleet was begun today by the Shipping Board with the transfer of fifteen wooden steamships to the Nacirema Steamship Company of New York at a price of $650,000 for each vessel. This is an average of $145 per deadweight ton.

This fleet is to be operated by the Brooks Steamship Company of New York in the transatlantic trade. Five of the fifteen will be operated out of New York, five out of Havana, and five out of New Orleans. Deliveries will be completed within a short time.

Cargoes for all fifteen vessels have been booked in advance, and as a result the purchasers have opened negotiations for the purchase of fifteen more vessels of the same type and for immediate delivery. They also purpose to take over a third fleet of the same size in the future.

It is understood that the purchasers obtained insurance ranging from 1⅛ to 3½ per cent., which shipping experts said indicated the underwriters now regarded this type of vessel as a good risk. The original insurance rate ranged from 5 to 7 per cent.

The steamers Beechland, Zavallo, Cowardin, Neabsco, Horade, Nawitka, Itompa, Natenna, Alderman, and Argenta, all of them 4,700 tons each, will be delivered at New Orleans. The Dalana, Thala, Airlie, Ashburn, and Birchleaf, 4,000 tons, will be delivered at New York.

The latest figures of the Shipping Board show 115 wooden ships in service. Contracts originally were let for 703 vessels of this type, but 214 of the contracts were canceled after the armistice.

All of the 4,700-ton ships sold today were built in the yards of the National Shipbuilding Company of Orange, Texas. The five vessels of 4,000 tons each were built at the Supple & Ballin yards at Portland, Ore.

According to the Shipping Board's second annual report contracts for wooden ships which were let up to Aug. 31, 1918, called for an expenditure of approximately $165 a ton. On this basis the sale today indicates a loss of $20 a ton from the cost of production during the war, a total on the 67,000 tons sold of $1,340,000. Chairman Hurley has stated that in the sale or operation during peace of the fleet built during the war a substantial writing off would be necessary to allow for the increased cost of materials and labor while the war was in progress.

The Nacirema Steamship Company was organized March 15 under the laws of the State of Delaware and is capitalized for $500,000. J. W. Marshall is President and a Director. The other Directors are Amos D. Carver, Sheppard Schermerhorn, Pierpont Davis, F. R. Eaton, Captain W. B. Brooks, and F. Bradley Cox.

The first ship of the fleet to sail is the Beechland, which will leave New Orleans today for Havre with general merchandise.

Bids for twenty-five additional ships of the same class will be received by the Shipping Board on Monday, May 5. Successful bidders may transfer the vessels to foreign registry if desired. Each of the vessels to be sold averages 3,500 tons deadweight and their fuel consumption, when averaging nine knots an hour at sea, is about twenty-four tons a day. The Shipping Board announced that the ships were suitable for coastwise, transatlantic, or transpacific trading, a number of the same class having been used successfully in the Pacific coast-Hawaiian trade and between the united States and Central America, West Indian and South American ports on both coasts.

Winchester Company Reorganized.

The reorganization of the Winchester Repeating Arms Company has been completed with the incorporation under the laws of Connecticut, of the Winchester Company, which takes over the stock of the Winchester Repeating Arms Company, of which about 97 per cent. was deposited under the readjustment plan. Among the Directors of the new company are T. G. Bennett, J. E. Otterson, L. K. Liggett, and C. S. Sargent, Jr.

GEORGIA COAST & PIEDMONT RAILROAD COMPANY

NOTICE OF FORECLOSURE SALE.

Notice is hereby given that pursuant to a Final Decree entered in the District Court of the United States for the Eastern Division of the Southern District of Georgia, on March 8, 1919, in a certain cause in Equity pending in said court entitled "David Loewenthal, Plaintiff, against Georgia Coast & Piedmont Railroad Company, Defendant; Columbia Trust Company, Complainant in Cross Bill, against Georgia Coast & Piedmont Railroad Company, Defendant," I, J. W. TALBERT, in and by said Final Decree appointed to be the Special Master therein referred to, will sell at public auction to the highest bidder or bidders at the general office of National Georgia Coast & Piedmont Railroad Company in Brunswick, Georgia, upon the property to be sold on May 6, 1919, at 1 o'clock P. M. (Eastern Standard Time) the property in said Final Decree described and therein directed to be sold, the following being a brief description of said property to be sold at said sale:

All and singular the entire line or lines of railroad constituting the property of Georgia Coast & Piedmont Railroad Company, in the State of Georgia, extending from the City of Darien, in McIntosh County, Georgia, northwestwardly through the Counties of McIntosh and Liberty to Collins, in Tatnall County, Georgia, and also all the line or lines of said railroad as extended including the line or lines of railroad extending from the City of Darien in McIntosh County, Georgia, in a general southerly direction to the City of Brunswick in Glynn County, Georgia, and along the routes authorized in the Charter of said Railroad Company as now existing, including any and all branch or subsidiary line or lines; together with all lands acquired and used for said railroad or for any purpose in connection with the construction, maintenance or operation thereof, and all the rights of way, water or riparian rights, easements, roadbeds, tracks, docks, piers, wharves, bridges, viaducts, culverts, switches, turnouts, sidings, turn-tables, fences, depot grounds, station houses, station grounds, yards, terminal property, freight houses, warehouses, engine houses, car houses, fuel houses, sheds, machine shops or other shops, water tanks and all other structures, erections and fixtures of every kind and rights and all such real and personal property, rights of way, easements, and appurtenances, as may be germane to or necessary for or in connection with the construction, operation or maintenance of said several lines of railroad, now owned and possessed by said Railroad Company; also all the locomotives, engines, cars, rolling stock of every kind, tools, machinery of every kind, rails, spikes, joint fastenings, timbers, ties, superstructure and material of every kind necessary to be used in or in connection with the construction, maintenance and operation of said railroads, now owned and possessed by said Railroad Company; also all tools, implements and machinery, instruments, furniture, safes, books, accounts, maps, field notes, surveys and charts belonging to said Railroad Company and used or intended to be used, or capable of being used, in connection with the construction, completion, operation or equipment of said railroads; also all materials and supplies of every character owned or possessed by said Railroad Company, designed to be used or capable of being used in or in connection with the construction, completion, equipment, use or operation of said railroads, or any portion thereof, together with all and singular the tenements, hereditaments and appurtenances thereunto belonging, or in any wise appertaining; and also all the rights, powers, privileges and franchises of or belonging to said Railroad Company and also the tolls, income, rents, issues, profits and avails thereof.

Also $568,000 face value of First Mortgage Forty-Year 5% Gold Bonds of the Georgia Coast & Piedmont Railroad Company, dated March 1, 1906, maturing March 1, 1946, secured by the Mortgage or deed of trust to the Morton Trust Company, Trustee, dated March 1, 1906.

For a more particular description of the property to be sold and of the terms of sale, intending purchasers are hereby referred to said Final Decree and to the record in the above-mentioned cause wherein said decree was entered.

As more fully provided by said Final Decree, to which reference is hereby made:

I. Said sale will be made without valuation, appraisement, redemption or extension.

II. The right is reserved to the Court to adjourn or postpone said sale and to direct the Special Master to proceed with the sale without further notice or advertisement on any date to which the same may have been so adjourned.

III. Any party to said cause or any holder of bonds issued under the Mortgage of said Georgia Coast & Piedmont Railroad Company dated April 1, 1912, (said mortgage being hereinafter referred to as the First Mortgage and said bonds as First Mortgage Bonds) may bid or purchase at such sale.

IV. Said property will be sold subject to any lawful taxes or assessments upon said property and subject to the lien of the mortgage or deed of trust of the defendant Georgia Coast & Piedmont Railroad Company to Morton Trust Company, as Trustee, dated March 1, 1906.

V. The Special Master will receive no bid from any one offering to bid who shall not first deposit with the Special Master as a condition precedent to his right to bid and as a pledge that such bidder will make good his bid in case of its acceptance by the Special Master and confirmation by the Court the sum of $30,000 in cash or by certified check upon any national bank or trust company in the State of Georgia or of the City of New York, acceptable to the Special Master and made or indorsed payable to his order, or, in lieu of said deposit in cash or by check, $300,000 face amount of First Mortgage Bonds in bearer form, bearing coupons appertaining to such bonds maturing April 1, 1916, and subsequently.

LEGAL NOTICES.

In lieu of the deposit of First Mortgage Bonds and coupons with the Special Master, the Special Master may accept the Certificate of the Columbia Trust Company of New York that it holds subject to his order the amount therein specified of First Mortgage Bonds in bearer form, accompanied by the coupons therein stated.

The deposit received from an unsuccessful bidder will be returned to him when the property has been struck off. The deposit received from any successful bidder will be held by the Special Master subject to the orders of the Court and upon confirmation of the sale will be applied on account of the purchase price of the property.

The Special Master will not accept any bid for the property offered for sale less than the sum of $300,000.

VI. In case any bidder, after the acceptance of his bid by the Special Master, shall fail to comply within a period of twenty days with any order of the Court requiring or relating to the payment of the balance of the purchase price, then the sums deposited by such successful bidder whether in cash or by check or represented by First Mortgage Bonds, will be forfeited as a penalty for such failure and will be applied to the expenses of a resale and toward making good any deficiency or loss in case the property shall be sold at a less price on such resale, and to such other purposes as the Court may direct. If the Court shall not confirm any sale the deposit made by the accepted bidder will be forthwith returned to such bidder.

VII. The purchaser or purchasers on the confirmation of the sale by the Court shall make such further payment or payments in cash on account of the purchase price as the Court may from time to time direct. So much of the purchase price as may not be required by the Court to be paid in cash may either be paid in cash or any purchaser may satisfy and make good such residue of his bid in whole or in part by turning over to the Special Master to be cancelled or credited First Mortgage Bonds and coupons thereunto appertaining. In lieu of so turning over to the Special Master First Mortgage Bonds and coupons the Special Master will accept the Certificate of Columbia Trust Company of New York, that it holds subject to his order the amount therein specified of First Mortgage Bonds in bearer form and accompanied by the coupons therein stated. A purchaser will be credited on account of the purchase price for First Mortgage Bonds and the coupons thereunto appertaining turned over in part payment of the purchase price such sum as would be paid in cash upon such Bonds and coupons out of the proceeds of sale if the whole amount of the purchase price had been paid in cash. The Court reserves the right to resell the property sold upon such notice as it may direct at the risk and cost of the purchaser in case such purchaser shall fail or omit to make any payment on account of the purchase price within twenty days after the entry of any order requiring such payment.

VIII. Any purchaser and his successors or assigns shall have the right to elect not to take or accept any of the property or franchises struck off to him by written notice to the Special Master given at any time prior to the execution and delivery of the deeds or instruments of transfer from the Special Master provided for in said Final Decree. No such election by the purchaser shall diminish or affect the purchase price of the property.

As provided in Article XXXII of said Final Decree any purchaser and his successors or assigns will have the right for the period of six months after the delivery of the Special Master's deed, to elect whether or not to assume or to adopt as part of the property embraced in such deed, any lease or contract made by the defendant Georgia Coast & Piedmont Railroad Company appertaining to the property purchased by him.

IX. Upon confirmation of sale and the payment of the purchase price by any purchaser, his successors or assigns, or upon making such provision for the payment thereof as the Court may approve the Special Master making the sale will execute to such purchaser, his successors or assigns, a deed or deeds or other proper instruments conveying, assigning and transferring the property sold to such purchaser (except such part thereof, if any, as such purchaser, his successors or assigns shall have elected not to take in accordance with the provisions of Article XXXII. of said Final Decree.) Upon the production of such deed or deeds and assignments or transfers, or of a certified copy or copies thereof, the grantee or grantees therein named will be let into possession of the property so conveyed or transferred. The purchaser, his successors or assigns, shall, after such delivery of possession, hold, possess and enjoy the property conveyed and transferred and every part and parcel thereof, free from the trust and lien imposed thereon by the First Mortgage, and free from any claim, right, interest or equity of redemption of, in or to the same by or of the defendant Georgia Coast & Piedmont Railroad Company, its successors and assigns, and by or of the creditors and stockholders of said Railroad Company, and by or of any party to said cause, and all persons, partnerships and corporations claiming by, under or through said Railroad Company, its creditors or its stockholders, or any party to said cause; subject, nevertheless, to the conditions that the Court may retake and resell the property conveyed or transferred in case such purchaser, his successors or assigns, shall fail within the time limited to pay any balance of the purchase price remaining unpaid.

X. By said Final Decree the Court reserves for future adjudication all questions not disposed of by said Final Decree.

For further particulars reference is hereby made to said Final Decree and to the record and proceedings in said cause on file in the office of the Clerk of the District Court of the United States for the Eastern Division of the Southern District of Georgia.

Dated, March 14, 1919.

J. W. TALBERT,
Special Master.

FIGURES FUTURE OF TRANSIT

Kracke Expects City Roads to Carry 6,400,000,000 in 1950.

Public Service Commissioner Kracke said yesterday he estimated that before 1950 this city would have a population of 12,556,106, figuring on the present rate of increase. This estimate followed the permission of the commission to the Belt Line Railway Corporation to abandon its tracks south of Fourteenth Street.

Mr. Kracke said useless and wornout lines should be discarded to clear the way for better service. He remarked that at the close of the last fiscal year the city's population was estimated at 5,525,497, and that during the year the transportation lines carried 1,975,511,709 passengers. He thinks that more than 2,000,000,000 passengers will be carried this year.

In 1860, according to Mr. Kracke's figures, the population was 1,174,779 and the passengers 50,830,173, or 43 rides per capita. In 1910 the population was 4,766,883, the number of passengers 1,531,262,914, and the rides per capita 321. Last year the per capita rides were 358.

"This reveals," said Mr. Kracke, "that traffic increases in a much greater proportion than population. While the population has grown 26 to 39 per cent. per decade, the ratios for passengers have been 49 to 200 per cent. We are justified in assuming a 30 per cent. increase in population per decade and a 60 per cent. increase in traffic, therefore we can reasonably expect 6,400,000,000 passengers in 1950, compared with 2,100,000,000 in 1920."

FOR NEW CITY HOSPITAL.

The Board of Estimate yesterday discussed the question of establishing a city hospital on Washington Heights, as outlined in a resolution adopted at a mass meeting of residents of that section last week. Several citizens appeared yesterday to explain why a hospital was necessary. Representatives of theAudubon Medical Society alone opposed it. Health Commissioner Copeland thought the suggestion a good one, and said that city hospitals should be under one head and not under the jurisdiction of the Health Department, the Department of Charities and the trustees of Bellevue and allied hospitals.

The only hospitals in the Heights section are two private hospitals that have only ninety-six beds. They take city patients, but transfer them as rapidly as possible to city institutions. Dr. Copeland said that the Heights section has only one bed for every 2,400 of population, while other sections of the city have one bed for every 167. The matter was referred to the Committee on Finance and Budget.

BUTTER AND EGG MARKET.

BUTTER.—Receipts yesterday 9,463 packages, including 1,500 packages in transit for export. After a very firm opening the market settled back a fraction, but prices on all grades of creamery are fully 1½c above those prevailing the previous day. Tone unsettled at the close, with immediate future depending upon the strike situation to a considerable extent. Creamery, higher than extras, a pound, 66@66½c; extras, 92 score, 65½c; firsts, 88 to 91 score, 64@65c; seconds, 83 to 87 score, 61@63c; lower grades, 57@60½c; unsalted, higher than extras, 67@67½c; extra, 66@66½c; firsts, 64@65c; seconds, 60@63c; State dairy tubs, finest, 64@65c; good to prime, 60@63c; common to fair, 47@50c; renovated, extras, 51c; firsts, 49@50c; lower grades, 46@48c; imitation creamery, firsts, 48@49c; ladles, current make, firsts, 46@47c; seconds, 44@44½c; lower grades, 42@43½c; packing stock, current make, No. 1, 43½@44c; No. 2, 42½@43c; lower grades, 39@42c.

EGGS.—32,781 cases, not including 2,000 cases in transit for export. A better trade set in, giving a firmer tone, with rather a better outlook. Part of the increased buying may be due to expectation of a harbor boatmen's strike, but most receivers consider the relative strength of Western advices as responsible for the maintenance of values here and the more favorable outlook. The range of prices is without material change. Nearby white eggs in fair demand and steady, but there is pressure to sell the average prime and ordinary qualities for which values rule slightly in buyers' favor. Duck and goose eggs firm, scarce and wanted beyond the supply. Fresh gathered, extras, a dozen, 45½@46c; storage packed, extra firsts, 44½@45c; firsts, 43@44½c; gathered, extra firsts, 44@44½c; firsts, northerly sections, 41½@43½c; southerly sections, 40½@43c; seconds and poorer, 38@40c; dirties, No. 1, 38½@39½c; No. 2 and poorer, 35@38c; checks, good to choice, dry, 37½@38½c; undergrades, 35@37c; State, Pennsylvania and nearby Western, hennery whites, fine to fancy, 51@52c; ordinary to prime, 46@50c; gathered whites, ordinary to fine, 45@50c; Pacific Coast, good to fine, 48@49c; Western and Southern, gathered whites, 44@50c; State, Pennsylvania and nearby, hennery browns, 46@47c; gathered brown and mixed colors, 42@46c; duck eggs, nearby Indian Runner, fancy, 68c; Baltimore, 66@67c; Virginia, 58@66c; Western and other Southern, good to prime, 58@63c; far Southern, common to fair, 50c; goose eggs, 80c@$1.

Alaska Gold Mines Deficit $647,974.

The Alaska Gold Mines Company in its report for 1918 shows a deficit after charges and depreciation of $647,974, as compared with a deficit of $270,722 in 1917. Of last year's loss nearly half was accounted for by the depreciation charge. The increase in the cost per ton for operations was due to a decrease in tonnage milled. This is attributed to the shortage of labor.

$70,000 for Stock Exchange Seat.

The seat of Frederick H. Hovey on the New York Stock Exchange was sold yesterday to George A. Sawyer for $70,000, an increase of $1,000 over the last previous sale, but $4,000 under the top price for this year. W. Colford Anderson, Harold W. Pierce, and James A. Garland were elected to membership.

FINANCIAL MARKETS

Pre-Holiday Selling of Stocks Is Absorbed with Ease—Traders Examine the Future.

Realizing sales of stocks put through yesterday on the eve of the Good Friday recess in the markets were absorbed with a fair degree of ease and the ragged price list at the close reflected no new developments. Some issues, including the steel shares, which acted uncertainly the day before, continued to sag, but sufficient new speculative energy for the rise appeared among others to leave the underlying supports of the market in the same condition that had been in evidence for ten days or more. In fact, it would be difficult to point to any especial group of stocks as having altered in their general aspects from what they had been for the last sixty days. The stock market all along has been one unaffected by current events or by events in immediate propect, if the results of the Peace Conference may be excluded, and it has been increasingly evident that forces extending far ahead in their potential influence are shaping the sentiments of speculators.

If this were not the case, a galaxy of factors of market import could be referred to which would be potent not for constructive, but for destructive effect among quotations. There is the steel market, for example, with mill operations steadily on the decline and quarterly earnings statements showing sharp recessions from those of a year ago. The copper market, overfull of marketable metal, is lying in a state of quietude such as has not been seen since the earliest days of the European war. In both these markets there are no signs as yet of a revival, with the future clouded by uncertainty whether or not the resumption of sales will be marked by sharp competition for domestic business, lower prices, and possible liquidation of labor at mill and mine. The railroads are facing further increases in monthly operating deficits and security owners are not yet able to foresee the attitude likely to be taken by Congress in regard to the control of their properties when the war emergency ends. If the stock market was always governed by matters of current moment, the combination of these three unsatisfactory situations would be enough to send stocks down. But speculators during the last sixty days have been looking ahead at the broader outlines of industry, as they have done on many occasions in the past, and the rise of prices has emphasized faith that temporary embarrassments are to be only remotely considered against prospects of good business and the correction of financial difficulties in the future. They are studying the excellent crop reports, the movement to stimulate international trade after the Victory Loan is floated, and the gradually accumulated evidences of betterment in the distribution of various manufactured goods.

The Street received with satisfaction Lloyd George's assurances to the British legislators that the peace treaty would prove to be a document amply meeting the demands of the various nations. Outside of this, news from Europe had no particular influence upon the thought of financial circles yesterday. Information showing that the price of copper was gradually softening was accepted as a natural product of the deadlock between sellers and consumers and copper shares moved indifferently. Call money was the same as on Wednesday, the rate moving from 5¾ to 5½ per cent.

TOPICS IN WALL STREET.

The Price Fixing Plan.

Steel manufacturers are puzzled by the stand which Director General Hines of the Railroad Administration continues to take toward the Redfield stabilization plan for steel prices. His opposition, they maintain, is singlar, since he was present at the Cabinet meetings at which the Redfield plan was submitted for consideration. This fact was made known by representatives of several of the so-called independent companies. Reports from Washington yesterday intimated that Secretary Redfield felt the decision of President Wilson, to whom the controversy has been submitted by cable, would be against the Industrial Board. Wall Street at once began speculating as to whether a decision in favor of the Railroad Administration would be considered by Secretary Redfield as a cause for his resignation.

Copper Price Goes Lower.

The copper market continues to be inactive, and the lack of any sizable orders was construed yesterday as the reason for a sagging in the price quoted by some of the large producers from 15½ cents a pound to 15¼. There has been, comparatively speaking, no real buying demand for copper since the first of the year, and perhaps for longer. Some weeks ago there was a flare up, with some big orders placed, but the improvement was short lived. The question of chief importance now is how long the copper companies will be willing to continue to pay a wage scale based on eighteen-cent metal when they are getting only a trifle over 15 cents for the metal. At the conferences in Washington of representatives of the miners, the copper producers, and Secretary of Labor Wilson the copper companies agreed to continue paying wages based on eighteen-cent copper, but, as one of the best-known copper men pointed out, there was no stipulation that this was to be maintained indefnitely in the face of unfavorable business conditions.

Business Looking Up.

The head of one of the largest steel companies in describing the stagnation which obtains in the industry said yesterday: "Business is looking up because it is flat on its back and can't look any other way."

United States Cartridge Company.

President Cornish of the National Lead Company, of which the United States Cartridge Company is a subsidiary, at the annual meeting yesterday said it was believed that the earnings of the cartridge company would be substantial, but they had not as yet been definitely determined. No peace time policy for the company has as yet been decided upon, but several plans are believed to be under consideration.

Dividend Cut; Stock Advances.

Another evidence of the small part which dividends play in a rising stock market was shown yesterday, when, following a reduction by the Directors of Gaston, Williams & Wigmore from $1 a share quarterly to 50 cents, the stock closed the day with a net gain. Similar cases have been in evidence recently, and traders are inclined to point to them as proof of a real bull market. Generally speaking, there is a belief that Wall Street is not considering the present too seriously, but is looking ahead to the prosperity which has so frequently been predicted once the stabilization of world conditions has been established.

Texas and Pacific Coal and Oil.

The announcement that the $1,000,000 increase in the capital stock of the Texas and Pacific Coal and Oil Company would be offered to stockholders of record May 1 at $100 a share brought about some hurried figuring as to the value of the "rights." Yesterday the stock sold at $2,150, a new high mark, and the "rights" were quoted at $335@$350. At the price named the rights have an actual cash value of $341. Payment for the new stock is to be 50 per cent. on or before June 2, and the remainder on or before Sept. 30. President Marston in his letter to stockholders said that an extra dividend on present holdings would aid in paying the second installment.

Food Stocks Still Favorites.

There was pronounced strength in the so-called food stocks yesterday. Ever since the signing of the armistice there has been a sharp demand for those issues which would presumably profit most by the return to peace conditions. Many of the companies producing food products are planning for export trade on a large scale, this having been hampered while the war was being waged. How much of the advance recorded is purely speculative and how much has been caused by investment buying is a rather puzzling question. Aside from this, however, the revamped Distillers' Securities Corporation, now the United States Food Products Company, moved to a new high level yesterday, a gain of more than 4 points being recorded. Loose-Wiles Biscuit gained better than 3 points, National Biscuit moved up 2¼ and American Cotton Oil had an advance of 2 points.

The Marine Dividend.

The announcement yesterday after the close of the stock market by Directors of the International Mercantile Marine Company of a further payment of 10 per cent. of back dividends on the preferred stock, verified the attitude of that part of the financial community which has maintained that the recent strength of the shares was justified. The market action of the preferred shares gave no evidence other than has been displayed for some time, that such action was to be taken by the Directors. On a fair exchange of stock the preferred opened at 116, sold up to 116¼, eased off to 115½ and closed at 116 with a net gain of ¼ of a point. The declaration of this disbursement was generally interpreted to mean that there is little prospect that the company contemplates a sale of its British registered tonnage and that all negotiations surrounding such a transaction are definitely off. It was also taken to mean that the company intends to operate its entire fleet and from time to time cut down the accumulated dividends on the preferred shares which now amount to 57 per cent. The common stock was fairly active in yesterday's market but closed with a net loss of ¼ of a point.

Cunard Line Developing.

Dispatches from London containing the information that the Cunard Company is broadening its operations by the acquisition of other companies and increasing its captital structure to the extent of £6,000,000 has attracted considerable attention. It was pointed out yesterday that only a few years ago the company contented itself with the maintenance of a passenger and cargo business between Liverpool, London, and Mediterranean ports. Now it is reported that the company has acquired the Anchor Line, the Donaldson Line, the Royal Mail Line, and the Uranium Line along with the Commonwealth and Dominion Line and the American and Levant and Wells Lines. The Anchor-Brocklebank Line also is a recent acquisition. This branching out carries Cunard vessels into almost all the important world trade lanes, and the opinion has been expressed that the company may go still further in its quest for a world service.

The Hurley Shipping Plan.

In local shipping circles it is generally believed that when the Merchant Marine Committee of the House takes up various plans which will be presented to Congress for lifting the Government out of the shipping business Chairman Hurley's plan to put the ships which were built under war strain into the merchant service will meet with strong opposition. Mr. Hurley's plan has not been received with approval by all shipowners, and it was asserted yesterday that many of the shipping interests of the country will combat its adoption and will show that if put into operation it would not work out practically as well as it does theoretically. The particular bone of contention, it is understood, will be those recommendations made by Mr. Hurley for what the shipping interests say would be too much Government regulation.

The Railroad Wage Advances.

The following distribution of the Railroad Administration's wage advances allowed during the period of Federal control has been estimated in railroad circles recently from unofficial figures: Trainmen have received an increase of $225,000,000, shopmen $220,000,000, trackmen $170,000,000, stationmen $90,000,000, telegraphers $50,000,000, engine house men $40,000,000, miscellaneous classes, $50,000,000, and nonoperating forces about $65,000,000, making a total increase of $910,000,000.

READY FOR OPENING OF LOAN CAMPAIGN

Workers Perfect Organization to Push 100 Per Cent. Drive Throughout District.

WOMEN TO PLAY BIG PART

Many Booths to be in Charge of Veterans Who Helped Previous Sales Over the Top.

With the opening of the drive for the Victory Loan only three days off, organizations responsible for the success of the loan in the Second Federal Reserve District have signified their readiness to push a 100 per cent. campaign. The Victory Liberty Loan Committee of the district announced yesterday that the machinery of the organization is tuned for a strong start.

Several million dollars' worth of subscriptions, said a statement from the committee, have already been pledged in the Metropolitan district, the banner one yesterday being a promise of $200,000 made by Saks & Co., which was announced by Louis Stewart, Chairman of the Department Stores Committee. Mr. Stewart said that he expected to announce several more subscriptions before the end of the week. The members of the Rotary Club at a meeting yesterday pledged $50,000 to the loan.

Dwight W. Morrow of J. P. Morgan & Co. was the principal speaker at a meeting of the Wholesale Dry Goods Committee yesterday in the Merchants' Club room in the New York Life Insurance Building.

"The Victory Liberty Loan is going to be a very great test for you, men," said Mr. Morrow. "It is not going to be easy to get the bands to play in the same way they played when soldiers were going over to France. It is going to be a test of character that didn't come while the war was on. Can we go on when things do not look so bright, when we are not stimulated by the greater sacrifices that younger men are making?

"Your work of the next few weeks will require what some one has called '3 o'clock in the morning courage.' There won't be any glamor about it. Your task is to be the discharge of obligation, the discharge of a sacred obligation, the discharge of a sacred obligation to our own soldiers and to our allies."

Women Play Big Part.

The women are going to play a prominent part in floating the Victory Loan, as they did in the past, according to detailed plans issued at the Liberty Loan Headquarters. Seventy-six booths in charge of veteran saleswomen from the last four Liberty Loan campaigns will be put at the disposal of subscribers by the women. The organizations supervising the bond sale include: The American Red Cross, the Young Women's Christian Association, the Young Women's Hebrew Association, the National Society of Patriotic Women, the Missouri Women's Club, the Jewish Big Sisters, the Vacation Association, the Daughters of the Union, the Daughters of Pennsylvania, the New York Section of the Council of Jewish Women, the Spence School Alumnae, the Central Club for Nurses, the Business Women's Committee, the Comforts Committee of the Navy, the National League for Women's Service, the Women's Municipal League, the Imperial Order of the Daughters of the British Empire, and the National Woman's Army.

As an outgrowth of the honor flag idea, which was successfully worked during the Fourth Liberty Loan, flags will be awarded in the new loan by separate divisions of the Liberty Loan Committee. Industrial honor flags will be awarded by the district Chairman of the Second Federal Reserve District to organizations in their districts and by the Advisory Trades Committee in the metropolitan district. The community honor flags will be distributed by the Honor Flag Division through the banking officials of the State.

The flag for the industrial organizations will differ from the "100 per cent. pennant" of the last loan and will be awarded on a different plan. The flag will bear a blue "V" on a white background and will be two feet and six inches wide, by two feet and nine inches long. A red border will enclose the field of white. On the background the inscription "Honor Flag for Victory Liberty Loan" will appear over the statement "Presented by the United States Treasury Department."

These flags will be awarded to all organizations in which 70 per cent. of the membership subscribe. For each additional 10 per cent. of the membership which subscribe a star will be sewn on the flag beside the "V." If 100 per cent. of any organization subscribe to the loan, a "100 per cent symbol" will be sewn into the notch of the "V."

This morning a number of big German guns, captured in the Argonne by the Americans, will be drawn up Fifth Avenue to be placed on Victory Way. They will be escorted by camouflaged American tanks driven by the crews that operated them on the other side.

Failure of the police to distribute seventy-five tons of Victory Liberty Loan literature which the loan organization had dumped earlier in the week in the station houses, with request that the police post walls in the precinct, was brought to the attention of Mayor Hylan yesterday, and Grover A. Whalen, secretary to the Mayor, announced that the police would not engage in any preliminary work in the loan campaign and might not participate in the drive at all.

"The police are too busy," said Mr. Whalen, "and they are going to stick to police duty."

He was asked whether this could be interpreted to mean that the police would not aid in the collection of loan subscriptions. He replied:

"Not necessarily. I don't think that has been decided upon yet. In the other loans the police did a lot of preliminary work which took a lot of their time and offered an opportunity for some of them, if there were any such men, to shirk their regular duties."

At the loan organization it was said that a committee had called upon the Mayor, but that no comment would be made.

First City to Subscribe Quota.

CHARLOTTE, Mich., April 17.—Charlotte is the first Michigan city, if not the first in the country, to subscribe its full quota for the Victory Liberty Loan. Local loan workers and bankers have pledged the entire $75,000 allotted as the city's quota. Efforts will be made to triple the quota.

WEATHER BOOMS COTTON.

Market Develops Strong Tone and Advances 60 to 72 Points.

The cotton market was again driven forward by Southern and Liverpool bulls yesterday into new high levels for the movement. Thanks to reports of more cold weather and excessive rains over the belt, the task of the bulls was made relatively easy, for the only selling opposition they encountered came from local ring traders and from some of the speculative houses which were willing to take profits—at the bulge figures. There was little new to the cotton situation, aside from the continued bad weather, but the market was very strong, and even on the few reactions appeared to possess a particularly good undertone.

The underlying strength of the market was well illustrated in the late afternoon. At that time, the aggressive buying for Liverpool had ended and the South was not doing much. A few selling orders appeared and immediately some of the ring traders seized the opportunity to attack the market. They succeeded in forcing prices for some options down 20 points or so, but then the market turned and shot up, and even went into new high figures.

The buying yesterday was especially impressive, in view of the fact that the markets here and at Liverpool will be closed today and tomorrow. Ordinarily, in such a bull market as we have been having, there would be a good deal of selling on the eve of a holiday as protracted as is the present. But yesterday the market simply took all the offerings, with no apparent thought of the closing for three days.

At the end of the day prices were up 60 to 72 points for all old style contracts except July, which, mainly because of its technical position, rose only 22 points. The July option had enjoyed quite a rise the previous day. In the new style contracts the net improvement on the day ranged from 45 to 60 points.

Yesterday's quotations follow:

MARINE COMPANY DIVIDEND.

Payment of 10 Per Cent. to Go to Preferred Stock.

The International Mercantile Marine Company announced yesterday that the Directors had declared a 10 per cent. dividend out of net profits to apply on back dividends on the preferred stock, payable May 15 to stock of record May 1. This 10 per cent. dividend decreases the amount of accrued payments due on the preferred stock to 57 per cent.

The declaration was generally interpreted to mean that the Directors intend generally to decrease the accumulated payments on the preferred stock. On Aug. 1, 1917, 10 per cent. was declared to apply on back dividends on the preferred and on Feb. 1, 1918, a declaration of 5 per cent. for the same purpose was made.

To Open Branch in New Orleans.

A branch of the Mercantile Bank of the Americas is to be established shortly in New Orleans. The bank, like the parent institution in this city, will engage only in such forms of banking as will facilitate overseas business. Its aim will be to supplement the facilities already offered by the local financial institutions in the lower Mississippi Valley.

Prices Firm on Paris Bourse.

PARIS, April 17.—Prices were firm on the Bourse today. Three per cent. rentes, 62 francs 85 centimes for cash. Exchange on London, 28 francs. Five per cent. loan, 89 francs 90 centimes. The dollar ranged from 5 francs 97 centimes to 6 francs 6 centimes. The Bourse will be closed until next Tuesday.

FINANCIAL NOTES.

The Hog Island Shipyard has launched its twenty-third ship, the "Sebethe." It has delivered its tenth ship, the "Saugerties," to the Emergency Fleet Corporation and the eleventh and twelfth ships, the "Salunda" and the "Saco," respectively, have had successful trial trips.

The Continental Refining Company has declared a quarterly dividend of 3 per cent. on the common shares, thereby placing the stock on a 12 per cent. annual basis. Prior to last January the rate was 1 per cent. quarterly. The disbursement just announced is payable May 15 to holders of record April 30.

Albert Hirst has been elected to the Board of Directors of the Broadway Central Bank.

An extension of four months has been given to holders of installment receipts of the collateral trust 6 per cent. gold bonds, series "A," of the Chile Copper Company. Holders of the receipts who elect to extend the time for payment should surrender them at the Guaranty Trust Company on or before May 29. They will receive third extended installment receipts.

RAY CONSOLIDATED REPORT.

Year's Record Shows Deficit After Paying Dividends.

The pamphlet report of the Ray Consolidated Copper Comany for last year shows a deficit, after the payment of dividends, of $472,377, as compared with a surplus of $3,077,018 in 1917 and a surplus of more than double that amount in 1916. The total operating revenue last year was $19,209,811 and the net profit, after all charges and Federal taxes amounting to $1,436,621, was $4,653,455. Against this there were dividend payments of $5,125,832. The total surplus at the close of last year was $16,417,819.

The gross copper output was 86,919,270 pounds. The production cost was 17.695 cents a pound, as compared with 12.975 cents in 1917 and 9.948 cents in 1914. The price at which the year's production was carried on the books was 22.94 cents, but the average price was 24.71 cents. The report says that, while there are heavy stocks of copper in England, France, and Italy, the Central Powers and adjoining neutral powers are bare of copper. It is believed that there will be a heavy demand for copper from such quarters after the peace treaty is signed. The balance sheet of the company shows that the value of copper in transit is $4,067,781.

ALCOHOL STOCK SOLD.

American International Corporation Disposes of Large Holding.

After the annual meeting of the United States Industrial Alcohol Company yesterday it was learned that the resignation of William S. Kies and Richard P. Tinsley from the Board of Directors followed the sale of large holdings of Alcohol Company stock by the American International Corporation, which the International acquired late in 1917.

While the extent of American International Corporation's holdings of Industrial Alcohol shares and the price paid for them has not been made public, it is understood that the recent sale of the stock has netted the American International a substantial profit.

That the stock has been sold since the first of the present year is indicated by the 1918 report, which showed that both Mr. Kies and Mr. Tinsley were directors of the United States Industrial Alcohol Company as of December 31, 1918. H. H. Rogers and Oliver C. Jennings were elected Directors to succeed the retiring members.

Receivers for Chattanooga Company

CHATTANOOGA, April 17.—John Graham of Philadelphia and Percy Warner of Nashville were appointed receivers of the Chattanooga Railway and Light Company today by Federal Judge Sanford. The action was taken on the petition of the Commercial Trust Company of Philadelphia, which holds $650,000 bonds of the local company.

Resources Over $60,000,000.00
More than 100,000 deposit accounts

The State Bank, with its six branches, has over $20,000,000 of free money to lend to mercantile customers, and would appreciate the visit of good, live merchants who can use these extraordinary facilities to advantage.

The benefit of being connected with a progressive, successful and up-to-date institution, managed by young men, is demonstrated by the fact that 14,743 new accounts were opened during the first three months of this year.

The continued growth of our net deposits is significant:

BUYING OTIS STEEL CO.

William Salomon & Co. Negotiating for British-Owned Concern.

William Salomon & Co. are negotiating for the purchase of the Otis Steel Company, controlled by English interests and operating in Ohio. Elisha Walker, a member of the firm, has been abroad for some six weeks, and it is believed will return to this country next week, when the details of the transaction will be made known.

It was said at the offices of William Salomon & Co. yesterday that cable messages had been received from Mr. Walker relative to the pending deal, but that the actual situation could not be gathered from them owing to belated transmission. There was some speculation as to why Salomon & Co. should be purchasing the steel company. It was mentioned that Bethlehem Steel might be desirous of acquiring the company, but this failed of confirmation.

TO INSTRUCT INVESTORS.

Committee Named to Popularize Foreign Securities Here.

Lindsay Russell, Chairman of the Council on Foreign Relations, announced yesterday the appointment of a special committee to draft a plan for conducting an educational campaign looking to the popularizing of American investment in foreign securities. The committee, which is formed as the result of a resolution passed at a recent conference of the Council, is composed of the following: Herbert S. Houston, Chairman; Alfred I. Aiken, John J. Arnold, Collin Armstrong, C. L. Chandler, William H. Field, John G. Lonsdale, George Mallon, Jesse H. Neal, Lee Olwell, A. C. Pearson and Russell Whitman.

AUSTRALIAN TRADE GROWS.

Balance Against Her in Dealings with Us Is Narrowing.

MELBOURNE, April 16.—In the first eight months in 1918 Australian imports from the United States exceeded her exports to America by nearly $8,000,000, while in 1912 there was a balance of nearly $40,000,000 against Australia, A. W. Ferrin, the United States Commercial Attaché here, said in an address here today.

Mr. Ferrin said he believed the stream of trade would eventually balance. Australian exports in the future would be in wool, tin, hides, skins, and probably dairy products, while the imports from America would consist mostly of clothing, agricultural machinery, and machine tools. He said he was of the opinion that the new Australian tariff would be strongly protective, but that it would not have any serious effect on American imports.

CONSOLIDATED EXCHANGE

There was a firm tone to the market yesterday on the Consolidated Stock Exchange. Final quotations showed fractional net losses in a majority of the issues and substantial net gains in certain specialties. The standard industrials never fully recovered from the selling pressure at the outset, but they held firm with minor price fluctuations after the subsequent rally. Speculative interest continued to be centred in the industrial group. Railroad shares were fairly steady but quiet.

DATED MARCH, 6, 1919
AS AMENDED.

TO CREDITORS OF BAY STATE STREET RAILWAY COMPANY WHO HAVE PRESENTED, OR SHALL PRESENT, THEIR CLAIMS IN ACCORDANCE WITH THE PROVISIONS OF THE DECREE OF MARCH 11, 1919:

Notice is hereby given that creditors of Bay State Street Railway Company, who on the eleventh day of March, 1919, had presented, or who thereafter have presented or shall present, their claims in accordance with the provisions of Article Thirteenth of the decree entered on that date in the District Court of the United States for the District of Massachusetts in the Consolidated Cause, entitled The Archibald McNeil & Sons Company v. Bay State Street Railway Company, In Equity, No. 834, and who have claims subordinate in lien and inferior in equity to the Refunding First Mortgage, dated July 1, 1904, from Boston & Northern Street Railway Company to Adams Trust Company (American Trust Company, successor,) or to the Refunding First Mortgage dated July 1, 1904, from Old Colony Street Railway Company to Old Colony Trust Company, may, subject to such regulations and requirements not inconsistent with the provisions of said decree as the Reorganization Managers from time to time shall establish, participate in said plan and agreement by filing with Old Colony Trust Company, Boston, Mass., Depositary for that purpose, on or before April 18, 1919, or, in case of creditors who shall hereafter present their claims as aforesaid, within seven days after such presentation, a written declaration of their desire to participate in said plan and agreement accompanied by such data, information and assignments of their claims as shall be required by the Reorganization Managers, all in such form as shall be required by the Reorganization Managers, and upon the filing of such written declaration and other papers shall receive therefor certificates of deposit of said Depositary in form approved by the Reorganization Managers, upon the acceptance of which they shall be entitled to participate in and shall be bound by the provisions of such plan and agreement, subject, however, to the right of the Reorganization Managers in their discretion at any time, either before or after the acceptance of the assignment of any such claim or the issue of certificates of deposit in respect thereof, to require that such claim be judicially established or determined by arbitration as a condition precedent to participation or to further participation in said plan and agreement. No rights under such plan and agreement shall accrue in respect of any such claims unless so deposited. If any such claim is non-assignable, the holder thereof may, nevertheless, participate in said plan and agreement in the manner aforesaid, substituting for an assignment of the claim such other documents in respect thereof as the Reorganization Managers shall require.

For further information reference is made to said plan and agreement, particularly at pages 15 and 21. A copy of said plan and agreement will be sent upon application to the Old Colony Trust Company, Boston, Mass., Depositary.

Collateral Trust Six Per Cent.
Gold Bonds, Series A.

To the Holders of Second Extended Installment Receipts:

Notice is hereby given that the holders of Second Extended Installment Receipts are offered the privilege of extending the date of payment of the final installments on account of the purchase of this Company's Collateral Trust Gold Bonds, Series A, from May 29, 1919, (the date fixed in the Second Extended Receipt,) to September 29, 1919.

Holders of Second Extended Installment Receipts electing to extend the time of payment will surrender their Receipts at the office of Guaranty Trust Company of New York, 140 Broadway, New York City, on or before May 29, 1919, and at the time of such surrender or as soon thereafter as shall be practicable, will receive in exchange therefor THIRD EXTENDED INSTALLMENT RECEIPTS.

The Company will pay interest on the outstanding Receipts on May 29, 1919, and will continue to allow the holders of the new receipts interest at the rate of 6% per annum on the first installment of the purchase price of the Bonds.

The respective rights and obligations of the Company and of the new receipts shall be as stated in the Second Extended Installment Receipts now outstanding, except as necessarily modified by the further extension of the date for payment of the final installment thereon.

Holders of Second Extended Installment Receipts electing to pay the final installment on May 29, 1919, will receive the Bonds called for by their Receipts.

To receive the interest due May 29th, receipt holders must present to the Guaranty Trust Company "Ownership Certificates" as required by the Income Tax Law.

N. H. BACON'S NEW POST.

Chosen President of the Fur Auction Sales Corporation.

N. H. Bacon, who for more than fifteen years was Fur Trades Commissioner of the Hudson's Bay Company, with headquarters at Montreal, and who in this capacity became well known to the fur trade of the world, has been chosen President of the New York Fur Auction Sales Corporation, according to an announcement made here yesterday. During the war Mr. Bacon purchased all of the American and Canadian supplies, excepting munitions, used by the French Government, and during that time was the active director of a fleet of thirty ships assigned for the transport of these goods to France.

In his new capacity Mr. Bacon succeeds Charles S. Porter, who had been President of the corporation since its organization more than three years ago, and who now becomes Chairman of the Board of Directors. Mr. Bacon is now abroad in the interests of the corporation, of which he will become the active head, and is expected to assume his duties here some time during the Summer. O. G. Becker of Becker Bros. & Co. and David Steiner of Joseph Steiner & Brothers will continue as Vice Presidents of the corporation, and Edward M. Speer remains Treasurer. William Zobel will continue as General Manager.

Announcement was also made yesterday by the corporation that the Fur Auction here will begin on Oct. 13. The last day for receiving goods meant for the sale will be Sept. 30, and prompt day will be Nov. 10.

Argentine Agrarian Strike Grows.

BUENOS AIRES, April 17.—The strike of the agriculturists in Argentina is reaching alarming proportions, according to reports from the interior.

Suit Styles for Fall.

Although it is a little early yet for the women's suit manufacturers to say what will be featured for the Fall season, there are a few who are willing to venture a prediction or two. Among the better class houses it is believed that skirts will be fairly long and rather wide, giving plenty of freedom in walking. Suit coats, it is said, will be finger tip length. Draped effects will predominate, and that the manufacturers are agreed upon this is evident in their selection of materials that are easily draped. In colors, navy blue seems due for a revival.

Fine Unfinished Cottons Active.

An active demand for fine-yarn goods in the gray, particularly combed lawns, was reported here yesterday at sharply advancing prices. Practically all of the well-known constructions were moved up a quarter to a half-cent during the day. May-June deliveries of 88-80, 8.50s were sold at 17 cents in the morning, and in the late afternoon unconfirmed reports were current that they had been sold for similar shipment at 17½ cents. In the coarse-yarn goods there was a fair call for sheetings at very firm prices, but practically none of the sales of these cloths was said to be worthy of special comment. In the specialties the call for sateens and twills continued to be a feature.

Silverware Sales Are Large.

Neither heavy income tax payments nor the impost on luxuries has had the effect of lessening the business done by the leading silversmiths for the Easter season. For the first time since this country entered the war, the retailers have been preparing for Easter weddings in a normal way, and sales by wholesalers of wares suitable for gifts on occasions of this kind have been large. This merchandise is expected also to "go big" when the June matrimonial season arrives, the ending of the war doing away with the need of the hasty weddings of the last two years and allowing these functions in a great measure to drop back into the periods of the year that were established by prewar customs.

Credit Men Elect Officers.

The following were elected officers of the Associated Retail Credit Men of New York, Inc., at a meeting held in the Bush Terminal Sales Building: President, David J. Price of W. & J. Sloane; Vice President, Joseph B. Auerbach of Bloomingdale Bros., Inc.; Secretary, John M. Connolly of Crichton Bros.; Treasurer, Charles H. Dahmer of the Fifth Avenue Bank; and Directors: Le Roy T. Pease, James K. Cuddy, Edward E. Thompson, William T. Simmons, W. H. J. Taylor, Louis M. Friend, George Waterford and Arthur L. Zaduk. The membership of the organization to date is 220.

Raw Silk Prices Stronger.

Late reports from Yokohama place the raw silk market on the price basis of 1,530 yen for Sinshiu No. 1, or a rise of 20 yen over the recent quotation there. Stocks on hand are getting light, now being estimtaed at about 12,000 bales. At Canton the rising silver exchange is helping to stiffen prices, with sellers' views more bullish than they recently were. This situation particularly affects the silks that are being offered for May-June shipment. At Shanghai prices also are stronger. Not only has the rise in Japanese "raws" helped the sale of steam filatures at good prices, but Japanese buying of tussahs there has brought about higher prices for those silks as well. Lyons reports increased market activity and better prices. At Milan the sharp decline in lire exchange may bring the cost of these silks to a point that will interest American buyers again. Local demand is good for all deliveries through the next three months at advancing prices, with premiums being paid for choice and special lots.

Taffeta in Summer Millinery

Taffeta has certainly come into its own this season as a millinery material. Not for many years has there been as much of it used in this way. It is by far the most popular combination with straw, being used for crowns, as well as for upper and lower facings. Large bows of taffeta are being used to considerable extent on some of the newest models. In the new hats for Summer wear this material is taking a leading place, and is being made use of both in solid colors and changeable effects. Of the solid colors navy and black are the leading shades in taffeta chapeaux, the popularity of navy being especially marked.

Easter Shoppers Busy.

With only three days left to fill Easter needs, the showery aspect yesterday did not discourage the shopping public from doing its bit. Even during the noon hour the local stores were well filled, a good part of the crowd being made up of persons from out of town. While the ready-to-wear departments were apparently the most actively patronized, a large business was done in gloves, hosiery, handkerchiefs, millinery, shoes, &c. One of the features was said to be the amount of buying being done in the notions departments, the purchases there including needles, tapes, buttons, and other materials that go into garments made at home.

Print Cloths Still Going Up.

Every day seems to bring new price levels to the gray goods market, especially where printcloths are concerned. Active trading was in evidence yesterday for deliveries ranging all the way from spot to July. Among the sales of wide goods were 39-inch 68-72s at 12¾ cents, 39-inch 80 squares at 17 cents, and 39-inch 72-76s at 14½ cents. The last-named construction, at the price given, is regarded by some traders as the "best buy" now in the market, and, based on the price paid for 80 squares, is said to be a full cent low. Active trading on this construction is looked for in consequence. Other printcloth business done during the day included 38½-inch 64-60s at 11¼ cents.

Sweater Prospects Good.

Although the demand for women's sweaters is suffering something of a slump at the present time, prospects in the trade are regarded as good. The manufacturers seem to feel that too many women have learned to knit to make business at present exceptionally good for them. However, it is quite generally believed that the fad of knitting will die out and, in fact, it has waned considerably in popularity. Despite unfavorable conditions, the demand is passing fair. Slip-on models, the season's novelty, have slightly the better of the demand, but coat styles have done fairly well. Brushed wool effects seem to have the popular call.

Labor Problems of Cotton Men.

"Labor Problems in Peace Times" has been chosen as the general subject for a group discussion by those in attendance at the convention of the National Association of Cotton Manufacturers in this city next week. Dr. Hollis Godfrey of the Drexel Institute, Philadelphia, will speak on "Training the Worker for the New Era," and Henry P. Kendall of Boston will discuss "American Industry's Biggest Problem—Suggested Methods for Its Solution."

All-Around Blouses Favored.

The two types of blouses on which business is being placed in volume at present are the front panel and the all-around style, with the latter generally judged the favorite. Those that fall just below the waist are getting the best of the demand, it is said, though the similarity of the panel effect to the waistcoat has been a large item in its popularity. Handkerchief linen, net, and the crêpe silks are the materials proving most attractive to buyers.

BUSINESS RECORDS

In Town.

THE WEATHER.

WASHINGTON, April 17.—Pressure is still moderately low in the lake region, the Middle Atlantic States, and New England, and rains continued from the upper Mississippi eastward. Over the central portion of the country pressure is moderately high, while in the extreme Northwest and West it is low, with a pronounced disturbance over Northern Alberta.

There was no other precipitation except in the North Pacific States, including Northern California.

It is cooler in the lower lake region, the upper Ohio Valley, and the South, with temperatures from 5 to 17 degrees below the seasonal average, while to the westward, except in the North Pacific States, temperatures have risen considerably and are now much above the seasonal average in the Rocky Mountain and plateau regions.

Except for scattered rains Friday in Northern New England and on Saturday in the north upper lake region, the weather will be fair Friday and Saturday in the lake region, the Ohio Valley, the East and South.

It will be warmer Friday and Saturday in the upper lake region, the Ohio Valley, Tennessee, the East Gulf, and the interior of the South Atlantic States, and warmer Saturday in the Middle Atlantic States.

Winds for Friday and Saturday along the North Atlantic Coast will be moderate shifting, with unsettled weather; Middle Atlantic Coast, moderate, mostly northwest and west, unsettled Friday, fair Saturday; South Atlantic Coast, moderate southwest and west, except gentle east off the Florida Coast, fair.

FORECAST—TODAY AND SATURDAY.

Eastern New York—Unsettled Friday; Saturday, fair; warmer in the western portion.

Southern New England—Unsettled Friday; Saturday, fair; somewhat warmer in eastern Massachusetts.

New Jersey—Cloudy Friday; Saturday, fair; slightly warmer in the interior.

Western New York—Unsettled Friday; Saturday, fair and warmer.

Eastern Pennsylvania—Partly cloudy Friday; Saturday, fair and slightly warmer.

Northern New England—Local rains Friday; Saturday, probably fair.

The temperature record for the twenty-four hours ended at 11 P. M., taken from the thermometer at the local office of the United States Weather Bureau, is as follows:

WANT APARTMENTS KEPT OFF FIFTH AV.

Association Starts Campaign Against Erection of Any More in Residence District.

SAY THEY CUT LAND VALUES

Beauty of Famous Thoroughfare Threatened by High Buildings, Says Michael Dreicer.

With the resumption of building operations following the wartime slump, the Fifth Avenue Association is planning to wage a vigorous campaign to prevent any more large apartment houses being erected in the residential part of Fifth Avenue. A meeting of the Board of Directors was held yesterday in the Bankers' Club, at which a special committee was named to inaugurate and carry on the fight. Elbert H. Gary was selected as one of the members, and Michael Dreicer, President of Dreicer & Co., as its Chairman.

"If the building of these huge, unsightly structures continues the most famous avenue in America will be ruined as a street of beautiful and exclusive residences," Mr. Dreicer said at a meeting held later in the afternoon by the special committee at the headquarters of the Fifth Avenue Association, 542 Fifth Avenue. "When the construction of one of these apartments commences the value of adjacent land and properties immediately goes down, in many cases as much as 50 per cent.

"As members of the Fifth Avenue Association, we are anxious to see the beauty and fame of this avenue retained, but our interest is from a civic and not a mercenary point of view, for we are not the land owners concerned. The financial concern is theirs, and we should like to have them, and all others who are interested in the preservation of the avenue, communicate with us and join the fight. After all, it is a matter in which the people of the city at large should take great interest, for every New Yorker is directly concerned.

"What we hope to accomplish is to have the Board of Estimate rule that no building of more than 75 feet in height shall be constructed on Fifth Avenue between Fifty-ninth and Ninetieth Streets, with the same regulation for the side streets between Fifth and Madison Avenues in this sector. The association however, has attempted to accomplish this before; and it cannot be accomplished without public support and real public effort."

Mr. Dreicer said the fact that the law permits construction of high apartments on Fifth Avenue affords real estate men an opportunity virtually to blackmail owners of expensive private homes on the avenue, in that the former were able to purchase adjoining or nearby property and then threaten to erect apartments unless a high price were paid for the land concerned by those most interested in escaping the immediate presence of an apartment.

Lawson Purdy, formerly Vice Chairman of the Zoning Commission, attended the conference as an adviser and said that the commission would have recommended limiting the heights of buildings in this section several years ago had the property owners concerned taken an interest in the matter.

One case cited was that of a corner where there is a project under way to erect a twelve-story apartment next door to a handsome residence and opposite another. He predicted that it would play havoc with the values of the properties, one of which was valued at about $2,500,000.

A mass meeting of protest is planned if the public shows an inclination to aid the association in the fight.

7 Days' Delay in Cables to Japan.

The Commercial Cable Company announced yesterday that the cable to Japan was now working well, but, owing to the great volume of traffic cablegrams were seven days behind in both directions. Cablegrams to the Philippines and China are only accepted subject to indefinite delay. The Guam-Manila cable is still broken.

STRIKE ON THE B. R. T. IS OFF INDEFINITELY

Vote Taken at Meeting on Hearing Report of Committee That Visited Judge Mayer.

LEADERS TO SEE GOV. SMITH

Union Men Told They Are Safe in Jobs—Tower and Signal Men Win Pay Increase.

The unionized workers of the Brooklyn Rapid Transit System held another meeting in Arcadia Hall, Brooklyn, last night to hear the report of a committee which represented them at a conference with Federal Judge Julius M. Mayer on Wednesday and after being told of Judge Mayer's attitude, the meeting voted to postpone the projected strike indefinitely. There was opposition to this on the part of a few who still shouted for a strike, but they were told to sit down by the majority of the audience.

In addition to the committee's report, a telegram from Governor Smith was read. It was as follows:

> James Sheridan, 1,713 Gates Avenue, Brooklyn:
> I earnestly hope you can delay action in the Brooklyn strike matter until we have had an opportunity to talk it over. Communicate with me.
> ALFRED E. SMITH, Governor.

To See Governor Today.

P. J. O'Brien, Vice-President of the Amalgamated Union, announced that he would go to Albany accompanied by Frank Morrison, Secretary of the American Federation of Labor, William D. Mahon, and William Collins of the Amalgamated for a conference with the Governor today.

James H. Vahey, counsel for the Amalgamated, reported on the conference with Judge Mayer. He said the Judge had advised postponement and had said that the union men were safe in their jobs and had a right to continue organizing. It was announced that efforts would now be made to organize 100 per cent. of the workers of the system.

The meeting last night was much more pacific in nature than any of the recent ones, and was not attended by the full number of unionized workers. When it opened only a few hundred were present. This number gradually grew to about 2,000.

Union leaders still talked of a strike yesterday afternoon, notwithstanding the announcement from the B. R. T. offices that the tower and signal men had won an increase in wages and that an agreement had been reached with Receiver Garrison bringing the wages of the signalmen up to the scale paid similar employes on the Interborough. The increase represents only one cent an hour, but this was accepted by the committee.

Certain other concessions were made by the receiver, chiefly in regard to seniority rules. An eight-hour day had been the rule of the signalmen and no change of hours was necessary.

Garrison's Letter to Judge Mayer.

Mr. Garrison made public yesterday afternoon a letter he had sent to Judge Mayer acknowledging receipt of the typewritten report of the conference held in Judge Mayer's chambers in the Woolworth Building on Wednesday with members of the Executive Committee of the Amalgamated local. The letter follows:

> April 17, 1919.
> Hon. Julius M. Mayer, United States District Judge, Woolworth Building, New York City.
> My Dear Judge Mayer: I received the typewritten copy of the statement made by you to the visiting committee yesterday. In respect to the information you desire I reply as follows:
> You were, of course, right in stating that I meant exactly what I said in my circular letter of March 11, and no man will be discharged who does not deserve discharge by a breach of discipline, and, of course, no man will be discharged because he chooses to join a labor or other organization.
> I have recently made an order applicable in all departments, that no man who happens to belong to a union shall be discharged for any cause, unless I am consulted and approve such action.
> In respect to the complaints of individuals as to improper treatment of their personal grievances, I propose to supplement the existing agencies for investigation and determination by providing an appeal immediately to myself. I will provide that whenever the existing agencies have been fully appealed to and the man desires to do so, he may have his case brought directly to me before final action is taken thereon. I will, of course, give him a full, fair, and impartial hearing and decision.
> It seems to me that this meets the situation in a rational way and assures all concerned of justice and fairness. Sincerely yours,
> LINDLEY M. GARRISON,
> Receiver.

Over 11,000 of Them—The Biggest Display of Its Kind in All New York

$18.50, $21.50, $26.50, up to $45

YOU SAVE $5 TO $20

If the best makers in the land got together and exhibited their products under one roof where everybody could come and see them at one time, such a place would be a duplicate of GEORGES, the Shop of Famous Clothes for Men.

The $5 and $20 worth of extra value stands out all over them, plain as day. That's because we have done away with extravagant ground-floor operating methods and built up a business that is probably second to none of its kind in New York City.

All the newest patterns in 1, 2 and 3 button sack and waistline models.

The rent collector no longer takes $65,000 a year away from us, as he did when we operated our former three Greater New York street-floor stores. We pay only $7,500 yearly rental for our present mammoth second-floor shop. There's a handsome saving there!

What's more, we have to suffer no credit losses — and nary a middleman enjoys a profit from us, for we buy directly for cash. That's why we can "land" $5 to $20 savings in your pocket when you buy your clothes here.

Easter and Good Clothes

We have anticipated this Easter with as much zest as you have. What a wardrobe we have assembled!

Thousands of suits—all of them good suits. The waist seam clothes particularly. New York can't seem to get enough of them.

There are single and double breasted variations with clever pocket innovations and smart lapels; a bit of waistiness emphasizes their deep-chested styling; the fabrics are beautiful.

Hats

Naturally, you'll want a new hat to do justice to your new Hart Schaffner & Marx Spring Suit. That means a Stetson or Wallach Hat. Stetson Hats,—$7, $8, $10 and up. Wallach Hats, $2.50, $3.50 and $5.

Haberdashery

Good taste reveals itself in many guises in our furnishings departments. Shirts, Scarfs, Gloves, Hosiery and other Easter accessories in luxurious profusion. Come in and browse around. You will find many values as tempting as the goods are beautiful.

Cutaway Frocks

Comes Easter and cutaways have the call. Every recurrence of the joyous season seems to emphasize the changeless perfection of the cutaway frock, which some people have rechristened "daylight full dress." Coat and vest, $38 and $48. Striped trousers to go with them.
